

Spy charges continue to haunt Council

The Virginia Beach City Council is having trouble shedding itself of the police "spying" controversy.

Next week another chapter will unfold when John X. Aragona appears before Council. That will make the fourth Council meeting in a row when various attempts to revive the subject have been made, not to mention numerous other sessions last year when the allegations of police spying on Virginia Beach citizens with Italian surnames were first made.

Following Monday's Council meeting, Aragona said that he is still being followed and has taken license numbers to prove it. He said he plans to take a lie detector test and have the results with him when he approaches Council next week.

Aragona's father, John A. Aragona, a prominent builder and contractor, recently settled out of court a suit against the police officers accused of spying and maintaining files on Beach citizens.

Although some councilmen seem to think the settlement ended the police spying question, apparently nothing has been settled in the minds of some of the people involved.

Kenneth Paul, a former police detective and one of the Virginia Beach police officers who made the original allegations of police spying, appeared before City Council, because it was the "only recourse" he had to clear his name. He said that he had given his original statement to City Manager George L. Hanbury with the understanding that it not be made public, but the City did make the statement public and caused him to be ridiculed. He claimed he was not fired from the Police Department. "If I was fired, why was I given five letters of recommendation? He even took a polygraph test, he said but for his efforts in disclosing information on police spying, he 'lost a job.' For the past year I have not been able to find work. I have been ridiculed and called a liar in public... I can't see any harm in having a grand jury investigation."

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing asked, "Can you shed any light on the reason why Aragona dropped the case?"

Paul said he couldn't but that the younger Aragona was in the Council chambers.

Councilman Robert B. Cromwell, Jr. had remarked at a previous council meeting that it was too bad that the case was not pursued to its completion in court, that this was the best way to settle the problem.

Following the meeting, Aragona said that his family had understood that if the suit were dropped their interests would be protected administratively.

There was some controversy among Council members over whether to allow Paul to speak at all Monday. Mayor Clarence A. Holland insisted that if the suit were dropped their interests would be protected administratively.

There was some controversy among Council members over whether to allow Paul to speak at all Monday. Mayor Clarence A. Holland insisted that there was no need for the Council to hear the same things over and over again. He referred to Paul's "statement," and said he did not think it should come before Council.

Councilman J. Henry McCoy, Jr., said "I find it hard to pass judgment if I don't know what you're talking about."

Councilman John A. Baum, said "I don't think anything new is being presented."

"I have no other recourse," Paul said. "I'm not talking about being fired."

Councilman R.L. Riggs said that "as far as our job is to represent people, we should hear it."

His remark was greeted with applause from spectators who had shortly before complained to Council about police brutality.

"I have no problem with hearing anything from any citizen," McCoy said.

Riggs and McCoy had both made attempts at previous meetings to determine the truth of the allegations, McCoy through an investigation by a "blue ribbon" committee of citizens and Riggs through an investigation by the Internal Affairs Committee of the Police Department. Neither attempt succeeded. Riggs renewed his efforts last week, but Council took no action.

Byerly Publications are involved

Community involvement is one of the key themes of Byerly Publications community newspapers, and that kind of involvement is being demonstrated in a major subscription-circulation campaign announced this week for the Chesapeake POST and the Virginia Beach SUN.

To kick off what will be a continuing community group effort, the newspapers have called on two of the largest and most effective student groups in the cities of Chesapeake and Virginia Beach.

"The high school band associations in Virginia Beach and the Distributive Education Clubs (DECA) in every Chesapeake high school are now selling one-year mail subscriptions to their friends and neighbors," according to Kenneth F. Carley, general manager for Byerly Publications Tidewater Group.

"And for their participation, they'll reap some fine rewards," Carley said. "The students will receive $3 in cash commissions for every subscription they sell. And there's a $1,000 bonus for every 1,000 orders they turn in. That represents a substantial contribution to the treasures of these organizations."

Subscriptions to the weekly papers are $6.50 for the POST, $7 for the SUN.

"The program really can mean thousands of dollars in support of the activities of these young people," Carley said, "and that's a plus for the entire community."

"The papers gain readers and the students earn money for their projects. We're boosting the schools and clubs in our areas, they become stronger and more active, and we can take our news and features to more and more people. Everybody benefits."

The dollars are already starting to roll in for the Chesapeake DECA Clubs. Great Bridge turned in several hundred dollars after their first outing. Other high schools involved are Oscar Smith, Western Branch, Indian River and Deep Creek.

Plans for the Virginia Beach school groups (whose program is actually run through the parent associations) are being finalized this week, and salesmen will soon be taking sales pads in hand. Participating groups include Plaza, Jockey High and Princess Anne, Cox, Bayside, Kellam, Kempsville and First Colonial High Schools.

Driving woes? Tell commission

If you have been cursing under your breath while sitting in stalled traffic on the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway and have wanted to tell someone what you think about the tie-ups, clear your throat!

The Expressway Study Commission, chaired by Delegate Glenn B. McCluskey, will meet at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 14 in the Norfolk City Council Chambers.

The commission is specifically seeking comment from citizens on:

--Ways in which the designs of the ramps and the traffic flow from them can be improved.

--Areas in which the Expressway itself should be widened or otherwise improved.

--Ideas for improving the design of the intersection at I-64, I-264 and the expressway, west of Newtown Road.

--Central toll plans can be improved.

--Should commuter rates be established?

--Thoughts as to the best commuter rate system to use, how the books of tickets, tokens or windshield stickers should be purchased, etc.

--Means by which the Expressway can be included in the interstate system.

First doses coming

Swine flu inoculations expected in November

By STEVE STONE
SUN News Editor

It appears that the much-burdened "swine flu" inoculation program may be back on the track again in Tidewater following a long delay precipitated largely by Congressional inaction.

The first doses of vaccine have arrived in Virginia and will be in the Tidewater area this week. These will be the first doses designed for high risk persons—those 65 years of age and over and others with chronic diseases.

Mass clinics will probably be underway by mid-November. A regional health spokesman said Monday afternoon that there would probably be a final schedule announced in "two to three weeks."

The same spokesman also indicated that current hopes are to complete the entire mass immunization prior to Thanksgiving.

The Tidewater Red Cross is maintaining lists of volunteers to help administer the shots. They reported Monday that they were ready to move, but that more help could be used.

The program bogged down nationally when Congress delayed approval of legislation removing the burden of liability from the four independent manufacturers who are making the vaccine on a non-profit basis.

An irony of the final passage of that legislation was the so-called "Legionnaires disease" in Philadelphia which spurred Congress to emergency action on the swine flu program. Fears that the life-costly infection in Philadelphia might be the "swine" spark the fast passage of the bill, but later it was determined that the still unknown killer was not a viral infection.

If the program does get underway on the projected dates in Tidewater, it is expected that any possible epidemic will be avoided.

But many doctors in the Chesapeake and Virginia Beach question the need for national inoculation. Most preferred, to remain unimmunized, but the consensus seemed to be that the program was dubious at best, ridiculous at worst. Some questioned possible political considerations that may have been made in announcing the Ford-sponsored program.

Others said they supported the program fully, noting that it is better to give shots and later find they were not needed than to not have the program and lose thousands of lives.

Many doctors and most public health officials in Tidewater were confused about delays in the program which have upset findable by as much as 6-8 weeks.

Dr. William Crawford of the Virginia Beach Health Department said several weeks ago that "manufacturers pulled the throttle" until Congress acted to accept liability and that while production continued at a modest rate, it was cut severely and "kept quiet." At the time he spoke with the POST and SUN newspapers no new time tables were available, and Crawford said the potential for a health emergency did exist the longer inoculation was delayed. The cold weather months which are now arriving are the traditional flu season.

Betty Hooper, a spokeswoman for the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., told Byerly Publications that there was, in fact, a 74.3 per cent drop from the amount of vaccine originally expected for this region.

A letter dated Aug. 31 addressed to one of the vaccine manufacturers, Merk & Sharp & Dohme of West Point, Penn., from the Secretary of Health Education and Welfare, confirmed the drop in available vaccine.

Referring to an Oct. 1 delivery date, the secretary said he had only that day been informed of the substantial drop. He urged the company to examine its delivery capabilities to see if steps could be taken to deliver more vaccine earlier.

It appears that a breakdown in communications occurred. Spokesmen for the companies maintain that the government was kept informed every step of the way relative to delays and problems. But the government agencies involved indicated that they were "among the last to know."

A spokesman for the Pennsylvania firm explained that most delays were not planned and that production had actually been on the increase from very start. He said that problems developed when it was found that about only half as much vaccine can be produced from each egg used. (Swine flu vaccine is cultured in whole eggs.)

Other delays came in the packaging of the bulk vaccine into individual doses for shipment.

It is felt that the delays, according to a state health department official, will not be dangerous.

Little Theatre opens with 'Once Upon A Mattress'

The musical comedy, "Once Upon A Mattress," will open the 24th season of The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach Friday, Oct. 8.

Directed by Steve K. Malik with musical direction by Ina Mirman Lederer, this production aims for the fairy tail of "The Princess and the Pea," will run Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. with two matinees at 3 p.m. Sunday's Oct. 10 and 17, through Oct. 23.

Season tickets will be available at the box office as well as single admissions at $3.75 adults, $3 students.

Reservations may be made by calling 428-5523. Set in France in the 14th century, the story revolves around the search for a true princess who is able to measure up to impossible, and highly improbable standards, set by a shrill and dominating Queen Aggravain for her too well beloved son, Prince Dauntless "the Drab."

When a bisterous princess called "Fred" appears, the kingdom is in for a few surprises. This fastidiously and colorful fantasy was Broadway hit and television special starring Carol Burnett. It is fun for the whole family.

Heading up a large dancing chorus of knights and ladies will be Mary Daniels as Queen Aggravain and Carl Hansen as the silent "skit" character King Sertimus.

Joyce Constance appears as Princess Winifred who actively pursues the play of Prince Dauntless, handled by Denny Martland. The young Lady Larkin and her lover, Sir Harry, are portrayed by area teachers Ina Lederer and Jim Craft.

Henry Highton, Jeff Powell and Stan Klemm have roles of the wizard, minstrel, and jester who contrive the tricks of "Once Upon A Mattress."

Police brutality charged

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Charges of police brutality and harassment of members of a Virginia Beach family were thrust on Council Monday afternoon as a young man related her "terrible experience with the police department."

Mrs. Joseph Houska, of 504 San Marco Court, said that on Saturday, Aug. 1, at 9 a.m., a police officer came to her door to arrest her for failure to appear in court on a dog-at-large charge.

The dog, a golden retriever, belongs to her husband who is vice president of Union Brick Company. Mrs. Houska said she had reminded her husband to pay the fine, but he forgot.

Mrs. Houska related the incident as follows:

She was wearing nothing but a thin nightgown when the officer arrived. She told the officer, W.E. Bailey, that she would have to dress first and started to close the door. Bailey, however, pushed his way in and said he wasn't taking his eyes off her until he got her to the station.

When she went to the powder room to feed her 15-month old child, the police officer pulled a gun on Mrs. Houska who weighs 105 pounds. At this point, her brother W.J. Chaplain entered with a friend George Bourassa. Seeing a man with a gun on his sister, he grabbed him from behind. Bailey dropped his gun which was picked up by Mrs. Houska. Fearing the police man intended to shoot her brother, Mrs. Houska ran toward a neighbor's home, but ran into a second officer, C.J. Telft to whom she handed the gun. Telft, in turn, pulled out his gun, and they proceeded back into the house. In the meantime, Mrs. Suzanne Goldstick, Mrs. Houska's sister, had arrived to take care of the children. In the course of an altercation in which the Chaplains were trying to protect each other from police, Mrs. Houska, Mrs. Goldstick and Bourassa who had "done nothing," sustained injuries for which they were treated at a hospital later in the day and released.

On Sept. 3 in General District Court on charges connected with the incident, Judge C. A. Spassolito sentenced the three members of the Chaplain family and Bourassa to 12 months and 10 days in jail suspended on payment of fines. Houska was fined $500; Bourassa, $350; Chaplain $350; and Mrs. Goldstick $100.

The verdicts have been appealed. R. Wilson Chaplain, father of the three involved in the incident, is a motel owner who has had disagreements with the city before. He charged "Bill (Police Chief W.W.) and Dick (Police Maj. R.C.) Davis with 'putting them (the

Council acts

A new amendment to the Virginia Beach Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance increases the maximum density and height allowances in the B-4 Resort Commercial District.

By a vote of 10-1 (Councilman Meyers Oberdorff dissenting) City Council recently approved the amendment which increases the maximum number of units allowed on one acre in B-4 zoned property from 80 to 120 units and the maximum height from 75 feet to 100 feet, subject to a use permit.

The change paved the way for approval of a conditional use permit to John Perros and Jerry N. Remeis, partners trading as P&R Enterprises, for construction of 47 additional motel units on a .82 acre parcel. A 32-unit facility, Mardi Gras Motel, is already located on the site so that the total number of units will come to 79.

To make way for the new motel, the Beach Home has been demolished and a two-story home also will be raised.

In other actions, Council:

- Accepted an award on behalf of the Virginia Bicentennial Spruce Up Campaign. The certificate of appreciation was awarded to the city by the governor.

- Accepted an award from Dr. Julian B. Shore of the Tidewater Regional Blood Center for the city's participation in the blood drive.

- Granted a conditional use permit to Ronald L. K. and Gayle E. Flynn for a conditional use permit for a home occupation (custom made dresses) at 1400 Lord Harrison Court in the Woods of Avlon area, Kempville Borough.

- Deferred for a week the resolution ordinance pertaining to septic tanks which permits construction tanks on lots of three acres or more under certain conditions.

- Appropriated $44,647 to state and federal grants to the Library Department. Of the total, $51,114 represents state aid and $15,533, federal aid.

- Appropriated $40,500 from line fees for payments to the Hampton Roads Sanitation District Commission and as additional interest payment for construction of the Virginia Beach Loop System. During last fiscal year, the city appropriated $309,500 in interest payments.

- Approved listing of the Bank of Virginia Beach as a depository for city funds.

- Continued a request of the Law Department and Judiciary concerning an ordinance pertaining to anti-bird and owl, which reduces the harshness of the code in relation to vicious animals. The present ordinance requires destruction of the animal.

- Approved a Department of Highways and Transportation request for a resolution covering utility adjustments on the Birdneck Road project.

- Approved refund of $447.95 in taxes and business license refunds.

- Approved for one month the agreement among the ATE Management and Service Company, the City of Norfolk and the City of Virginia Beach by which the city received bus services from Tidewater Metro Transit.

- Approved standard wage agreements for Windsor Oaks West, Section V, Kempsville Borough.

- Granted bingo/raffle permits to Women of St. Luke's Methodist Church, St. Andrew United Methodist Church, Bayside High School Band Parents Association and Operation Friendship, Inc.

- Deferred for one week action on a variance requested by residents of the East Bay Shore Road area to leave the road as it is (20 feet

Charles Allain follows in father's footsteps

By MIKE SCHANZER

If history repeats itself, the J. C. Penney store at Military Circle Mall in Norfolk may see a young Navyman, Charles Allain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J.

father's footsteps. He's doing well so far. Petty Officer Allain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J.

Allain Sr., of 2765 Murray Ave., Norfolk, was re-listed in the U.S. Navy by his father, who retired with rank of Lieutenant commander after 25 years of naval service. The elder Allain is storeman manager at J. C. Penney.

Allain, 24, is a second class aviation structural mechanic (metalsmith), currently assigned to Fighter Squadron (VF) 43, flying from Ocean Naval Air Station in Virginia Beach.

A 1970 graduate of North Chicago High School, North Chicago, Ill., Charles Allain joined the Navy in 1972. "I credit my dad just a little for my decision. I liked what I saw of the Navy, and at that time I had just gotten married. Times were a little rough on the outside, so I felt that it was a good idea to join the Navy."

After choosing the Navy, Allain's next choice was to become an aviation structural mechanic. "The Navy gave me a choice, so I decided to become a metalsmith. My dad was a metalsmith when he served as an enlistment man, so that may have subconsciously influenced me in making my choice."

Recipient of a pair of squadron awards for outstanding performance, Allain and his wife Kathy agree that a Navy career is in their future.

The elder Allain commented, "I'm really very proud of him. While I was still in the Navy, his feelings towards the service were mostly negative, but that was common with most young people. When he finally had to make the decision to join, he made it on his own."

"According to what I heard from his superior, his work is outstanding."

Praising for a moment, the senior Allain reflected, "The next time I administer the oath to him I'd also like to pass my sword on to him. Hopefully, he'll try for a commission and become a naval officer."

Allain, his wife and six-month old son Matthew Joseph reside at 315 Rosemont Rd., Virginia Beach.

Who knows? Maybe 18 or so years from now, there'll be another Allain joining the J.C. Penney Family, and then another, and then...

Commander Jack Holland (left) explains the purpose and mission of Fighter Squadron (VF) 43 to Charles Allain Sr. (right) as the junior Allain follows in his father's footsteps.

Increased demand

Well testing speeded up

An accelerated program to drill groundwater test wells in the Tidewater area was initiated last week when the State Water Control Board began construction of a test well at Virginia Beach.

The board, which has already had four test wells drilled in the area by private contractors, is planning to have 14 wells constructed in the next two years by board employees using agency-owned equipment.

Increased demand for and concern about groundwater for public and industrial use have spurred the program.

Because of increased use, groundwater levels in southeastern Virginia have been declining. Also, increased use of groundwater in other areas could be causing salty groundwater from coastal zones to move westward, degrading fresh groundwater quality.

Information obtained from test wells will be used to determine availability of groundwater in Tidewater and to manage groundwater use by public and industries. In addition, data will aid in delineating saline groundwater zones and preventing further groundwater contamination.

The well at Virginia Beach is expected to provide information on availability and quality of groundwater, geology and number of aquifers and the groundwater levels in the area. It will also offer students from Yemen operations on-the-job training in drilling and testing during construction.

The students are attending J. Sargent Reynolds Community College in Richmond under a grant from the U. S. State Department.

Information obtained from test wells in Virginia and North Carolina is being used by a cooperative interstate committee for management of groundwater in the eastern portion of both states.

Construction now underway at new Beach CBN center

Heavy construction has begun on the Christian Broadcasting Network's international communications center in Virginia Beach.

The center will serve as a world communications headquarters for Christian radio and television programming and as a school and study center for persons from around the globe planning on making broadcasting a career.

CBN President, Dr. M. G. "Pat" Robertson and several hundred well-wishers and members of the CBN staff joined at the site in Virginia Beach for a dedication and prayer service to mark the beginning of construction on the center.

The first buildings due for construction include the headquarters building, and the satellite earth station, which will enable the network to send and receive satellite transmissions around the world.

Also included at the site will be school and campus facilities for the school of Communications, language translation facilities, television and radio studios, an international conference center and auditorium, school dormitories, administrative facilities, a school of theology and other facilities.

Heart of the headquarters complex will be a large circular prayer room, and an international counseling center to receive and answer calls from around the globe.

The headquarters building will be in the shape of a cross, with the prayer room at the center of the cruciform.

The network, which is best-known for its nationally-syndicated "700 Club" radio and television program, recently produced the "It's Time to Pray, America" broadcast seen on 228 television stations and heard on 300 radio stations in the United States and broadcast around the globe on American Forces Radio and Television Network. That daily prayer campaign for America will continue in progress until the elections.

Sam Clay: at center stage, but without a spotlight

By STEVE STONE
SUN News Editor

He sees "The Press" everyday, makes statements on important issues of the city, is at the center of activity, and is almost unknown to the average citizen.

Until now, anyway.

known simply as "Sam," is assistant to the city manager for public information and human resources.

The title may seem impressive, and responsibilities that it carries are beautiful, but it is Sam Clay himself who is impressive.

Tall and trim, at 31 Sam is an athletic looking MGA whose real interests are in the arts, though he does like basketball.

Sam always has a friendly smile and a strong handshake for the many people who visit him daily in his municipal center office just doors down from City Manager George Hanbury's.

Coming to Virginia Beach in 1967, Sam had just completed his graduate work at the University of North Carolina earning his M.S. in Library Science. But he was already familiar with his new home. His family and several other neighborhood families in his childhood home of Blackstone came to Virginia Beach every year for vacation. "The second and third weeks in July were Virginia Beach time... I learned to swim here and I made sandcastles," Clay adds with a hearty laugh.

Students at Virginia Wesleyan College in Virginia Beach knew Sam Clay as the librarian at their college, but he was only there three years before taking his first city job as director of public libraries.

In years following, titles changed and his responsibilities grew.

Aiding the press

"I like that the press," says Clay of working with the press, "that's the most interesting part." He views his job as not simply being a spokesman for the city, but rather a contact for reporters. "An initial contact. If a reporter is trying to track down a rumor or check a fact, they can start with me first... I don't know everything, but I know where to get it," explains Sam. Quite often his time is spent in just such activity. Often a reporter finds that his best lead on any story will come from Clay who can put the reporter in touch with the people he needs.

This, of course, means that Clay must keep abreast of every activity in the city. In fact, next to the city manager, Sam Clay probably knows more about Virginia Beach than any other public servant or employee.

"You learn something everyday," he says. "I read all about the city, most of the time." And he keeps himself aware of the news being generated about the city. "That's why we read the 'New York Times' and the 'Washington Post' as well as all the local papers. We watch all television local news and listen to the radio too."

With three major television news outlets serving the city, two of which "air" local news in the same time slot, one might think keeping up is impossible. But Clay has help. "I'll watch upstairs and my wife (Linda) will watch downstairs and then we'll brief each other."

Credibility a must

How does Clay view his duties and responsibilities?

"I think the basis for a successful public relations officer is his credibility... he has to be trustworthy." City news is not always "good" news, so doesn't Clay find himself in awkward positions at times? "Yes. We make the best of every situation, but we have to admit it when something has been botched up."

Clay also works with the public directly, often handling complaints about public utilities and services. He also directs numerous city operations, including the "Red Line" (427-4111) which answers queries of citizens, from the date of the next council meeting to the amount of bill to use "for pickles. If you have seen the television ad for the city's information line, it is Sam who holds up the phone and announces its purpose.

Other responsibilities include representing the city at various functions, attending conferences and state-wide meetings such as the recently completed Municipal League, working with various city agencies to coordinate their public relations and a dozen other lesser jobs. And, of course, he attempts to maintain a shred of sanity while dealing with the crazy people in the media.

Among his ambitions, Sam hopes to find himself as a city manager someday. He says jokingly, "That's a rare case 804-427-1992, and I accept any and all offers."

Clay is finding that his "slice of the spectrum," as he calls it, is actually an overview of every aspect of the city. Good training ground for learning the needs and problems of a city.

In years ahead Clay sees a need for wise management of resources in Virginia Beach, human resources as well as others and he feels a need to better define the roll of Virginia Beach as a municipal corporation.

He sees a great shift in community responsibilities in America. "It was unheard of 50 years ago for a city to provide housing or food, what churches and neighborhoods used to do the cities now handle."

Clay feels that we need to be careful about programs cities enter into; that cities must ask themselves, "... is this new program consistent with the roll of the city?" He also feels cities should be aware of the projects they spend citizens money on.

'I'm a person'

"I am an individual, a person with specific likes and dislikes," Clay says that realizing this about himself helps him remember that all people he deals with are also individuals. He summarizes his job as "getting on with people."

He does that well and the people appreciate it.

Sam Clay sees a need for wise management of human as well as physical resources in Virginia Beach.

"I made sandcastles!" Says Clay of his first visits to Virginia Beach.

"... he has to be trustworthy," explains Clay in speaking of a public information officer.

Mansion to come to life

Once again the elegant ballroom of "Graystone Mansion" is about to echo with sounds of a gala party. The Auxiliary to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach will sponsor a preview party outside on the veranda and lawn of Graystone."

The charity event is a special gala to preview the newly refurbished mansion which will open as Tidewater's first Designer House, Sunday, Oct. 10. The mansion will be open to the public until Oct. 11.

"We have a really lovely party planned," noted party co-chairmen Beulah Loti and Betsy Sebrill. "We have our fingers crossed that weather will remain mild so we can hold the party outside on the veranda and lawn of Graystone."

Guests will begin their evening with a ride on London double decker bus. "In order to avoid congestion," notes Beulah Loti, "we are having all guests to park in the parking lot at 67th and Atlantic Avenue and ride to the house on the bus. On loan from British Promotions, the bus will run from 6:30-10:30 p.m.

Once at the mansion, guests will be treated to a tour of the decorated rooms, followed by a cocktail buffet. Music will be provided by the "Casuals."

Donation for the preview party is $35 couple, $20 single. Reservations are still being accepted and anyone interested in attending, should call 428-5323.

Whitehurst seeks road improvements

Congressman William Whitehurst has asked the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) to extend the new interstate highway improvement project to the Newtown Road interchange on the Norfolk-Virginia Beach Expressway.

The FHWA recently approved changes in the I-64 Expressway interchange to improve traffic flow, and Whitehurst says there is an urgent need for upgrading the Newtown Road junction to ease access to the Interstate highway. Whitehurst is asking that the terminus of the Interstate be changed from Kempsville Road to Newtown Road.

In a letter to Norbert T. Tieman, Administrator of the Federal Highway Administration, Whitehurst said the Tidewater Virginia area has an inordinate number of toll facilities, and that recently some progress has been made in eliminating some of the tolls. "However," Whitehurst wrote,

"toll roads such as the Norfolk-Virginia Beach Expressway continue to be a substantial burden on the people of the Tidewater area. By extending the recently-funded interstate project to Newtown Road, the Federal Highway Administration would provide significant relief to the toll revenue bond fund and would hasten the day when the tolls on the expressway could be reduced or eliminated."

Craft work has become a big part of their lives

By BLAIR THURMAN

Who says there's a generation gap? At the Hilltop North Art Show last week during the Neptune Festival, one of the exhibits was manned by Louise McCotter, 70, and Vilma Beck, 35. Vilma addresses Louise as "Grandma," and the casual observer would believe by the way they get along, that they were indeed related. As it turns out however, they have merely "adopted" each other. The two of them are neighbors, and Vilma calls Louise, Grandma, out of love.

Their exhibit, a delightful hodgepodge of handcrafted knick-knacks, is solely their handiwork, and represents a lot of work.

Louise has been using her artistic skills for the past eight years. "I took up doing this sort of thing when I retired," said Louise. "I was 62 then."

Since then, her husband died, and creating her crafts has helped fill the void that was left.

Part of the void is also filled by Vilma, who, like Louise, lives in Kempville. They prepared for the Hilltop exhibit for four months, and didn't let the rain of opening day dampen their enthusiasm. "It's a boardwalk show anyway," explained Vilma, "so the people won't get wet."

Vilma does her work in the evenings. "I call it my 'after-the-children-go-to-bed' work," she said. After ten, when the kids (she has three) hit the bed, I begin."

Vilma's favorite piece is a framed section of burlap, with "God is Love" cross-stitched in red yarn on it. "My husband Jerry makes the frame," said Vilma, revealing another talent in the group. "He does all the woodwork, frames mirrors, and shelves. He really enjoys it after coming home from the telephone company where he works."

Louise's personal favorite is her "Grandpa and Grandma." The dolls, which stand a little over a foot high, are amazingly made out of detergent bottles. She cuts the bottles, makes the clothes and dresses the elderly farm couple. "The hardest part for me," said Louise, "is cutting the bottles."

Past...Grandpa's bag is stuffed with real corn.

One of the more interesting creations by Louise, are the flowers on burlap, made with castanet seeds. "I saw it done once with watermelon seeds," Louise confessed. "I just used castanet seeds. That's the only original part about it."

Louise and Vilma consider their enterprise a hobby rather than work. They make little profit, preferring to garner pleasure rather than dollars for their efforts. It's a pleasant situation.

Carter is slipping

Jimmy Carter is trying to maintain his lead in the presidential campaign by shedding a liberal label and moving to the political center. It isn't working.

Try as he may to focus on peripheral issues, such as his discussion of adultery in a Playboy interview and his carping about the personal behavior of the FBI director, his basic positions remain flaky.

Carter can't have it both ways. If he wants to center a liberal image he is going to have to do it with fundamental issues like foreign affairs, economics and federal spending. Let's look at the record:

FOREIGN AFFAIRS. Carter is having trouble convincing the voters that he has enough background and experience to lead this nation in foreign affairs. And why not? Look at the foreign policy advisers Carter invited to Plains. They're the same guys who started the Vietnam war. Carter's own credentials are slight, so he is taking instructions from Dean Rusk?

ECONOMICS. Carter is behind the McGovern-like tax and spending proposals. He is the Humphrey-Hawkins and national health insurance. His economic program is the darling of the apple-cheeked liberals. And why not? Carter's chief economic adviser is Lawrence Klein, a professor at the University of Pennsylvania. Klein, a political liberal, has distinguished himself as an economist of national reputation. It's a little scary, however, when the record is checked and we find Klein admitted to the House Committee on Un-American Activities that he had been a member of the Communist party for two years!

FEDERAL SPENDING. Carter promises increased federal spending for everything except national defense. Carter is now trying to downplay his gushy something-for-everybody promises because a national groundswell is running against the costs and inefficiencies of big government. And why shouldn't there be? Even Senator Edmund Muskie, a Carter supporter, in his prime-time reply to President Ford's State of the Union address in January, proposed that voters put candidates to such tests as this: "If they promise more government benefits and services, do they also say how much they will cost?"

Under close scrutiny, Carter's program remains a series of daydreams that are so uncertain that even his most radical supporters acknowledge he is running into serious problems. As for shedding a liberal label, it would be easier for Jimmy Carter to ride a bicycle with square wheels. —H.B.

Reader asks:

'Births, but why no deaths?'

To the editor:

Why have the paper quit publishing the Va. Beach deaths?

The Va. Beach SUN used to have the Va. Beach deaths listed. They publish the births now.

Why don't they publish the deaths in papers?

Yours,
Mrs. Dean

Ed Note:

The Virginia Beach SUN is striving to provide services not offered by other local papers. Death notices are printed in daily newspapers.

Being a weekly also means we have less overall space and in that area we would much rather print news and features that would please the general public. We also prefer to print that which is of a happier, or at least,

"newer" nature. We do not feel that death notices fit either category.

We print births because they require minimal space, are usually pleasing announcements and draw greater appreciation from a larger readership.

It is in the future, we detect a greater interest in publishing of the notices, we may review our current policy. We thank Mrs. Davis for her interest and her letter.

Statistics show

City employees like it here

People like to work for the City of Virginia Beach. That is what the turnover statistics indicate, anyway.

In August of this year the rate was set at 2.16 per cent for the 3,174 employees listed with the city personnel department.

That figure is up from the same one a year ago, 1 per cent, but down from the 1970 August rate of 3.82 per cent.

Mrs. Phyllis Hatcher, personnel manager for Virginia Beach, reported that figures for July of this year were also low at just 1 per cent turnover. That figure was the same as a year ago, and down from 2.4 per cent in 1970.

Plaza Jr. High students tour oceanfront condominium

Some 50 sixth-grade Home Economic II students from Plaza Jr. High School "oohed" and "aahed" their way through a tour of the Oceanfront Condominium in Virginia Beach recently as part of their study on different housing alternatives.

According to Mrs. Doris DeSarro, one of the teachers accompanying the group, "most of the girls live in single family dwellings or apartments and we wanted them to see other types of housing." Mrs. DeSarro plans a field trip to study mobile home living as well. The girls were guided through the 20-story oceanfront tower by Dan Smith, president of the organization in charge of sales and marketing for the condominium. Standing in one of the model homes, Smith explained the basic concept of condominium living by saying, "In a condominium it's as if all of us in this room got together and bought this building and shared it." He explained that the word "condominium" comes from a Latin word meaning "to own with everyone else."

The class toured three model homes, including a six-figure penthouse. Questions to Smith ranged from the cost of electricity for an Oceanfront home, to how one handles insurance.

Bayside Band working hard raising $80,000 for trip

Bayside band members play it up from truck

It will be a long year facing a tremendous goal, but everyone connected with the Bayside High School Band appears optimistic about meeting their goal of $80,000 to send the band to Moss, Norway, Virginia Beach's sister city.

The seven-day trip will include three days in Moss and four in the capital city of Oslo.

There will be numerous performances, concerts and shows highlighted by a command performance in the capital.

This week City Council passed a resolution endorsing the trip, scheduled for June, which will cost about $750 for each of the 100-plus members. Funds will be raised by various activities and the city will not be asked to make a direct contribution.

Band members and the Bayside Band Parents' Association have wasted no time in getting the band drive underway. They were busy over the weekend at several Neptune Festival events selling tickets towards a drawing on a new car. Members of the band were riding around in, and on top of, a pick-up truck getting attention of visitors to the Hilltop Art Show.

A Cherry "Lay Truck" of a Vega won't be the winner who will be his choice. The band has received a number of awards and trophies including some at the National Music Festival held recently in New Jersey and one in the Neptune Festival.

Pack 64 completes busy summer

In July, all went fishing at Spurr's fish area at Rudee Inlet. Everyone caught fish and prizes were given.

Danny Reed won a rod and reel for the largest fish, a trout. Billy Miller won a tackle box (courtesy of Mr. Spurr) and James Barone won a free fishing trip for his dad and himself.

A bike safety demonstration and inspection was held in July with help thanks from Officer Mike Richards of The Beach Police. The only bike to fail was the Cubmaster's!

August was the month for the "Rain Gutter Regatta." It was held at Mt. Trashmore at a family picnic. There were races for everyone. The sailboats used for the regatta were made by the boys. Winners were Terrence Spencer, 8, Robert Tomasselli, 9, and Danny Reed, 10. Adult winners were 1st, Frank Reed; 2nd, Mrs. Carol Brasse and 3rd, Walt Spencer.

Awards for August were: 1-year pin, Pat Boyman; 2-year pin, Shirley Dewoe and Ed Pogson; Bobcat, Chris Brasse; Wolf and 3 silver arrows, Terrence Spencer; Bear, David Cox and Danny Reed; Tom Dewoe, Aquanaut, Engineer and Traveler, Billy Miller, Aquanaut.

Danny Reed was advanced to Webelos with a ceremony by the webelos den.

Cub Scout Pack 64 of Virginia Beach has had an active summer.

In June the American Drag Club put on a slide and car show.

Thanks to Larry Weaver, Ed Kozak, Bucky Waters and Mike and Robbie Wilson.

Pack 64 had the opportunity to look over racing cars they had brought.

They also went to Suffolk Raceway for a full day of drag races and were pleased to carry flags for the opening of that day's races.

Pack Olympics were held at Red Wing Park along with a picnic. Moms had a nail driving contest and dads and sons had a three-legged race. Olympic winners were: 8-year old, Chris Brasse; 9-year old, Frank Reed; and 10-year old, Paul Robery.

de Grasse statue to be presented

On Oct. 17, at 2 p.m. at Cape Henry, the Bicentennial Commission of Virginia Beach will dedicate a bronze statue of Comte de Grasse, a gift from France, reminiscent of the gift of the statue of Liberty.

Many high ranking government officials and military persons are planning to attend, both French and American.

Among the guests scheduled are Governor Mills E. Godwin; Jacques Kosciuszko-Morisset, French Ambassador to the U. S.; Yvon Bourges, French Minister of Defense; Vice Admiral Philippe De Gaulle, commander, French Atlantic Fleet; Rear Admiral Emile J. Chalhe, French Naval Attaché; Captain Gilbert Fabre, head of French Military Mission to SACLANT; Bernard Mandin, consul of France; Pierre Schmitt, consul honor-aria of France; Senator William F. Byrd; Senator William L. Scott; U. S. Rep. G. William Whitehurst; U. S. Rep. Robert W. Daniels, Jr.; Admiral Isaac C. Kidd, Jr., commander in chief Atlantic; and John Warner, administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

Two French Warships, the cruiser Colbert and the frigate de Grasse, will anchor off Cape Henry and fire a salute. Oct. 14-21 has been designated "victory week" to mark 200 years of Franco-American Friendship, with various French related activities programed throughout the area.

The statue site at Cape Henry is immediately adjacent to the historical spot where the first permanent English settlers landed on this continent before proceeding to Jamestown. It is also near the Old Cape Henry Lighthouse, the first public building authorized by the first U. S. Congress.

Summer visits lead to residency

The Bowlin family had come to Virginia Beach for vacation for several years, enjoying the beach and its people, so when the opportunity to move here permanently presented itself, they jumped for it.

Earl Bowlin had been employed as a personnel director for a real estate appraisal firm in his hometown of Dayton, Ohio. Now he is personnel director at General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

The jobs have about the same responsibilities, except that now his employees are in one location. At his previous job, Bowlin worked with a staff that was spread over 20 states.

Bowlin has also found that his new job has people with a much wider variety of skills, responsibilities and backgrounds.

"With everyone under one roof," explains Bowlin, "it should be much easier to follow through and see the results of programs."

In both organizations, Bowlin feels there is an unusual closeness among staff members. Hospital employees share the overall goal of service to the sick, as well as some unusual working hours. The staff of his previous firm was subject to frequent transfers and their paths often crossed and recreated in different cities.

At present, Bowlin is finding that the process of settling into a new situation is made more complicated by learning the "hospital language." When he asks about the duties of an "EKG," for instance, the answer is likely to be given in terms that can not be deciphered without a medical dictionary.

The Bowlins have a son, Jeffrey, 17, who has entered Old Dominion University as a freshman, and they also have an 11-year-old daughter, Tina.

Mrs. Bowlin is a full-time home-maker.

The family enjoys trips in their camper/van and plans to buy a motor boat to keep at their Baylake Beach home near Lake Joyce. The family enjoys many sports and plans to adventure skiing to the list next summer.

Neptune Festival '76 is over but memories will last long

By STEVE STONE
SUN News Editor

Where it's over.

In a flurry of song and emotion King Neptune III "Returned to the sea" as the 1976 Bicentennial Neptune Festival drew to a close at Virginia Beach Sunday night.

A Grand Bicentennial Fireworks display was the final event rounding out the festival, termed by officials as by far the most successful yet.

No official estimates are available to tell how many people actually took part in any of the ten days of festival activities, but that number is surely in the high tens-of-thousands.

This year's festival drew participants from around the commonwealth and the nation. People were found from Kentucky, Missouri, Tennessee, West Virginia, Maryland, Texas, Delaware and even one couple from Alaska, enjoyed the festival.

It is doubtful that any one person actually attended every event, but the "Royal Family" came close, though at times they had to split into groups to do so.

While people saw the "glitter and majesty" of King Neptune (Charles Forbes Jr.) and the beauty of the princesses, they did not see the true involvement of a real "family" amid the fast-paced schedule.

Coming together only two weeks ago, most of the "Royal Family" was unknown to each other. For the first few nights conversations always started with tilted heads looking at name tags. But by Sunday night everyone knew everyone else, and all had drawn closer.

The "family" that evolved included King Neptune and his wife, and all eight princesses, the chaperones, several police officers and the driver of the "Big Mac" bus.

Earlier in the week King Neptune presented each girl with her own 14k gold cross necklace and in turn they gave him a cake and many several songs for him. There was a fearful parting that night.

The princesses, who became the center of the family, were a never ending source of enthusiasm. Their smiles were genuine and their dispositions happy. And by the way, the chaperones survived it all with smiles too.

There was a loud ovation from all the family when police officer Jim W. Mobley showed up at the Kempville McDonald's where the group stopped for lunch last week, fresh from the hospital. While ascending the motorcycle last week he was injured swerving to avoid a car that had cut in his way. Other officers who worked well with the family throughout were B.E. Johnson and R.C. Poyner III.

Earl Jones, the driver of the McDonald's "Big Mac" bus also earned special honor. A separate story on the "Big Mac" appears elsewhere in today's SUN.

"The bad thing will be waking up Monday morning and trying to remember where we're supposed to be," joked one chaperone, as the festival concluded. A princess commented while leaving the motel, "It was great; I could never forget it."

The theme was, "We saved the best for last," and the best was last, climaxed summer 1976.

School; Lisa Allred from Kellam High School; Bridget Parsons of Kempville High School and chaperone Jo Anne Smith.

For everyone

Riding the 'Big Mac' was a memorable trip

There always has been an extra something about McDonald's restaurants, and the "Big Mac" bus used throughout the Neptune Festival reflects that specialness.

Used primarily by the eight princesses and their chaperones during the festival, the bus is the optimum in luxury.

At a cost of about $180,000 each, McDonald's has put 19 of the "super coaches" on the road throughout the country. They are used for special activities such as senior citizen trips. These past weeks one has been used for the festival.

The interior is carpeted in blue with special rotating seats, coaches, tables, a television, a kitchenette, a telephone, built in stereo sound system, air conditioning and comes equipped with one great driver.

Earl Jones won his way into the hearts of the princesses. "He's spoiled us," explained one princess, "every day he has the bus neat and clean with fresh flowers and he's so nice."

"He always plays our favorite music (Peter Dinklage)." Said another girl. As for Earl, he enjoyed the festival as much as anyone and said that he wasn't at all tired of it at its conclusion.

Princesses and escorts ham it up during Youth Day

"Goodmorning America!" proclaimed the Neptune princesses and their chaperones as they greeted Sunday morning from the balcony of the Seabreeze Hotel where they stayed during the festival. "Big Mac" bus driver Earl Jones is fourth from right.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hart of 8 Woodhouse Road in Virginia Beach enjoyed the entertainment during her time. Mrs. Hart even kept her hands free for clapping, holding her flower elsewhere.

Beach bands busy during festival

By BUD LOWE
SUN Bands Writer

The week of Neptune festivities is over and the King has returned to the beach. But in the junior and senior high school music departments, there are still memories of that big week hanging around.

The Coronation Day Parade, which started it all off, and the field competition at Cox High School were the big things for the senior highs. Winners for these two events were E.C. Glass of Lynchburg, Rayside and Princess Anne from the Beach. If you missed either of these events, you missed two very good shows.

Then there was the Youth Parade this past Saturday. The junior-high school students gave it a whirl, showing what they have been doing. All but one of our local junior highs were able to show up for this event, the exception being Bayridge Junior High School, and they were missed.

There was one exceptionally good unit present from Halifax County. Young people from Halifax numbered 106-strong and looked and sounded just great. A very well disciplined group, to say the least. This group was present last year and took everyone by surprise. It looked as though they have done that again this year.

There are no awards for the youth parade, and this was disappointing to many. The junior high students work just as hard as the senior high and should have been recognized for their achievements as well.

Again this year Plaza Junior High was the only junior high from the Beach to have a drill team in the parade. This group of young ladies added much color to the parade. They are under the direction of Carolyn Keen and the leadership of captain Lori Davis and co-captain Camila LasDolce. The drill team numbers 40 strong with two majorettes, Theresa Davis and Julie Wesley.

Charles Warren, band director for Plaza Junior High, and drum major Virginia Baker, have been fortunate to have these young ladies accompanying them for the second year in a row. Warren and Keen have done an outstanding job of organizing and working out field routines for this band and drill team combination. This gives the students in the band as well as drill team for the second year in a row. Warren and Keen have done an outstanding job of organizing and working out field routines for this band and drill team combination. This gives the students in the band as well as drill team for the second year in a row.

Other junior high school bands entered in the parade were:

Independence Junior High—band director Howard Rule; drum major Lisa Frye; head majorette Robin Ray, with Carrie Charles and Susan Clegier assisting.

Princess Anne Junior High band director Bill Johnson, majorettes Cheryl Reeves, Dana Anderson, and Patty Windsor.

Lynnhaven Junior High—band director Jim Kruger; drum major Len Walker; head majorette Susan Edwards, and assistants Beth Abbott, Todd Crist, Judanna Camba, Linda George, Deborah Coffey, and Eillery Stephens.

Kempsville Junior High—band director Emmett Forbes; drum major Doug Dunn; head majorette Kim Beas; and assistants Shelly Jones, Gene Foley, Patty Kilby, Raylene Kowal, Melissa Blavell, Laura Lambert and Karen Barber.

All of the bands were a tribute to their directors. They looked and sounded great. There was material there for all the high schools for many years to come. The band directors from the different high schools are watching and admiring the young people coming up through the junior high schools. Many of these students will be heard from again in years ahead as they progress on to high school and the bigger, more powerful units.

Closing out the features of the week was the Neptune Bowl game between Kempsville and First Colonial High Schools. The halftime show put on by these two high schools was an example of what our young people can do with their talent. They put on a show for the Neptune crowd that should have made everybody proud.

First to go on field was First Colonial, under the direction of Max Conaso and drum major Rob Elson. The display of musical talent and marching ability they showed at the Neptune field competition was not the same form they showed at the game. The show at the game had some new moves and a little different sound. For certain Max and company are still improving on a good thing. This is a group of musicians that is always a pleasure to listen to and watch.

Featured twirler for First Colonial is Sherri Knight, and her show had an ending that was hard to believe—if one did not actually see her perform. This little lady puts on a show that is a class all by itself. This being Sherri's first year in high school, we will be seeing a lot more of her in the future.

Next on the field was Kempsville High and they didn't let the home crowd down with their show. Kempsville's band is under the direction of Jerry Cole and drum major Kirk Alan, with Betsy and Parker Baine the directors of the drill team. And the drill team for Kempsville was the eye-catcher here. Their pom-pom girls received a rousing applause when they passed in front of the bleachers in the pre-game activities. On the field at half time, they were in good form and put on the show of their life for everyone's enjoyment. Kempsville can be proud of the group they have representing them at home and away.

Next on the schedule for the bands and drill teams is the Indian River Festival of Marching Bands to be held at Indian River High School Oct. 16. This competition should be a good one. There are about 27 bands competing for honors, and so one is going to want to miss this show of talent and skill.

To make it a date to be there, see you then!

Enjoy "quiet beauty" at Kyoto

By DEBORAH YOLI

Before leaving the house for Kyoto, Tidewater's newest authentic Japanese restaurant on Newtown Road you should do two things: First, check to see that you're wearing socks that match (saying you needless embarrassment should you decide to dine in the traditional Japanese manner without your shoes); and second, prepare to enjoy a unique dining experience prepared as visually pleasing to the eye as to the palate.

Be advised that a visit to Kyoto is more than just a trip to another restaurant or "something quick" to quiet your hunger pangs. A Kyoto dinner is both a cultural and a culinary feast, a close-up look at Japanese customs as well as its foods. And a dinner like ours can take up to two-and-a-half hours to complete!

Seated upon red cushions atop a tatami mat, my dining companion and I were first introduced to Hearuco, our Geisha for the evening, when she appeared to offer warm towels cradled in bamboo dishes to cleanse our hands. Dinners at Kyoto are served with chawan (appetizer), sumomono (Japanese salad) of cucumbers, shrimp, radishes and octopus, misoshiru or sumashi (bean or clear soup) tsukemono (Japanese pickle prepared specially by the owner of the restaurant, rice and green tea. You may also order a la carte from the menu.

Fortunately for me, the assortment of fresh fish, shrimp, king crab, along with spare ribs, chicken teriyaki, and assorted vegetables served as appetizers required minimal use of the chop sticks provided as eating utensils. (Directions are mercifully written on the back of the chop sticks, for the less agile like myself.)

Hearuco, kneeling before our table as she prepared our sukiyaki, appeared as an animated version of the Geisha dolls decorating the room along with other Japanese curios. She agreed to identify each ingredient as she mixed the delicately-sliced beef and fresh garden vegetables for her "audience."

While the sukiyaki slowly simmered, Hearuco brought prawns, fish and vegetables deep fried in a delicate batter - Shrimp Tempura, soy sauce and ginger are served along with this dish, so dunkers, delight!

One might mention that when dining Japanese-style everything is served in separate dishes, so you can imagine how much we had amazed by now. Hearuco added to our trouble with two more dishes containing raw eggs, explaining that the hot sukiyaki may be dipped into the egg for additional taste. Judging the look on my dining partner's face it was evident that I was the one who would have to take the culinary plunge first. When in Rome... Or Tokyo.

It was superb!

A chilled fruit plate of honeydew, apples cleverly and citrus fruits finished the meal with the same cool beauty the entire meal had shown us. The food at Kyoto is deliciously unique in taste and artistically prepared with painstaking care by Tai, the chef, who possesses not one, but two degrees in Japanese cooking. An average of 10 years of study is required by those who choose to "live by the knife" as a chef chef.

Henry Kuwahara, Kyoto's owner came to this country first as an exchange student. Kyoto was just a dream of Henry's then; today it is a lovely place to go and enjoy Japanese culture and customs in an unbarred relaxing atmosphere.

Kellam crunches Bayside

The question of who is the high school football team in the Beach District is still open to debate, but anyone who doesn't think that Kellam has the best defense around, knows about as much about Beach football as a Peruvian fisherman. Either that, or he thinks defense is something you put around de-yard.

A team that failed to score in two games, and scored a total of nine points in the other two, Kellam had the defense to thank for their undefeated status at the Beach going into their showdown with Bayside.

Both teams were gingerly nursing the wounds of embarrassment for not living up to pre-season expectations. Nevertheless, both teams had legitimate claim to the position of "being in the driver's seat" when Cox loses a district game.

Bayside was generally favored, due to their offense, which has shown itself much more capable of scoring than Kellam.

And so, the game was supposed to be between Kellam's unmovable defense and Bayside's occasionally brilliant and always dangerous offense.

Bayside's offense committed enough mistakes to take themselves out of the game, helping the Knight defenders look good.

The outcome of the game was decided by the fact that the Bayside defense could not contain the previously dormant Kellam offense, which showed prudent judgement in choosing this emotion-packed game to finally erupt.

The pivotal points of the game held as much drama as the Battle of the Belge.

Kellam, whose offense had already more than doubled its point-total for the season, held on to a 16-7 lead, when Bayside's Lathor Knox returned a punt 48 yards. The excitement on the Marlin side of the field was terminated almost instantly, when the realization that the play was nullified due to a roughing-the-kicker penalty took hold.

Their spirit broken, Bayside quickly gave up an 88-yard run by Knight running back Trent Haynes. The game had been won.

Unfortunately, as is often the case with games designated as "crucial," the players got too high, and commit an undue amount of fouls and mistakes. Both teams sustained injuries that may hurt them in future contests. Tempers flared. Play was often sloppy.

Kellam proved to be the stronger team, emerging with a 29-7 victory, giving them, along with Cox and undefeated Princess Anne, hope for winning the Beach District title.

Eagle gridders hoping to fly high

By BLAIR THURMAN

The boys are just beginning to realize their physical potential. They haven't got an abundance of experience. Some of them have never played.

Jayvee football at the Beach, is sort of a training school for the players who intend to play high school ball. The problem, is getting a boy to play his natural position.

At Independence Jr. High, head football coach Jim Seymour is currently attempting to adjust his team so that it will produce winning results.

"We have a good defense," said the mustachioed Seymour, "if we can move the offensively, we'll be all right."

He explained the problem. "We are just trying to find the right team. The trouble is getting a boy in the right position. The position that is best for him and best for the team."

Another difficulty that the jayvee coaches encounter, is that they never get to work with experienced personnel. "Most of the boys that play, 'nosed Seymour,' are ninth-graders. After they've played a year, they go to high school. We only have ten players back from last year's team, and none of them started."

Last year, the Eagles finished second at the Beach with a 3-2-1 record. Will the Eagles soar this year? "Kemperville won it last year," said Seymour, "with a 5-1 record, and on the strength of that should be favored. But I think there is a lot of balance at the Beach, and anyone can win."

There are several players Seymour is counting on to wage a successful campaign this season. One of them, naturally, is the quarterback. The Eagles' field general is Mark Pearman.

"He's a good steady kid," said Seymour of Pearman. "He throws the ball well, runs well and does what he's told."

Seymour is also expecting a big year from running back Scott Mansfield. "He's a tough kid. He plays safety and flanker too. He may be our best all around athlete," assessed Seymour.

Mike Ellis and Brad Gerhig are strong linebackers, with Ellis doubling as a tailback.

Some of the standout linemen are, Gordon Busby, Mark Siaka, Steve Souza, Eric Murray and Brett McCarty, who is described by Seymour as, "the hardest hitter we've got."

A big plus for Independence, is kicker Chuck Jones, who is capable of booting the pigskin all the way to the end-zone on kick-offs. Said Seymour, "Points after touchdowns and field goals within the 30 are almost automatic for Chuck. He could play for any high school."

Crowd enthusiasm is high for junior high games, according to Seymour, but there is a snag to getting to the games. "The kids aren't old enough to drive yet, and sometimes have a problem getting to the game."

Those that do make it to the game on time, may be in for a treat. "We should be tough to beat," said a smiling coach. "The kids have a great attitude, and really want to play ball." Seymour also said that part of the success of the team is due to Miss Waters and to Joe Urquhart in the Independence administration, for their contributions to the athletic program. It looks as if the Eagles will indeed soar.

With the coming of October, the Recreation Department's Girls Basketball season is in full swing. Each of the individual leagues have played at least three games.

The leagues are divided up into the Pre-Teens Girls (10, 11 and 12 year olds), the Junior Girls (13 and 14 years) and the Teen Girls (15 years of age and still attending high school). Each team is permitted a maximum of 15 players in uniform.

visions are as follows: American Division-Plaza Americans, King's Grant Lancers, Green Run, Thalia/ Malibu Patriots, Bayside Angels, Great Neck Ding-A-Lings, Plaza Wipeouts, Woodstock Stingrays, National Division-Diamond Springs Deamons, Throughgood Fillies, Plaza Pilots, King's Grant Royals, Aragona/Pembroke Lakers, Plaza Patriots, Great Neck Debutantes, Woodstock Ladybugs, Arrowhead Squirrels.

Most of the Junior Girls games are being played at Kempsville Junior and Bayside Junior. Their schedule calls for an eight game season with the title game scheduled for November 10.

Games may be watched at Kempsville Junior and Bayside Junior between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. every Saturday until November 6.

The teams in this league are as follows: American Division-Kempsville Dribblers, Arrowhead Gidgets, Plaza Wipeouts, Plaza Pilots, Green Run Roadrunners, Woodstock Stealers, King's Grant Blue Angels, National Division-Diamond Springs Darlings, Great Neck Cavaliers, Plaza Americans, Plaza Patriots, Aragona/Pembroke Dymones, King's Grant Blue Jays.

The Teen Girls league is made up of 11 teams, divided into two divisions. Their schedule calls for 10 games with the Championship game set for November 13. All their games are played at either Bayside Junior or Plaza Junior, each Wednesday night. Games start at 6 p.m. and the final game should be over by 9:15 p.m.

The teams in each division are as follows: American Division-Arrowhead, Throughgood Pacers, Diamond Springs, Woodstock Squaws, Plaza Pacers, King's Grant Commodores. National Division-Plaza Patriots, Green Run, King's Grant Invaders, Great Neck Dolphins, Aragona/Pembroke Challengers.

This gives the Recreation Department a total of 41 teams, and approximately 15 girls entered on each team. That means that there are about 615 girls playing basketball in about 172 games within a 10 week period. A very interesting statistic, indeed.

The Athletic Office is located at 4700 Recreation Drive, Virginia Beach, 23464. The phone numbers are 497-5448 and 499-1115. If you would like additional information on our Girls Basketball League or any sport in general, do not hesitate to contact our staff Mondays through Fridays.

A day in the life of a goalie at Wesleyan

The following is an account of what it is like to play college soccer, written by Bob Valvano, a student at Virginia Wesleyan who plays goalie for the Marlinas.

As I stood in the middle of the parking lot, waiting to leave for our first road game of the year, my mind was focused not on our six-hour-in-the-future-opponents, Hampden-Sydney College, but on how we were to get there in the first place.

Our unrelatable Virginia Wesleyan "Blue Marlin" bus had failed to get us out of the starting gate, and presently there were not enough vans to carry us all. I peered into one of the vans to see how many of my teammates were on it and was greeted with a brounf of assorted refuse.

Not being a morning person, I was quite accustomed to van calamities, so I backed away undisturbed, avoiding the dust of my jacket and tie, Coach Bill Davis' mandatory road attire. Davis is in his first year as our coach and with my morning sickness progressing, I feared he might decide to make this first road trip with us his last.

The sun began playing hide-and-seek behind some clouds, misting at some rain before our 3:30 p.m. Chris Wright, our right wing, glanced up and said, "I hope we get a rainy game."

Looking at him as if he asked for some final disease, my "What?" was piercing in the early morning quiet. (We goalies are not particularly fond of "mudders.") "No way," I continued.

"The footing gets miserable, the ball won't bounce straight, it slips in the mud, and it's impossible to hold onto."

"Yeah, but I'll be the guy who gets a goal when their goalie has all these problems," he concluded. We compromised, and agreed to let it rain only on their half of the field, but before we could finalize how to do that, the bus was repaired, and we re-loaded and set sail.

As we pulled out of the gates of the school, driving on Wesleyan Drive to Northampton Blvd., I thought back to the first week of September when practices began, and we were having three-a-miles, the first of which began with a 6-mile run at 6:30 in the morning (Recall: I am not a morning person...).

The course of which took us up this same road on which we now drive. I remember the large number of double bodies making themselves "vulnerable" for a short while, as they strained and worked hard at the conditioning and roadwork necessary to be in "recovery shape."

I know more than once it crossed our minds: "What are we trying to prove?" and "What are we doing out here at 6:30 in the morning?" but on along I-64, I depressed in thought, looked back on how it was paid off.

As we drove on towards our fourth encounter, my mind recalled the first three, and it was immediately apparent that we had repaid some reward for our work. After I entered we drove to our work. After 3 games we stood 3-0, all three games Dine College games, giving us the conference title.

We had scored 14 goals and held the opposition to one. It was this pleasant thought which carried me into the number one on-the-bus parking, better called "mud."

"Welcome to F.R.I.D.G.E." greeted me as I woke. So did Kim Bell, our trainer-bus driver-coach, whom I was sitting directly behind. "Good time you got up Wesleyan?"

"You've been sitting in my car for the last hour."

"That was to make sure you didn't join me," I countered. I turned to the heavy sedation of trying to study on the way. "How much further?"

"Fifteen, maybe twenty minutes," he replied, the straight ahead stare belied his sunglasses indicating to me that he was mentally prepared.

The bus stopped on. We passed a sign for the entrance to the "Shorter Funeral Home."

"That's where I'm headed," our 5'10" foot tall coach stopped, and we all chuckled.

Finally, we arrived, Kim steering us into the entrance to the rolling hills of the Hampton-Sydney campus.

We pulled the bus to the dining hall, and head for lunch, not coincidentally coinciding with disappointment that they have the same food service we do.

"(Drive all the way here and eat this again...)"

Lunch is through, and we have 90 minutes to go. We formed a group of us head out to the field to see how it is. Along the way we saw a mirrored documentary about life, along the lines of what they often show during half-time of T.V. football games.

Sydney is located just outside Harrison Farmville in Virginia, because all the other states turned it down.

We got to the field and began to get it. It was actually worse than ours.

"It's like a soccer yourself a goal today," Chris Remick our All-Conference goalkeeper barked.

Back we went to the gym. The talk-light, popular, I bring up horse riding, one of my favorite topics, and in so doing began whispering an imaginary horse which I am "riding" in. Immediately Remick and Fritz Von Blesch pass me on their horses and go on to beat me.

I plea foul, but the judge, Mike Cook, won't hear of it.

Quarter to three now and the locker room is full. The change atmosphere enough to convince you this is a team of schoolchildren. Coach, Sabados, "horse riding." Hardly any movement at all. Pairs of people speculate the locker room, each easily kicking a ball back and forth. Gradually everyone sits down, the only noise being the slapping of my hands on the ball as I do various ball handling drills to warm up. Finally, the coach calls us together.

The strategy meeting. Keep the ball on the ground, they are good in the air. Short, triangle passing. They're good; we're better—LET'S GO!!!

We embark upon the long walk to the field. Stretching exercises and calisthenics. Warm up drills. The kick off.

It is an even game. If anything we have kept the ball in their and well for the first ten minutes, although I have been called on to make a couple of saves in that time. The game progresses, still pretty evenly, though their chances have been better. I have watched two shots from close range sail over the bar, and have made a number of additional saves. Now yet have been the diving, sprawling kind, but I have a feeling that they like ahead.

Sure enough, minutes after the second of these two high shots, a pass is intended for their left-inside forward.

I am the only one who has a chance to beat him to the ball and I came out on the run from the goal. Having best him narrowly, I did into the ball falling so chances, and pulled it to my chest, like a football lineman with a fumble.

Their inside, however, is somewhat reluctant to change his course, and as he literally runs over me, his left leg kicks at either the ball or me, or both.

He hits me with his shin, right under the ear, the ball remaining intact, but my head not faring quite so well.

It is probably the hardest I have ever been hit in the head playing goal, but I know that in a minute or so I'll be fine, so I clear the ball, receive time-out and go just there and wait for the bazza to go live.

In a minute I am fine and the game resumes, but they are putting some pressure on. In one wild scramble I had 4 chances to grab the ball but couldn't find the handle and was forced to slip a little to the corner to clear it. Bill Sam Shaw is turning in a marvelous job at weeper hillback and after 25 minutes the score is still 0-0.

Finally, in the 31st minute they successfully complete a through pass to their right inside forward, and he comes at me on a breakaway. In that situation the goalie has just one option and that is to charge the man, take away his shooting angle, and try to smother the shot.

This one play alone determines, I think, whether or not you are "cut out" for goalies.

Not only do you have to be willing to throw yourself into the feet of the shooter, but you really, deep down, have got to love the challenge of the play. The percentages are with the shooter on a breakaway, which despite the challenge, doesn't make me to fond of the play in games, particularly tied ones, but I don't usually have a say in the matter anyway, so when he comes, it's time to charge him.

Game turns Trojans 'Blue'

Some long distance running sparked the Lynhaven Blues to their opening day victory over the Plains Trojans Sunday, in Junior High football competition.

Lynhaven won 23-12, got touchdowns from 80 and 40 yards from Kenny Cranston and Curtis Riddick, respectively. Cranston also scored on an 11-yard run.

According to head coach Tim Eldridge, Valley Oaks and Walker Goffigan also had good games carrying the pigskin.

The Blues piled up 335 yards offensively, due mostly to "tremendous line blocking," according to Eldridge.

The defense did their job too, as they limited the Trojans to just 12 yards for the afternoon.

"There is a lot of balance in our district," said Eldridge, after the win, "but we hope to go 6-0."

Wrestling clinic

A Virginia High School League Wrestling Rules Clinic will be held at Indian River, Va.

All clinics will be conducted by Vic Blue, principal of Wakefield High School in Arlington and the League's wrestling rules interpreter. Mr. Blue is a well-known high school and college official who has an excellent background in all phases of wrestling—participation, coaching and officiating.

This year's clinics will feature the National Federation's latest film, "Ready Wrestling," in color, a discussion of the rules changes for 1976-77 season; points of special emphasis; and question and answer session on wrestling rules in general. A portion of the clinic will be devoted to VHS wrestling regulations, including weight regulations.

A 2-1 week in the prognostication business has led to some interesting results.

Kellam was an important game with Byrds, against my expectations, and "Pain" returned to full speed much quicker than I anticipated, leading Lake Taylor over Cox with 285 yards rushing and five touchdowns.

Kempville, although winless in the district, is no slouch team, losing its last two games by a total of six points. He surprises here, Kempville by 10.

In what should be the best game of the week, Norview, undefeated in the Eastern District, comes to Princess Anne, undefeated since their first game. Cavalier victories are no longer aspects and are now to be expected. They can expect to win this one. Princess Anne by 1.

The Byrds at Washington game has all the ingredients for an upset. The Marlinas were not all eliminated from the district race last week, and will probably return to the top.

The outcome of a victory, and will be playing at home against Byrds. Still, there may be enough individual pride on the Marlinas to avert calamity, and finish out the season in winning form. Byrds by 7.

John Marshall High travels down from Richmond to tangle with Kellam. Marshall is 4-1 this year, but is beset with injury problems that leave it with little depth at key positions. Pre-teen...

The Pre-teen Plaza Patriots, defending City Champions, of the girl's basketball league, are off to a fast start this season, with three league victories.

They opened with a 36-7 victory over the Plaza Pilots as they controlled both boards with Crystal Clark and Vicki Gray each grabbing 14 rebounds. Pam Byrd led the scoring with 10 points.

In their second game, the Patriots survived a shaky start, holding only one point lead at half-time, to capture a 33-19 win with a strong finish. Vicki Gray led the winners with 16 points, 12 rebounds and 13 steals. Cindy Hanley added 10 points for the Patriots.

The Patriots won their third straight, with a 33-4 victory over the Plaza Pilots. Pam Byrd was the only Patriot to score during this contest.

In their second game, the Patriots downed the Americans 71-34. Kathy Lokie led the scoring with 30 points and 14 rebounds with 14 points and 11 rebounds. All members of the Patriots scored during this contest.

YMCA family memberships now open in Virginia Beach

Charter membership applications are now being accepted in the Virginia Beach YMCA Family Center according to John M. Long, YMCA director at the center.

The YMCA Family Membership, new to Virginia Beach, will offer all members of the family an opportunity to participate in programs and activities designed to strengthen the family unit. During the pre-opening charter membership period families will be able to join for $50 per year. Charter memberships are limited.

The new $2 million United Way Family Center is expected to open Dec. 1 and YMCA family members will begin their membership year on that date.

Privileges of the YMCA Family Membership include use of the 42' x 75' indoor swimming pool, gymnasium, activity room, tennis courts, and other areas during open periods available each day; priority registration and discounts on skill instruction classes; and special events especially designed for the family and various members of the family.

Program offerings will include a variety of activities to include swimming instruction, tennis, judo, karate, gymnastics, troy tot swimming, fencing, wrestling, volleyball, basketball, creative exercise and countless other classes.

Among the special YMCA family programs will be family nights, mother daughter and father/son events, family square dancing, and similar activities.

The new United Way Family Center is located at 4441 South Blvd., just west of Mount Trashmore and can be seen from the Virginia Beach expressway near the Independence Boulevard exit.

It's becoming a career

Beach Scout is president of Eagle Scout Association

By STEVE STONE
SUN News Editor

For Rick Anola, 18, of Virginia Beach, Scouting has been much more than the usual few years of involvement it has been a "career."

Anola first became involved with Scouting in the cub program in 1967 when he was one of the first members of Pack 429 at Pembroke Elementary School. Today he is president of the Tidewater Chapter, National Eagle Scout Association.

A freshman at Old Dominion University, Anola is continuing his scouting involvement by working with several other Scouts, including his twin brother Nick, to establish a chapter of the national scout fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega, at ODU.

In March of 1969 Anola entered troop 476 holding the offices of den chief, scribe, quartermaster, assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader, senior patrol leader, junior assistant scoutmaster and finally assistant scoutmaster.

In addition to this, he has earned all regular scout ranks and is now an Eagle Scout (bronze palm) with 28 merit badges.

In October of 1971, Anola became an "ordained member" of the Order of the Arrow, Blue Heron Lodge #949. He advanced to brotherhood membership in September, 1972 and two years later received the order's highest honor, the "Vigil Honor."

In August of this year Anola attended the second National Eagle Scout Association Conference in Washington, D.C.

Majoring in architecture at ODU, Anola hopes to find employment with an architectural firm at the completion of college. He also plans to continue his scouting activities.

St. Aiden's plans annual country fair

St. Aiden's Episcopal Church at the corner of Edgemoor Drive and Little Neck Road in Virginia Beach will hold its annual Country Fair from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Oct. 9.

Over 125 families are working together in advance of the show to insure a great success.

There will be a gigantic tent covering booths of crafts, Christmas crafts, plants, baked goods, antiques, books and clothes.

Various large objects such as bunk beds, washers, sewing machines and a dining set will be auctioned off during the day.

There will be a traditional oyster bar, plenty of good food and pony rides through the woods along with scores of games. The public is invited to attend.

First Colonial Baptist marks 50th anniversary

First Colonial Baptist Church, 125 First Colonial Rd., near Virginia Beach General Hospital, celebrated its 50th year as a church with observance of "Homecoming - 1976" on Sunday, Oct. 9.

Special pioneer service was the 11 a.m. worship service with the Rev. Harveth Hatcher of the Sumner Baptist Church in Raleigh, N.C., the first man to leave the church to enter pastoral ministry.

The morning service was followed at 1 p.m. with "Dinner on the Grounds" and then at 2:30 a gospel sing to be called, "Sing and Celebrate" featuring musical ensembles of the church as well as Rev. and Mrs. Buddy Myers and the Harris Family.

A Life of Service

This nurse has spent her life in service to others. Her hours are long, and her pay, by other's standards is low. Yet she is a happy person, far happier than those who have spent their life in a selfish search for pleasure.

Christ understood this when he said in Luke 9:24 "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it." He meant that when man loses themselves in service to others that in the process they will find the true spirit of God.

If you are caught up in a meaningless search for happiness, perhaps you should look around you. There are many ways to serve God, in your own profession, and in your community. Your church offers many opportunities to serve others. Make your life one of service to mankind. This is the true path to happiness.

Old homes in area provide interesting tour

Some of the most fascinating tales of days past can be learned when studying history of old homes in Tidewater.

Reading through the data of historical houses in Tidewater it becomes evident that the greatest stories lie not with the histories of the houses as much as with the people that lived in them.

Realizing this, the Princess Anne County Historical Society is sponsoring a day long Old Homes Tour Oct. 16 that will be as much a biography of some residents of the homes as it will be the story of the structures.

Buses will leave from Pembroke Mall every half hour between 9 and 11 a.m. with routes arranged to avoid crowding.

Tour patrons should bring their own lunches, drinks will be provided.

Cost of the trip is $10 and must be paid prior to the trip. Reservations are a must and may be made by calling 438-5396 or 499-5672.

Included on the five-hour tour are the Francis Land House built in 1732, Upper Wollams, circa 1759, the John Biddle House constructed in 1765, Pembroke Manor built in 1764, Pleasant Hall, circa 1779 and the James Bell House, circa 1810-1820.

Stories around the homes are curious, compelling and exciting.

The James Bell House is an example

After passing through various ownerships, which are in themselves a worthy story, the home came into possession of a Mr. Parker.

During his tenure, the story goes that Mr. Parker had a great deal of money and silver buried somewhere on the property. One especially interested neighbor made nightly forays onto the property to dig in search of buried treasures.

Mr. Parker, apparently not appreciating the diligent efforts of his neighbor, doctored a white sheet and uttered baleful cries. Not impressed, the history of the home includes a ghost at about this same time. If you ever see strange lights in the King's Grant area you might have happened upon the site of the family graves near the John Biddle House.

There are recorded stories of people seeing ghostly lights around the graveyard in the mid-1800s, but owners claimed the lights were simply swamp gas. When the area was developed the bulldozers unknowingly destroyed the graveyard.

Pleasant Hall House has a long history of important residents as well as hardships for other owners. All the homes are well preserved and restored in their original beauty and splendor, making the tour not only historical but colorful.

On Tax plan

Canada attacks Carter

State Senator A. Joseph Canada of Virginia Beach released figures recently which indicate that 46,000 wage earners in the Virginia Beach-Norfolk area may pay higher taxes to the federal government if Jimmy Carter's tax plan is put into effect.

This is roughly 40 percent of the working population of the cities.

Carter, who released details of his proposed tax plan to the Associated Press, said he would "substantially increase" taxes for taxpayers who earn above median or mean national income.

Median family income in the United States is about $14,000 a year. According to U.S. Government Census figures, roughly 40 percent of the working population of the Virginia Beach-Norfolk area are in this income bracket.

Canada told a news conference at his office in Virginia Beach, "Carter's unfair and arbitrary plan would destroy the incentive of those who hope to earn higher income in the future."

"What reason is there in a proposal that says one-half the population must pay increased taxes simply because they make more than some arbitrary figure," Canada asked?

Canada was also critical of the Carter-Mondale plan to do away with the federal income tax deduction for mortgage interest payments now allowed for homeowners. There are about 70,000 homeowners in the Virginia Beach-Norfolk area.

"Carter's plan to end federal tax deductions for interest on home mortgages would increase our tax bills and take away incentives for purchasing a home or constructing an apartment building," Canada said. He noted that if apartment building owners pay higher taxes, they will pass this increased tax along as higher rent payments.

"Thus, Carter's tax plans hurt everyone, not just the privileged few," Senator Canada concluded.

Canada contrasted Carter's plan with the Ford-Dole tax plan. He told the news conference, President Ford believes for every dollar of government spending that is cut, there should be a dollar of permanent tax reduction.

Ford also supports an increase in standard federal tax deductions from $750 to $1,000; broadened stock ownership plans aimed at low and moderate income individuals; reduction of down payments on homes by up to 50 per cent through changes in the FHA laws; and tax credits for college and vocational education tuition payments and for day care expenses for working families.

Canada added that President Ford "doesn't agree with Mr. Carter's philosophy of pitting class against class and neighbor against neighbor. He wants to reduce everyone's overall tax burden, specially that of middle class America."

Canada has been a member of the state Senate since 1972.

Planetarium explores solar system's origin

The feature program for the month of October at the Virginia Beach City Public Schools Planetarium will be "From Mercury to the Asteroid Belt."

The program will begin with the "Origin of the Solar System" which presents the popular theories concerning formation of the solar system.

Evolution and the start of life on Earth will also be considered.

The final part of the program will center on a journey from Earth to Venus and Mercury and back out to Mars and the asteroid belt.

Programs will begin at 7 p.m. on Sundays and Tuesdays every week except Tuesday Oct. 19.

The planetarium may be reached from the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway via the Lynnhaven Exit and turning right on North Lynnhaven Road to Plaza Junior High School where the planetarium is located.

For additional information call 486-1971.

'Child Rearing' is topic

Are your children "Driving You Up the Wall?"

Are you losing patience with them and is your manner of discipline no longer effective?

The Tidewater Chapter, American Red Cross, will conduct a counseling group for parents with "Child Problems" at the new Armed Forces YMCA in Ocean View beginning Thursday, Oct. 14.

Eight weekly sessions are planned and each will last about 90 minutes.

Those attending will have the opportunity to meet with other parents, share ideas, and learn new ways to cope with their children's behavior problems.

Baby sitting will be available. For further information and to register for group sessions, call Chris Foreman at Tidewater Chapter,

Board moves against Shorehaven

The State Water Control Board announced Tuesday at its meeting in Virginia Beach that legal action would be taken in four separate instances of water pollution including on Virginia Beach cases.

Specifically, the board authorized the attorney general's office to seek civil penalties against Shorehaven, Inc., operator of a sewage pump station for apartments at Virginia Beach, and its owner, Robert D. Ruffin Jr., for alleged violation of the state water control law (a special order) was also issued directing Shorehaven to cease discharging improperly treated sewage into Lake Smith and to comply with previously issued Board directives to upgrade its pump station.

Library usage class open

A course in library usage will be offered by the Virginia Beach Public Library's reference department for interested residents 15 and older beginning Thursday, Oct. 7.

The classes, which will meet each Thursday at 7 p.m. for four weeks, will be held at the Bayside Library at 816 Independence Blvd.

Due to space limitations enrollment will be limited. Interested citizens are requested to call 464-9485 to register.

The purpose of the course is to instruct library patrons in effective use of all aspects of the library with special emphasis on the reference collection.

Patrons will be instructed in use of card catalogs and magazine indexes and will also be introduced to a number of special features of the library including the Princess Anne Historical Collection.

The course is planned for four, 90-minute sessions and will be repeated if interest warrants.

Okay, SUN... hand over the loot!

We will!

Right now, we're handing over bundles of loot, literally thousands of dollars, to community groups like the DECA Clubs of Chesapeake and high school band associations of Virginia Beach.

All for selling subscriptions to our papers.

Both the Virginia Beach SUN and the Chesapeake POST, Byerly Publications community newspapers, are participating in a special program with those school groups (and later, other church organizations and civic clubs) to sell one year subscriptions to our newspapers for CASH -- up to $3 per subscription with a $1,000 bonus line!

That can beef up a club treasury in a hurry! And that, by the way, is better than half the cost of a one year subscription. (If you want to help these groups, fill out the subscription blank appearing in this edition.)

Why are we doing this? Well, we want new readers, for one thing. We want to acquaint all of you with the new SUN and POST -- brighter, newsier, closer to the people and even more a part of your community. It's because we're true community newspapers that we want to boost the schools and clubs in the areas we serve. If you're stronger and more active, we benefit. The plan is our way of saying 'thank you' as we grow with you and with Tidewater!

VEC announces construction

The Virginia Employment Commission plans to build an 18,700-square-foot building in the 5100 block of Virginia Beach Blvd. to serve as regional headquarters for the Tidewater area. VEC Commissioner Robert L. Masden announced last week in Virginia Beach. VEC, city and state officials will hold a brief ground-breaking ceremony at the site at 9 a.m. tomorrow, Oct. 14.

The $925,000 project will be carried out entirely with federal funds. Masden said it is part of a program to replace the VEC's 30,000-square-foot Norfolk office at Granby Street with three small facilities.

The architectural firm of Oliver, Smith and Cooke designed the new building. Beach Building Corporation of Virginia Beach was the low bidder on the project at $737,000 with a contract expected to be signed this week. Construction will begin immediately afterward with completion planned for Dec. 1, 1977. The VEC paid $110,000 for the 1.39-acre site across from the Smith-Douglass offices.

The site will allow for automobile access from both the Virginia Beach Boulevard service road and Stuart

On 'spying' issue

Va. Beach City Council says, 'Go to the courts'

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

The Virginia Beach City Council will make no further investigation of the police spying case. Neither will it entertain any more discussion of the matter.

These decisions were made during an executive session Monday afternoon called at the request of Councilman J. Henry McCoy and Floyd E. Waterfield Jr. to clear up the matter once and for all.

Councilwoman Meyers

Oberdorfer refused to attend the session because she thought the discussion should be public. Councilman George R. Ferrill was absent. Mrs. Oberdorfer joined the other members of Council toward the end of the session, however, when summomed by Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing.

Following the session, which lasted more than an hour, Mayor Clarence A. Holland read a brief statement to the effect that by a consensus opinion of Council, there was no evidence that illegal files were ever maintained, that Council will not investigate the matter further and that citizens will be encouraged to take their evidence to the Commonwealth's Attorney for satisfaction. The majority of Council, he said, does not consider the subject a Council matter.

Later, Councilman R. L. Higgs, who has tried to get Council to investigate the

Rabbit 'disappears'

Just like magic, says Mrs. Pat Kidd of Suffolk.

Except that this time around, the magician didn't have to pull the rabbit out of a hat.

Mrs. Kidd had to find a new home for her pet rabbit, so she turned to the FREE BEES in the Virginia Beach Sun.

"I gave it away on the first call," Mrs. Kidd reports. "And I've had a million calls about it."

An impressive story, but there's more: Mrs. Kidd had advertised the bunny in another paper for six weeks and didn't receive a call.

We can't promise that you'll always have that response with the FREE BEES or the regular classified ads in the SUN, but over the years we've found them to be highly successful.

Why? Because, as Mrs. Kidd says, "most people read your paper because it's local." That's our secret -- community news and community advertising aimed specifically at the hometown folks who read us.

If you have something you want to give away, why not take advantage of our FREE BEES? We'll advertise it for you -- free. It's just another service of Everybody's community newspapers. Want to sell something? Use our regular, well-read, classifieds. A great way to get extra cash! Call 547-4571 and place your ad now.

Grave site restored

Vandals may have set William Boush of "Old Princess Anne County" turning in his grave recently, but he is presumably resting easy now that the damage has been repaired.

The lengthy project of the Great Bridge Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in this Bicentennial year was the restoration of the Boush grave sight. That effort was completed in August, but vandals tried to undo some of the work.

The chapter has recently placed a Revolutionary War Patriot marker by his grave in the Boush Family Graveyard. This graveyard is adjacent to the historic seventeenth century Lynnhaven House on Wishart Road in Virginia Beach. William Boush helmed the house with surrounding acres from his father, Captain Frederick Wilson Boush, who was also a patriot (site of whose grave has not been located).

William and Mary Boush lost by death their only son, William Frederick Boush, in 1818. Their only daughter, Ellen J. S. Boush Walke, died in 1884. Neither had issue. Consequently, there was no one to repair the damage made by storms and vadalism to the four high table top tombs. Two large locust trees grew rapidly -- one supposedly ninety years old at the time of removal shored aside the tomb of the daughter. Supports of the marble slabs of the other three tombs were broken and subsequently became covered by weeds and other debris.

During the restoration of the Lynnhaven House by the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, Great Bridge Chapter obtained permission to restore the old graveyard. Restoration of the Graveyard proved to be a difficult undertaking. Members of the Chapter assisted by members of the Norfolk Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution and members of Old Cannon Ball Society, Children of the American Revolution, removed the debris. Subsequently, a tree service company removed the two locust trees one of which had died and then fallen across the tombs. The Lawson Monument Company restored the tombs. The day of the dedication of the restored graveyard and the placing of the Patriot Marker was a beautiful one. Mrs. Clyde W. Bradshaw, Regent of Great Bridge Chapter, conducted the service. She was assisted by Mrs. Joseph D. Deal, District I Director and Acting Chaplain, and Mrs. Charles E. Trebble, Chapter Historian.

Mrs. William B. Wingo, Chapter Bicentennial Chairman, presented Mrs. Gordon Milbrash, a collateral descendant (not direct) of William Boush, who unveiled the Patriot Marker. Mrs. Wingo then presented Mrs. Maurice Walker, another collateral descendant, who read the inscription from the tomb of William Boush. The inscription reads:

"Sacred to the memory of William Boush who was born on the 18th of February A. D. 1759 and expired at Lebanon on the 6th of January 1834. He was an eminently useful member of society in all the relations of life, his heart glowed with benevolence to his fellow beings, and he lived in the practice of the precepts of the Gospel and those graces and virtues which exalt the human character and whose motto ever was, 'Be justly, lowly, merciful, and walk humbly before your God'."

Virginia Beach students benefit

Social Security: not just for oldsters

"Sure, I'm getting Social Security benefits, and I'm awfully glad I am," he said.

He didn't look old enough to drawing Social Security, really--his teeth were all his own, his skin was tight across his cheekbones and his hair, rather than thinning, cascaded down his shoulders.

He wasn't that old, of course--not 65 or even 55. He was 18, and he was collecting Social Security benefits--legally--to help pay his way through Old Dominion.

"Our young man" is purely fictional, says Jack Uhlar, field representative for the Social Security Administration in Tidewater. "But people are often shocked to discover that Social Security benefits are being paid to hundreds of young men and women nationwide -- more than 2,000, in fact."

For those students--3,013 of them in Chesapeake, Portsmouth, Norfolk and Virginia Beach--the Social Security Administration shells out more than a quarter of a million dollars every month. Three million bucks a year. It's obvious that Social Security benefits don't start or stop with the retirement set.

In Tidewater, the Social Security Administration is that 18-22 age bracket, and they receive more than $24,000 a month in benefit payments for their education.

These Virginia Beach students, of course, are eligible to receive monthly cash benefits when one of their parents gets Social Security disability or retirement payments, Uhlar explains.

"They can also receive payments if one of their parents dies after working under Social Security long enough to provide family benefits," he says.

Uhlar points out that not only are these young people entitled to receive the benefits, their parents are entitled to the program, after all, but that the country's investment in education is generally a sound investment. Better-prepared people--through academic or vocational training--generally find and hold higher-paying jobs, and those people will move into the higher tax brackets and return in some measure what they've received.

Uhlar detailed the method by which a Virginia Beach student can draw Social Security benefits. In addition to meeting the previously-mentioned criteria, the recipient must be unmarried and a full-time student (under 22 years of age) who attends a school that meets the definition established by the Social Security Administration.

"If a Virginia Beach student under 18 is receiving benefits already," Uhlar says, "we will notify him a few months before his 18th birthday about what he needs to do to show that he is in school so that his benefits can be continued."

In that case, according to the field representative, a new application is not usually necessary. Should a person become eligible for benefits after the age of 18, though, he will have to file an application to start the benefit checks rolling in.

Uhlar notes that there is a little extra help for eligible young people who may not have been aware that they qualify. When all the requirements for student benefits have been met but an application is filed late, he says, retroactive payments can be made for up to 18 months prior.

Uhlar generally tells students he counsels that they should be prepared to give the following information about his school attendance:

Name and address of the school; dates and attendance during the past year, if he is eligible for back benefits; number of credit hours he carries if he attends a college, junior college or university; number of clock hours he is scheduled to attend each week if he goes to a high school or vocational school; whether he intends to return to school full time; and the date he will return if he is near the end of a school year.

Uhlar says he's happy to advise anyone at any time about Social Security benefits, and he's particularly interested in talking to young people right now. Questions can be directed to him at the Social Security Administration Office, 3661 E. Virginia Beach Blvd. in Norfolk (zip 23505). The phone numbers there are 641-4411 and 641-6428.

Now, what was that remark about Social Security being strictly a retirement program for old codgers?

Woman's seminar to be held

A career woman's seminar will be held at the Cavalier Hotel in Virginia Beach Oct. 20 with Maureen Regan, daughter of former California Governor Ronald Reagan, appearing as guest speaker.

Miss Reagan's subject will be "Women's Personal Freedom."

The Wednesday program will start at 8:30 a.m. and will include continental breakfast, coffee breaks and a champagne luncheon.

Other special guests will be: Commonwealth's Attorney General Andrew P. Miller; Dr. Ann Mingione, Psychiatric Associates Ltd. and Mayor Ann Kilgore.

Fashions will be shown by Leggett stores. Reservations may be made by calling 657-5607 and cost $35 per person.

Brookwood to hold open house

An open house for the Brookwood Elementary School will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 19 starting at 7:30 p.m.

After an opening welcome from PTA president Daisy Cohen, a short talk concerning the Brook Mother Program will be given by Mrs. Crabtree, area chairman of the program.

A PTA membership drive is underway. Any homeroom which registers 100 per cent membership will be given a free ice cream treat. The contest ends Oct. 31.

Persons who are not yet members of the PTA may sign-up during the open house.

Following the general meeting a plant and bake sale will be held.

Other Brookwood PTA programs include the craft workshop for mothers every Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon at the Smith home, 3500 Terrazo Trail.

For more information call 640-7623. Articles are being made for "Santa's Secret Workshop Sale" in December. All are invited to come and share their time, talents and scrap materials.

Public invited to comment on False Cape Park plans

The Virginia Division of State Parks and the Department of Highways and Transportation invite the public to Virginia Beach City Hall Oct. 14 and 15 to review the findings of the False Cape State Park Transportation Access Study.

The two-year long study, involving three alternative routes for access to the proposed False Cape State Park, is sponsored jointly by the Division of State Parks and the Department of Highways and Transportation and is undergoing final review.

Maps, charts and tables showing the most significant findings of the study will be on display to the public in Council Chambers of the Virginia Beach

City Hall from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 14, and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, Oct. 15.

In addition, copies of a summary of the comprehensive study report will be available at city hall during those periods. The Council Chambers are on the second floor.

False Cape State Park is located on the Atlantic Ocean between Back Bay Wildlife Refuge and a third would connect through North Carolina to the park from Knotts Island. Modes examined include private auto and two forms of mass transit.

"We are interested in discussing our findings with the citizens of Virginia Beach," said Ben Bole, commissioner of parks. "Everyone attending will be given the opportunity to comment."

Bole also indicated that written comments to him would receive consideration. Forms for submitting written views on the study will be available at the Division of Parks.

The Division of Parks expects to select one of the alternative access routes after completing a review of the study documents and considering the views and comments received from the community.

PA Woman's Club sponsors show

The 18th annual Antique Showale will be sponsored again this year by the Princess Anne Women's Club of Virginia Beach Oct. 23-31 at the Virginia Beach Civic Center, 19th and Pacific Avenue.

"Princess Anne Belles and Escorts," dolls dressed in authentic Colonial costumes, will be the chief feature of this showale. These dolls are being made in workshops at different members' homes.

An unusual variety of furniture, china, silver, glass, pewter, crystal, etc., will be shown by the 40 dealers from eastern coastal states.

Proceeds from the showale will again be donated to charity, especially the Rescue Squads; Scholarship, including Nursing; Hope Haven, the children's home and camp; Prevention of Blindness; Hospitality House for service individuals; and other philanthropic projects which is determined by the present need.

At all times, hostesses, dressed in colonial costumes, will be present to assist visitors and dealers.

The ever-popular "Country Kitchen" will live up to its reputation of meeting the needs of the hungry by selling assorted sandwiches, ham biscuits, soups, cakes, pies, and beverages. Admission at the door is $1.50. Tickets may be purchased in advance from club members for $1.25.

Liberal arts discussed at Wesleyan College

Virginia Wesleyan College of Virginia Beach will begin a series of discussions on liberal arts education this week.

President Paul Hardin initiated the series with a convocation Oct. 14. Currently president of Drew University, Hardin is the former president of Southern Methodist University and Wofford College. He also served as professor of law at Duke University and as editor of the Duke Law Journal. He is currently chairman of the National Commission on United Methodist Higher Education.

Three convocation follow-up discussions will be Oct. 18, Oct. 23 and Nov. 4. Speakers for the sessions include Dr. Edmund D. Carlson, assistant professor of political science at Virginia Wesleyan; Bishop W. Kenneth Goodson, resident bishop of the Richmond area, and the spiritual and administrative leader of the Virginia Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church; and Virginia Wesleyan President Dr. Lam-buth M. Clarke.

Programs are open to the public at no charge.

Cleveland Murphy

Former Marine and policeman
now preaches and flies kites

The doctor's prescription, outlined against the sky in heavy red and yellow, danced in the wind 150 feet above the center of the Virginia Wesleyan campus. Sprawled in the grass below, with one eye on a book and another on antics of the ball-shaped kite, lay Cleveland L. Murphy of Virginia Beach, a Virginia Wesleyan sophomore. One hundred and fifty feet of monofilament line secured the bobbing, weaving kite to a ballpoint pen jammed in his belt.

Sunspot

"My doctor prescribed it," Murphy smiled as several fellow students walked by, shaking their heads. "Last summer I was hospitalized for a week of bed rest. I wasn't sick, just exhausted. When I got out, the doctor told me to relax. Go fly a kite. So..."

Kites have come to mean something special to the ex-Marine who is majoring in religion.

"Flying a kite gives my mind a chance to wonder and wander," he says. "It creates a mood. There is both freedom and restraint in the actions of the kite. It's like life. You can be very high and then, suddenly, you plunge downward, only to open up and fly again just before you hit bottom. The tragedy is how long you must get before you open again."

The parallel between the kite's action and life is, perhaps, a natural one for Murphy to draw. A full-time student, he is also serving as associate pastor of Central United Methodist Church in Hampton. He hopes to continue his education following graduation from Virginia Wesleyan and continue in the ministry.

Everyone has talents

"Each of us has talents," Murphy explains. "I enjoy people. I would rather be in a crisis situation with people than with a pencil. I've wanted to be in the ministry since I was 13."

Murphy, 26, has had his share of crisis situations with and without a pencil. The native of New Jersey began working as an architectural draftsman in 1964, an activity he continues today on a freelance basis. His background also includes four years in the U. S. Marines, a year in the traffic bureau of the Virginia Beach Police Department and five years as a volunteer firefighter in Virginia Beach.

"These experiences have helped me to be able to relate to other people," Murphy says. "I've actively sought experiences of all kinds, with the exception of drugs. I can't live in a world of illusion—this is an alive, real world. It's vital for a minister to know people and how they work. You must know who you are and who your fellow man is before you can give of yourself through the ministry."

The young minister's love affair with things that fly goes back nearly as far as his desire to serve the United Methodist Church. "When I was a teenager," he recalls, "I used to build balsa wood model airplanes. Then I would climb up a tree, wind up the rubber-band and let them fly. There is a freedom and a grace about a plane in the air that is beautiful."

Alone with God

During his stint in the Marines, he joined a sky diving club and logged 14 jumps. "When you jump, there's a short time when you are falling through the air. It's an experience of peace. You are alone with God. That's why I fly kites. I can relax and be alone. It's not a greedy thing, though. If another student comes to fly the kite, I hand them the string. Perhaps it will help them discover who they are and realize their own potential."

13th annual Faith-Promise Missions Conference coming

Faith Baptist Church, 372 Nelms Lane, Virginia Beach, will hold its 13th annual Missions Conference Oct.

14 through Oct. 31. Services on Sundays will be at 9:45 and 11 a.m. and 6 and 7 p.m.

During the week Monday through Friday the service will be at 7 p.m., with a special day on Saturday for young people.

The Musical Suddards will be in charge of music in each service and will also present special music. Missionary speakers will represent France, the Netherlands, and the D. C. area, and new church work in Virginia.

The theme of the conference is "That They Might Sing" which is taken from Revelation 5:9 where the redeemed of all nations are praising God as their savior.

There will be a nursery for all services.

Faith Baptist Church is located off Virginia Beach Blvd. on Nelms Lane between Hayne's and Zayre's.

Career Night planned

Guidance departments of the 13 Virginia Beach junior and senior high schools will join forces with the city's Chamber of Commerce for a city-wide "Career Carnival" from 6-9 p.m. Oct. 14, at the Virginia Beach Civic Center.

More than 130 representatives from business, industry, and the professions are scheduled to participate in the program and provide students and parents with information about some 100 different careers.

The Chamber of Commerce is assisting the school division by making career representatives available for the second annual career event which will provide visitors with an opportunity to ask people involved in various careers about qualifications, salary expectations, and job opportunities for fields represented.

Career Carnival has been planned as the first part of a two-event effort by the Virginia Beach secondary school guidance departments to give students valuable information for their futures.

The second event, "College Night," will take place Nov. 4, from 4-8 p.m. at the Virginia Beach Civic Center.

At the Dome

'Top cats' to be judged

The Virginia Cat Fanciers will hold their 12th annual championship show Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16-17 at the Va. Beach Civic Center (Dome).

There will be continuous judging from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. both days. Profits will benefit the Virginia Cat Fanciers Neuter/Spay Program.

There will be about 300 of the top cats in the U.S. representing most of the major breeds plus a large number of household pets.

All adult household pets (those that reached the age of 8 months) must be altered to be entered in this show.

We have entries as far away as California, Massachusetts, and Florida. Admission is $1 for adults, 50¢ for children, and children under 5, free.

For additional information call 857-0718.

Great Neck Branch Library prepares for Oct. 19 opening

The new library, first to be built in eight years in Virginia Beach, is large, bright and modern. John Callahan, the librarian, is pleased with the new facility as is Mary Sims, director of library services, who is speaking with him at the new check-out counter. The branch is located near General Hospital on Old Donation Parkway across from Lynnhaven Junior High School.

Mrs. Eric Steenloft has been busy for several weeks placing the 10,000 new books on the shelves of the recently completed Great Neck Branch Library. It seems almost as if she is outdoors as the library construction has utilized windows far more than most libraries, eliminating that "closed-in" feeling. The library has a potential shelving capacity of 40,000-50,000 books.

An early visitor to the Great Neck Branch Library found the seats comfortable and the large bay windows enjoyable.

One feature of the new library caught Donald Nagolski's eye and leaves little room for doubt. SUN photos by Steve Stone.

Nationally known astrologer to speak in Virginia Beach

Nationally famous astrologer, writer, and lecturer Alan Oken will arrive in Virginia Beach on Oct. 15. He will present a lecture that evening at 7:30 p.m. at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, Oceanfront and 38th Street in Virginia Beach, entitled "The Place of the Individual in Humanity and the Cosmos."

On Saturday, Oct. 16, he will present a full-day astrology workshop from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. with a lunch break from 1-2 p.m. at the Jefferson Room of Atlantic Permanent Savings and Loan, 944 Independence Blvd. in Virginia Beach.

The two three-hour Saturday workshops are entitled "The Geometry of the Spheres" and "The Law of Polarity: The Horoscope of Human Sexuality." Alan's visit is jointly sponsored through the resources and efforts of PRIMA, Inc., The Friends of Astrology Study Group, and the Virginia Astrological Association.

The workshop will be $20 per person. Advance payments should be made to PRIMA, Inc. no later than Oct. 5, to insure reservations. For further details and reservations, contact Ted Sharp at 425-3053.

VEC regional office

Street and will provide 64 parking spaces. "The new office will provide the full range of our services to the public in this area as well as serving as a regional headquarters," Masden said. "In addition, we plan to continue to have an office in the downtown area housing all of our regular services plus our Work Incentive (WII) welfare reform program. Our plans call for a third small office in the Wards Corner area." Both the new downtown office and the Wards Corner location would be in leased space, the commissioner said. The new building will house the VEC's employment service operations on the first level, including a job information center which enables job-seekers to examine all job openings available through the VEC and select those of greatest interest to them. The second floor will contain the unemployment insurance office and the "Job Bank" operation, which provides up-to-date job listings for VEC offices. Plans call for computerizing the "Job Bank" even further by March 1977, to enable the VEC to match job openings and job seekers automatically. Russell O. Rucks, the VEC's field supervisor for offices in Norfolk, Virginia Beach, Portsmouth, Chesapeake and Suffolk, will also have his offices in the new building, which will be centrally located for these offices. "At a time when state government must look for ways to cut its budget, this is truly an attractive method of financing a needed new facility," Masden said. "It is being built, in effect, at no cost to state taxpayers."

Two other collateral descendants of William Boush, Mrs. Laura Boush Green and Mrs. Aileen Boush Davies, attended the Grave Marking Ceremony. From the tomb of Mary Boush, wife of William Boush, it was learned that she was born the 3rd of May A.D. 1764 and that she "deceased this life the 24th of December 1822." The oldest extant tomb is that of William Frederick, Wilson Boush, "a citizen of Princess Anne of which county he was Justice of Peace and delegate to the Assembly, is private life his duty, a Christian in heart and deed. He lived by faith and died in hope on the 19th of February 1818 in the 25th year of his age." The fourth restored tomb was of "Ellis J. S. Walke, widow of David M. Walke and daughter of William and Mary Boush, who departed this life on the 9th of June 1844 in the 32nd year of her age. Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

Seventeenth century Lynnhaven House, the graveyard, and the 1 1/2 acre property are owned and maintained by the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities (A.P.V.A.). The house, located at 4601 Wishart Rd. near the intersection with Wittebeck Road, is one of the best preserved 17th century houses in the United States. Lynnhaven House, grounds and graveyard, are open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday.

Dr. Ellis is speaker for PTA conference

"If he or she is going to be a parent, an adolescent must be a person first. The initial emphasis is the value of the individual," says Effie Ellis, M.D., co-director of the Quality of Life Center in Chicago.

Dr. Ellis will be the featured speaker on "The Quality of Life" at the Tidewater Regional PTA Conference on Parenting, to be held Thursday, Oct. 21, at Kempsville High School auditorium in Virginia Beach.

The program begins at 7 p.m. according to Mae Belle Cousens, regional PTA vice president, this is one of many conferences on parenting across the country for PTA delegates, school administrators, teachers, students, parents and school nurses, designed to identify and to promote family life education within the school, family and community. "If today's youth are to have the kind of education they need to insure the quality of their own lives and those of their children to prevent birth defects, child abuse, and other related problems early enough to make a difference, we must all join in the effort to upgrade health and family life education," Mrs. Cousens says.

Keynote Ellis nationally known for her work with the health and nutritional problems of the poor, is an independent quality of life consultant. Until May of 1975 Dr. Ellis served as special assistant for Health Services to the executive vice president of the American Medical Association. She is one of the original architects of the AMA's "Quality of Life" Program. Doctor Ellis has served the federal government in a number of capacities; most important were as Chairman of a panel group at the 1969 White House Conference on Nutrition and the 1970 White House Conference on Child-rearing.

At the Kempsville conference, the program will feature other distinguished authorities in the field of medicine, health and education. Dr. E. E. Brickell, superintendent of Virginia Beach Public Schools, will speak on "An Educator Looks at Parenting."

Mrs. Cousens invites all persons interested in this generation of youth and their children to attend the conference.

performances of the Amphibious Training Demonstrator at 2 and 3:30 p.m. The USS Pensacola's primary mission is to operate as part of an amphibious assault force. Unique to the ship is its well deck; similar to a dry dock, it can be flooded to allow landing craft to sail into and from the interior of the ship.

Along with her large troop berthing facilities, the well deck enables the Pensacola to transport combat troops, vehicles, and preloaded heavy landing craft, to an assault area and rapidly discharge the men and their equipment upon arrival. The Pensacola will be docked at the quay mall.

The Amphibious training demonstrator is an hour-long multimedia presentation depicting a classic amphibious assault. The presentation includes use of moving scale models of ships and aircraft, film strips, slides, and a narrator.

The Amphibious Museum is located in building 1604, West Annex. The museum exhibits include an outside station display area which provides a view of the development of amphibious warfare over the past 24 years.

'Hire A Vet Day' declared

Virginia Beach Mayor Clarence Holland has joined other Tidewater area mayors in declaring Oct. 25 "Hire A Veteran Day."

The mayors have commissioned the National Alliance of Businessmen to help get jobs for some of the 1,800 unemployed veterans in the area.

As part of the effort, the alliance will conduct a telephone solicitation campaign stressing the problems faced by veterans in finding employment. Plans are to call about 1,000 area employers.

Hampton Roads PGA to meet

The fall meeting of the Hampton Roads Personnel and Guidance Association will be held at Lake Wright Hotel in Virginia Beach Thursday, Oct. 14.

The Association, which includes members from business and industry as well as schools and colleges of the south Tidewater area, will consider practical aspects of job placement. A panel of professionals will lead discussion with a pre-luncheon.

The program will begin at 11:30 a.m. with a social hour followed at 12:15 p.m. by a luncheon.

Professor Franklin R. Jones will be guest speaker with a program titled "Pat, Football and Forty Middleclassness."

The program will begin at 11:30 a.m. with a social hour followed at 12:15 p.m. by a luncheon.

Professor Franklin R. Jones will be guest speaker with a program titled "Pat, Football and Forty Middleclassness."

Cooke promoted

Steve Cooke of Virginia Beach has been promoted to manager of the McDonald's family restaurant on Indian River Road.

His promotion was one of six announced recently by McDonald's Systems of Tidewater.

"An albino what?" Most ask as they draw away from Butch Ashworth's pet skunk, but once they realize they are not going to get sprayed, they come back for a closer look. If you have never seen a skunk close up before, they are actually cute little furry creatures, and "Shoshana" (Hebrew for rose) is every inch pure white and cuddly. (The SUN photo by Steve Stone.)

Adult exercise class open

The Academy of the Virginia Beach Ballet is again offering an adult exercise class this year, Tuesday mornings from 9:30-10:30 a.m.

This class is open to men as well as women, and is based on principles of kinesiology, the study of movement. It is taught by Ms. Judith Hatcher, who has a master's degree in kinesiology, as well as being a teacher of ballet, modern dance and jazz.

This class has proved quite popular and all interested adults are urged to sign up while openings are still available.

For further information and registration call the Academy at 425-0994.

Beach bands parade in Lynchburg

The Lynchburg Classic has to be rated as the show of the year for high school bands in the three-state area of Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee.

The start of this big day in Lynchburg was a parade. Lead banner for this parade read "Lynchburg Classic, The Parade of Champions." A parade of champions is just what it was. All the major bands from the three states were there. A more impressive gathering of bands would be hard to find anywhere. Tidewater was there in strength.

The field competition held that evening was equally impressive. The only way a high school band could compete in the classic was by invitation, and bands invited to compete were Indian River High School, Chesapeake, George Washington High School, Danville, Princess Anne High School, Virginia Beach, Sylvia-Webster High School, Sylva, N.C., Falls Church High School, Fairfax, Greensboro Central High School, Snow Hill, N.C., and Halls High School, Knoxville, Tenn. The host band and drill team for this great event was E.C. Glass High School of Lynchburg. A comment on the line-up for this competition could only be "superb." These bands are the best of the best.

At every competition there is always that one exceptionally good band that everyone says "is the band to beat." At this competition there were eight of them, all superior in every category. As one band director put it, "just to be invited to this event is an honor."

There has never been a more outstanding group of high school bands displayed on any field. Neal Haworth, band director for E.C. Glass, and his group did an excellent job of picking just the best to compete at this competition.

The judges, from across the Atlantic seaboard, well-qualified to be there. Some of them were judges for the Neptune Festival Field Competition. They are the best you can get.

Final results of the day long activities were: Drum Majors--1. Sylvia-Webster; 2. Princess Anne, 3. Falls Church; Drum line--1. Sylvia-Webster; 2. Princess Anne; 3. Falls Church.

Color guard, 1. Sylvia-Webster; 2. George Washington, 3. Princess Anne;

Majorettes--1. Indian River; 2. George Washington, 3. Princess Anne;

Overall standings--1. Sylvia-Webster; 2. Falls Church; 3. George Washington; 4. Princess Anne, 5. Halls.

The show at the end of the competition was performed by hosts E.C. Glass. This show was equal in every way to the one put on by the competing bands. E.C. Glass had a big day here at the Neptune Festival when they went home with four first places, a second place, and a third place. That alone should say all there is to say about them. And they are that good.

Beach Shodeo benefits kids

By CLARENCE E. DRUMHELLER

Over $3,000 was awarded in contest money, but one has the feeling that the real winners at the 17th Annual Shodeo in Princess Anne Park Oct. 1-3 were the children with impaired hearing who received the game, and the thousands of spectators who filled the stands.

At one point the arena clown stood over a black Angus calf which looked for all the world like it was dead.

"He's got it bad!" the clown yelled to the Shodeo director's booth. The spectators looked on in tense concern.

"What's the matter with him?" asked the loud-speaker voice from the booth. "He's got a bad case of diaper rash, that's what!" yelled the clown.

The tension among the spectators began to ease.

In a flurry of activity, someone ran to the clown carrying a can of baby dusting powder. The clown sprinkled the powder liberally on the still-prone calf in the appropriate area to cure diaper rash. Immediately, the calf jumped to his feet and ran off, to the cheers and applause of the spectators in the bleachers.

The show then got back underway with the exciting business of calf-roping, barrel racing (girls), and brose riding. All that was later followed by wild-ovr milking, a calf scramble for contestants under 12 years of age, bull riding, and girl's wild steer riding.

One of the most exciting events of the show was the Virginia Beach Police presentation of the K-9 Corps. Each of the nine beautiful German dogs of the Corps was put through spectacular obedience drills, performed with the precision and accuracy of a West Point Cadet.

A demonstration was then staged in which a would-be robber ran across the arena. A K-9 prowl car came roaring onto the scene. Before the car stopped the K-9 dog leaped to the driver's head, raced across the arena's shavings-covered floor, and grabbed the robber's wrist in his vice-like jaws, holding him until two police handlers could arrive to make the arrest.

To assure that there were no dull moments, bleacher clowns were on hand between the change of events to thread their way among the spectators and amuse the children who watch the show between licks on their candy apples.

Concession stands selling a variety of foods were open throughout the event.

The Shodeo is sponsored at Princess Anne Park each year by the Tidewater Western Riders in conjunction with the Tidewater Association for Hearing Impaired Children.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach, Va., on the 9th day of October, 1976.

Plaintiff, David Sprinkle, Jr., Plaintiff, against Percival Joyce Stott Sprinkle, Defendant.

The object of this suit is to obtain a divorce a vinculo matrimonii from the defendant, upon the grounds of one year separation.

And an affidavit having been made and filed that the defendant's last known post office address is 3743 E. Stratford Road, Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Beach, Virginia, and that due diligence has been used by and on behalf of the plaintiff to ascertain in what county or corporation the defendant is, without effect. It is ordered that she do appear here within ten (10) days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect her interest in this suit.

Goalie getting good-so 's P.A.

By BLAIR THURMAN
SUN Sports Editor

The Princess Anne field hockey team last year went 2-8 this year, they have zoomed to a 3-1 start. The difference between the two teams? Organization, says Sue Jarrett.

Sue is in a position to know just what the problems with the team are, filling, as she does, the advantageous role of goalie. From there, she can get a good overview of the game and still be involved.

And from this position, is where she makes her observations. "Last year was confusion," said Sue. "We weren't organized very well. This year everyone is working together."

One reason P.A. is winning in the early going, is that their opponents have a great deal of difficulty getting the ball in the goal, which must be done before victory can be claimed.

Sue is a tenuous goalie, blocking every shot that comes her way. In the three games the Cavaliers have won, Sue has registered shut-outs. They beat Kellam 1-0, Kempeville 2-0, and First Colonial 3-0. In their one loss, they themselves were whitewashed, 1-0, by Cox.

But Sue, who has allowed but one goal in four games, is quick to share the credit. "The defense is so good," said the blonde senior, "that they make my job easy. I don't really have to make that many saves."

Indeed, she sometimes appears lonely when the rest of the players are at the far end of the field trying to score themselves. She occupies her time shouting encouragement to her teammates. "Come on P.A! What do you say now! Let's go red!"

And she does have one companion she can talk to. "My fullback (Mary Ann Thompson) drops back and talks to me," Sue explained.

Sue is only in her second year playing on the field hockey team, her previous experience coming from physical education classes. She started out at the wing position, but played spot on the field. Presently, a new Princess Anne goalie. "I just did well," she said modestly.

When the hockey season ends, and Sue is finished frustrating P.A. foes, she jumps right into basketball, playing guard.

In the spring, Sue, never one to slow down, runs track, competing in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, the discus and the shot.

One might be led to believe that athletics are important to Sue. One might be right. "That's about my life," said the 18-year-old, of her athletic endeavors.

She intends to make it even more of her life. She doesn't know yet where to attend college, but she knows what she wants to study. "I plan on being a P.E. teacher," she said without reservation.

Meanwhile though, the field hockey season is what is important, and Sue is excited about it. "I'd like to see us go all the way," she said. Maybe they'll do it.

Haynes boosts Kelam squad

By BLAIR THURMAN
SUN Sports Editor

Before the Bayfield game, we always looked inside the ten-yard-line." That is Trent Haynes' explanation of why the Kelam Knights failed to develop into an offensive threat throughout the beginning of this football season.

Haynes is a running back on a Knight squad that scored only nine points in their first four games. Then came the game with Bayfield, who, as did Kelam, hoped to win the Beach District. "We knew we had to beat Bayfield," said Haynes. "We (the offense) had gotten a little depressed, but we knew we had to beat Bayfield," said Haynes. "We knew we had an offense that can score, and we knew we wouldn't quit."

Indeed they did not. They ambushed the Marlins 27-7, with Haynes breaking loose on an 88-yard touchdown scamper. "That run was the most exciting moment of my football career," said Haynes of the run. "I kept thinking, 'I can't fall down, I can't drop the ball and I can't let anyone catch me.'"

That play, which was designed to gain about five yards, capped the defeat of Bayfield, who did manage to score a touchdown.

Haynes is a 148-pound senior, and about as easy to hold onto as a wet watermelon on ice. Even though he has rushed for over 400 yards this season, he is not satisfied with his performance. "I can do better than that," he said. "Our line is opening up big holes, so I should be picking up more yards."

Holes are also opened up by Dennis Hoggard, the Knight fullback, who Haynes says is, "a real good blocker."

Last year, Haynes played defensive back, and would be going both ways this year except that he lacks the stamina. "We have good defensive backs," explained Haynes, "and I'd be bootstrapped after carrying the ball about 30 times a game."

Handicapped hunters helped

During the 1976 Spring session of the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, the Commission adopted new hunting regulations suggested by the Virginia Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults to give handicapped Virginians an opportunity to hunt in spite of disabling conditions.

The new regulations will allow the handicapped to hunt from a vehicle that is at least three hundred feet from roads or highways, and will also allow the disabled hunter to take antlerless deer at any time during the regular deer season.

Hockey being promoted at Beach

If there was ever a playing surface that seemed safe from the myriad of manufacturers that appear obsessed with turning everything we compete on that is natural, into something synthetic, it is the ice used for ice skating and ice hockey.

Now however, there is such an artificial surface, and it may do much to promote community skating and hockey. One reason, obviously, is that there is no natural ice in Virginia Beach to skate on. And large ice rinks that use artificial ice are extremely expensive.

The solution may be synthetic ice, a plastic surface made of interlocking pieces that is amazingly like the real stuff.

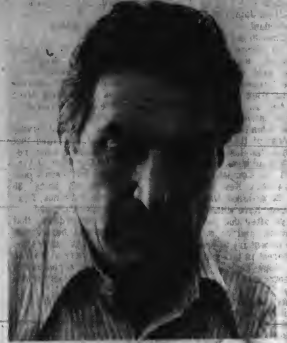

There are two such rinks at the Beach, under the auspices of Iceless Ice Rinks Corp. of America, whose president is Al Grissino. Both companies employ a neighborhood concept with these rinks and in the planning of future rinks in the area.

This neighborhood concept involves having small rinks placed in locations where most of the residents of a neighborhood can get to it by walking or riding a bicycle. These rinks will vary in size from the 1000 square foot Beach Mall Studio to the 2500 square foot Kellam Ice Rink, and will support 25 to 75 skaters.

Their use is principally for instruction, practice, and neighborhood recreational ice skating.

With the possible rapid development of ice skaters at the Beach, competitive ice hockey should become a reality available to boys and girls as a bonafide recreational outlet.

The fact that ice skating has come as far as it has in the area, is due largely to one man. Ice skating in Tidewater has been Joseph F. Fava Jr.'s pet project ever

The dubious honor of having the longest scoreless streak in the area belongs to Maury High in Norfolk. The Kempville Chiefs kept the streak alive with a 16-0 whitewash of the hapless Commodores. It's getting hot so one wants to become the first team to allow Maury to score. They play Bayside this week.

And speaking of shut-outs...

The Kellam defense has registered shut-outs in four of their six games. That is the main reason for their district leading their 4-1-1 record. They have won games by scores of 7-0 and 2-0, and they have played to a scoreless tie. How important is defense?

The rich get richer...

It may not have anything to do with wealth, but the Plaza Patriots (Pre-teen and Junior girls' basketball teams in the city community leagues) can do so wrong. Coached by Larry Riger, these teams are both coming off city championships and continue to crush their opponents. Last week the Pre-teens won 59-3 over the Kings Grant Royals, and the Juniors won 38-18 over the Great Neck Commodores.

If ya gotta go...

Mr. Tashiko Ishikawa, an eighth-degree black belt in judo, and president of the Ishikawa Judo School in Virginia Beach, won first place in the First Virginia State Judo Invitational. Go is a popular game in the Orient, played on a board made of intersecting lines and occupied with round pieces that mark a player's territory. The tournament was held in Richmond on Sept. 25.

Sure, there is a business angle too, but for me, the best part of the Nephew Festival, is that it gets so many people involved in its activities. People are generally too lazy to participate in anything, but the turnouts at various sports events showed that if events are organized, there will be competition.

Norview High, leaders of the Eastern District, lost to defending state champion Hampton last week, 50-0. Then they played at Princess Anne, and after a close first half, got blown away by the Cavaliers. A happy Ralph Gahagan, the P. A. coach, conceded after the game, but the loss to Hampton, "probably didn't help Norview any." It would have made no difference though, as Princess Anne would have trounced the Pilots regardless.

Princess Anne high has chalked more up victories that any other team in the Beach District, yet has only one district win. The Cavaliers apparently enjoy playing non-district teams.

since his coming to Tidewater some 16 years ago. He urged that there be an organization for hockey play and helped start the Great Tidewater Minor Hockey Association (GTMHA) some five years ago. Later, largely through Fava's efforts, the area facilities have been expanded and made more accessible.

The purpose of all this work is to organize a hockey league in each city in Tidewater. A Virginia Beach addition to the GTMHA has been proposed, and this week, a meeting will take place to decide whether or not adequate facilities, (a large rink with artificial ice) will be provided.

According to Grissino, it is hoped that the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation will foot a substantial part of the cost. "No one there objects to the plan," said Grissino, "they just want to see how well organized this project is."

Grissino added that his ultimate objective is to build a few more of the small iceless rinks that could be used for instruction and recreation, and use the larger facility for games and shows.

Financial support for the hockey league teams has been solicited, and so some commitments have already been made to share the cost of a youth's hockey equipment about $150.

One of the problems, according to Grissino, is the culture in Tidewater. "People here are just not geared to ice hockey," he said. "Up north it's a way of life. We have to promote it down here, but there is no reason why it shouldn't become popular. We trained about 500 kids this summer, and are training about 200 right now."

Recruiting knowledgeable coaches, too, is a problem, but efforts are being made to find experienced ones, and in fact some have been found.

If the program is supported by the people, perhaps "Face-off" will be an often heard shout in Virginia Beach.

Council

When asked if he would make a minority report, he said, "Give me a few days to think about it."

He added that he appreciated the sincerity of Council members during the executive session and felt that expressed their true convictions.

Although it was late-- Council adjourned from the session at 5:40 p.m.--more than a dozen persons in addition to the press waited to hear Council's decision.

Among them was John X. Aragona, a who had earlier stated a statement on the case was not available. He said he would not call David to take a lie detector test on the basis of an affidavit that was refused.

Hanbury admitted that the police do surveilance on reliable information, but that "solely because they are business leaders, solely because they have Italian surnames are political leaders."

Aragona yesterday charged that he has been "followed on numerous occasions by a blue van with a Delaware license plate." He said he told Mayor Holland who told him the license number was registered in the Virginia Beach Police Department.

"I then asked the mayor what he was going to do about it. His answer was 'I don't know.' It would seem to me that if the mayor doesn't know what to do, then he should resign and let somebody who does know what to do take the job."

Hanbury said that he had "no reason to suspect that John X. Aragona was being followed," and that he would

Kellam recalls 50's

It can hardly be classified as nostalgia, since high school kids these days can't possibly remember the 50's, but nevertheless, last Thursday was 50's Day at Kellam High School.

Students dressed up in the typical dress of their predecessors, had roamed the halls skipping and singing, "Let's Go To The Hop."

Debbie Mitchell, a senior, said she was inspired by the TV hit, "Happy Days," and dressed up accordingly. She said the funniest part of the day was when she went to the Seven-11 store before school and received a lot of strange looks from the construction workers who were buying coffee.

Frank Miller also recalled the "incompetence of the Virginia Beach Police Department. Miller is the father of John Joseph Miller, who, with Kenneth Patrick Hang were killed in an automobile accident. He related results of a police department investigation finding that the young men went through the back window of an automobile driven by a young Richmond girl when the car was involved in an accident. "All I'm asking is that the Police Department establish what happened to my son... This can happen to anyone of your age should either fire Chief Davis or Mr. Hanbury for not doing their job."

Support for the Police Department came from Reid Erwin, a former councilman. "It disturbs me to see an orchestrated effort to so completely discredit the chief of police and Mayor Davis. You can take any group of men in a Police Department and you will always have a bad apple."

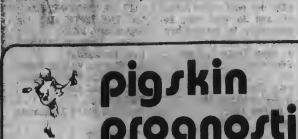

He said that if his good name were questioned, he would take his complaint to court. "I would have my name cleared."

Holland replied, "I expressed an opinion, but I did not say I would do anything."

Joel Smith, a defeated candidate during the last Council election, said the Council should take some position on the issue. "It will not go away... maybe the city attorney could look into the legalities of appointing a commission... because the Council is a political

First Colonial came on like gangbusters, scoring, as they did, 19 fourth quarter points, spending Cox front-runner at the Beach, from their high perch. It was not predicted.

However, Kempville skunked Maury, Bayside held off Washington, Princess Anne destroyed Norview and Kellam, behind a super Billy Carter at quarterback, ate up John Marshall. All predicted.

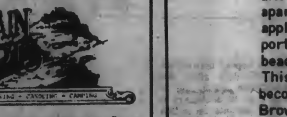

This week, the picks are tougher, and the possibility for a 1-3 week looms large ahead.

Princess Anne plays at Kellam, and both squads have legitimate title aspirations. Kellam quarterback Billy Carter and running back Lou Efford are question marks in this big contest, and their health just may be the pivotal aspect of the game. The Cavaliers have been devastating behind the running of Jesse Williams and Jimmy DiMarzio. The Kellam defense has been air-tight. Which will prevail? Using the edge, "Good defense stops good offense," I'll go with Kellam. But only by 3.

lam and beating Cox. They will beat the Bookers. By 10.

Bayside hosts Maury in what should be a real mismatch, except that the Bay-side offense often spitters, and will not roll up an enormous score. The Marlins do have a fine defense, and Maury has yet to score this year. There is no light at the end of the Commodore's tunnel. Bayside by 18.

Decisions, decisions, decisions, I have a hard enough time choosing between a Big Mac and a Quarter Pounder with Cheese let alone selecting a crepe from a menu featuring 50.

Nestled among other little stores in Independence Shopping Center, across from Pembroke Mall, the red-white-and-blue striped awning of La Crepe Restaurant (fitting name) sports the colors of the country it's culinary creations originated from -- France.

What is a crepe, you ask? A Crepe is the original French pancake, made from a delicate batter, cooked on a large, circular grill and filled to suit your taste with anything from bacon and Swiss cheese to ice cream and hot apples. You may enjoy a dinner crepe followed by a desert crepe and still spend under $5.00.

Everything at La Crepe is REAL - made from scratch from the finest imported and domestic wines, cheeses and herbs, and all served in the French manner.

Roast Duck is four hours in the preparation and unforgettable to the taste buds. Scallops a la de Grasse is one of five dishes concocted in tribute to one of five generals and admirals who aided the Americans in their fight for independence.

Strange as it may sound, the food at La Crepe has a definite personality. It reflects the "smiles" with which it is prepared, served and enjoyed.

Elizabeth, a "wizard" in the words of Phillip Unger

One never knows what one might find under the friendly roof shared by the friends and employees of La Crepe. During one of my frequent visits, Phillip introduced me to one of his latest creations, cream of lettuce soup, served much in the same manner of Vicky's - it's cool and refreshing sensation was "delish," and it is destined to be a new favorite.

For those who appreciate a good bottle of wine with their meal, La Crepe features fine selection of both French and American carafes ranging in price from $2.25 a half bottle to Don Perignon at $40 a bottle. That should provide a wide enough selection of the grape to please any wine connoisseur.

Many have seen the Eiffel Tower, but few have ever tasted it. One of La Crepe's special French drinks shares company with others like the French Connection, The French '76 and The Pomme Pomme made with apple brandy and sparkling apple cider.

French cooking requires three things: patience, care and pride. "It expresses our gratitude in the joy of French cooking," explains Phillip. That's apparent to all who share the dining experience at La Crepe, whether it be a fast crepe between shopping or a five course gourmet meal.

In a sentence: La Crepe offers its friends sophisticated dining at the fairest of prices. Bon Appetit

City-wide swine flu clinics set for Nov. 6, 7

By STEVE STONE
SUN News Editor

Many public health officials are keeping their fingers crossed in hopes that the on-again-off again swine flu program is finally back on the tracks.

Mass clinics for the entire City of Virginia Beach have been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 6 and 7 at six local public schools for those 18 and older.

City health officials announced Monday morning that citizens would be able to obtain shots from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Coa High School, Virginia Beach Junior High, Kempsville High, Plaza Jr. High, Bayside High and Kellam High.

Hundreds of volunteers are being used for the program and more are still needed. Interested persons should contact the Tidewater Red Cross, which is heading the volunteer program, at 625-5731.

Plans are to immunize 171,000 Beach citizens, a goal which calls for much planning, preparation and stocking-up of supplies.

Some statistics for the Beach program include:

--171,000 doses of monovalent vaccine occupying 27 cubic feet which must be refrigerated. Facilities of the Giant Open Air Supermarket at the Beach are being utilized for storage.

--334 plans of alcohol and as equal amount of acetone to use on the area of injection.

--440 cubic feet of cotton swab to wipe up the alcohol and acetone.

--Hundreds of metal trash containers to hold all the alcohol and acetone soaked cotton swabs. (Plastic liners can not be used as the acetone would eat through it.)

--171,000 band aids. At one person per shot this means whether yours works the first time or...

In addition to the supplies actually connected with giving the shots, officials have thought ahead and made other preparations.

--Unaccounted cases of pamphlets and flyers explaining the shots and the purpose are ready for distribution.

--Over 400 posters will be printed in the next few days to announce the time and locations of the immunization clinics.

--For those who feel the world is held together by masking tape, the swine flu program will not displease you, 17 rolls of tape have been purchased.

--A "whole bunch" of arrows (left and right) have been made to help direct people through lines quickly.

--Even two boxes of pencils will be on hand at each clinic to fill out the hundreds of thousands of consent forms.

The Beach Police Department will be handling the traffic and parking situations at and near each clinic night.

Every bit of planning possible has gone into the Beach program and it is hoped that all will move smoothly and without complication.

Influenza (flu) is caused by viruses. When people get flu they may have fever, chills, headache, dry cough or muscle aches. Illness may last several days or a week or more, and complete recovery is usual. However, complications may lead to pneumonia or death in some people. For the elderly and people with diabetes or heart, lung, or kidney diseases, flu may be especially serious.

It is unlikely that you have built up adequate natural protection against swine flu, since it has not caused widespread human outbreaks in 45 years.

The vaccine will not give you flu because it is made from killed viruses. One shot with jet injector will protect most people from swine flu during the next flu season (winter 1976-spring 1977). Today's flu vaccines cause fewer side effects than those used in the past. In contrast with some live vaccines, influenza vaccine can be taken safely during pregnancy.

Most people will have no side effects from the vaccine. However, tenderness at the site of the shot may occur and last for several days. Some people will also have fever, chills, headache, or muscle aches within the first 48 hours.

Lynnhaven River dredging is still up in the air

The Lynnhaven River dredging expected to start this month may be delayed until November or December. That is, if it gets started at all.

City Manager George L. Hanbury told City Council Monday at an informal session that two federal agencies had declared unsuitable a spoils site selected by the city. The property, owned by the Lynnhaven Marine Corporation, is located on the west side of the Lesser bridge.

Under a contract with the federal government, the city will provide the spoils area and the U.S. Corps of Engineers will do the dredging.

Although the Corps approved the site, objections have come from the Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Marine Service. Without their okay there can be no dredging. Without dredging, Councilman John R. Griffin said, there will be no water sports.

Hanbury said, however, that negotiations are under way to use a site owned by developer Wayne McLusky. The federal agencies, Hanbury thinks, will find

Dedication on Saturday

At 10 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 23, the City of Virginia Beach will hold dedication ceremonies for the new Great Neck Branch Library.

The library is located on Bayne Drive across from the Virginia Beach General Hospital.

Guest speaker for the dedication is Gay Frédelin, columnist for the Virginian Pilot.

An open house of the facility will be held until 5 p.m.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Gourmet's delight

Where can you get the best chops in Tidewater?

Know a cozy little place where you can get a 14-course dinner for two?

You'll find these answers in the Virginia Beach SUN's all-new dining and entertainment page, "After the SUN goes Down."

It's on the back page today -- a guide (and review) of all the best restaurants in the Beach and beyond. Look us over this week, and on a continuing basis, as we rate the restaurants.

Several of those participating in Saturday's fund raising hike-a-thon at Ft. Story were, from left, Russell Martin, 16, of Kellam High School; Cathy Loh-chio, 17, of First Colonial High; Irene LeTrussie-Gardes, executive director; Danny Roebuck of well represented Brewbaker Academy of Norfolk and Ann

Cancel my ad!

Cancel my ad!

These aren't the sweetest words a newspaper advertising salesman can hear, but we don't mind at all when they have a story to tell like Mrs. G.M. Johns Jr. of Apian Avenue in Virginia Beach.

She cancelled her ad because results were terrific--she ran a classified in the Virginia Beach SUN and sold her item on the very first call.

"I didn't start out quite that good, though," Mrs. Johns had an old school desk she wanted to sell and had no luck whatever after running it for six weeks in another paper.

"Just one time in the SUN, and I sold it on the first call," Mrs. Johns reports.

"A lady from Churchland read about it in the Tidewater LIFE."

That's the idea. Your By-ary Publications' community paper--be it the Virginia Beach SUN, the Chesapeake POST or the Tidewater LIFE in Churchland--carries your classified ad message throughout the Tidewater. And at bargain-basement prices!

"People buy that other paper just when they are looking for something in particular," Mrs. Johns comments.

Ullar says, The Social Security expert notes that far and away the most common misunderstanding of Social Security is that young people think it's just "something to retire on" when you get to be 65.

"They think if you're in your 20's or 30's you needn't give it much thought. Well, retirement and Medicare are a big part of it. But, the fact is, on the average, one-third of the Social Security benefits go to young families as disability and death payments."

He points out, too, that among today's young families frequently, both mothers and fathers work and the children are often dependent on the mother's savings as well as the father's. Regardless of which spouse earns the most, he says, "It should shore up your confidence to know that your children are protected no matter whose earnings are lost--the mother's or the father's."

Social Security more than a retirement program

(Second in a continuing series on Social Security.)

Social Security is more than just a retirement program for the over-the-hill gang, and it's more than kid stuff (hundreds of Virginia Beach colleagues are now receiving educational benefits under the program).

"My message this week is for the young mothers and fathers in Virginia Beach," says Jack Ullar, Chesapeake Social Security representative.

Ullar says that most young families don't think of Social Security this way, but it can be viewed as an insurance policy worth as much as $10,000 a year. That knowledge could be a lot of comfort to some families who can't afford a major disability insurance plan and who think they're underprotected.

"Young people are incorrect when they persuade themselves that the Social Security program is only for older people," Ullar explains. "For example: The maximum retirement at 65 in 1976 is $387.30 a month, based on a average covered yearly earnings of $7,026."

"However, survivors and disability benefits can reach much higher levels now. Let's say a porter became disabled in 1975 at age 23 (or younger) and had average covered yearly earnings of $8,400 for two years. His disability benefit would be $437 a month effective in June of 1976. With a wife and two children--the family benefits would be $764.70 a month or $9,176.40 a year! Says Ullar: "You young families may feel you have lots of responsibility and little financial security for your families if you die or become disabled. However, it's clear you may have more protection than you think."

Most young parents have been working for several years on jobs covered by Social Security during which time they have made regular Social Security contributions through payroll deductions. These contributions are helping to build a kind of "instant estate."

"It should give you the peace of mind that comes from knowing that your family has some basic financial protection should you die or become disabled. Yes, you can count on social security now!" Ullar says. The Social Security expert notes that far and away the most common misunderstanding of Social Security is that young people think it's just "something to retire on" when you get to be 65.

"They think if you're in your 20's or 30's you needn't give it much thought. Well, retirement and Medicare are a big part of it. But, the fact is, on the average, one-third of the Social Security benefits go to young families as disability and death payments."

Council

The McLesky site more suitable. Griffin explained further than that agencies believe the Lynnhaven Marine Corporation site would suffer ecological damage, but that damage has already been done to the McLesky property so it wouldn't make any difference if it were used for a spoil site.

Banbury said that the agencies are concerned that the site was not a permanent one owned by the city.

Councilman John A. Baum remarked, "I'm in favor of fish and in favor of wildlife, but I'm not in favor of the Fish and Wildlife Service."

Banbury said that the City needs 100,000 cubic yards a year to replace the beach. The Lynnhaven dredging will furnish that much.

In other actions, Council:

Approved rezoning correcting drafting errors. Current business (restaurant) operating in a residential zone and a residence located in a business zone. The two parcels adjoin and are owned by the same person. Changed from B-1 business-residential to R-3 Residential District. The parcels are 6,850 square-foot parcel located at the south east corner of Seaview Avenue and Lauderdale Avenue, Bayside Borough, and from R-3 residential district to B-1 business-residential district, 6,200 square feet on the north side of Look-out road, east of Seaview Avenue, Bay-side Borough.

Approved the appointment of viewers to study the closure of a portion of Old Virginia Beach Road, Virginia Beach Borough at the request of Pine Investment Company, Inc.

Approved the appointment of viewers to study the closure of portions of West Virginia Avenue, Virginia Avenue, Maryland Avenue, Pennsylvania Avenue, First Street and Third Street at the request of Pine Acres, Inc.

Approved business license refunds of $25.

Approved water agreements for Haygood Shopping Center, Phase IV, Bay-side Borough, and water and sewer agreements for Willow Wood, Kempsville Borough.

Vaccine

As with any vaccine or medication, the possibility of severe or potentially fatal reactions to the vaccine must be considered. However, there have been no reported deaths from the vaccine since the early days of vaccine use (1940's). In some instances people receiving vaccine have had allergic reactions.

Since the deaths which occurred among elderly recipients of the vaccine, government, public and private agencies and laboratories have worked around the clock to determine if there was any relation between the vaccine and the deaths.

To date, no such relation has been found, rather, it is felt that deaths occurred generally because of built-up stress and anxiety about the whole process of getting shots. This combined with poor health in most victims, resulted in the deaths.

Some important considerations before getting the shots are:

People with known allergies to eggs should receive the vaccine only under special medical supervision.

People with fever should delay getting vaccinated until their fever is gone. Private physicians will have access to vaccine after mass clinics are over.

Children under 18 will not be able to receive vaccine at the mass clinics. Parents wishing to get vaccine for their children should contact their family physician or call the local health office for information.

People who have received another type of vaccine within 14 days of getting their vaccine in shot should consult their physician before taking the vaccine.

For additional information residents may contact any of the three local health offices in Virginia Beach. They are:

The 19th and Arctic office, 428-5402.

The Municipal Center office, 427-4291.

Only information is available from these offices, no vaccine will be dispensed. Persons should not call any of the schools where vaccine will be given as school offices do not have any information about the program.

Army seeks dredge permit

The U.S. Army is seeking a dredge permit from its own district engineer for work in the Chesapeake Bay adjacent to 31st Street at Fort Story in Virginia Beach.

The Army seeks to dredge, by dragline and/or hydraulic method, a channel 350 feet long by 60 feet wide with 3:1 side slopes to a depth of six feet at mean low water. The dredged material from the shoreward 50 feet of channel will be deposited on the beach and material from the remaining 300 feet will be deposited on the bottom, west of the proposed channel.

Local students chosen

Forty outstanding young area junior and senior high school music students have been accepted in Virginia Wesleyan College's Preparatory Music Program this fall, according to Dr. David Clayton, program director.

The following students are from Virginia Beach: Sandi Black, Stephen Bruner, Lynn Bulla, Denise Galante, Chris Hansen, Jamie Lynn Hodge, Joel Hodge, Stuart Kollmorgen, Andy Kulisevski, Linda Lampkin, Melissa Lusk, Cameron Morehead, Bill Pendergrass, Jeff Powell, James Virgo, Vickie Williamson, Petra Zaugg and Laura Remington.

The program, according to Director Clayton, is patterned on the idea of a music conservatory and is open to "serious, talented musicians at any level." Serving on the faculty are 12 musicians selected from among the finest teachers and performers in the Tidewater area, including several principal players with the Norfolk Symphony.

Admission to the program was by audition.

Donald H. Rhodes, lawyer, former councilman, former mayor. An impressive record for any man to achieve. Mr. Rhodes is currently associated with the firm of Rhodes and Watson of Virginia Beach.

Concerned citizens and residents had a chance to examine plans for the proposed False Cape State Park last week at the Beach Municipal Center. Numerous displays showed environmental impact assessments and preliminary engineering studies on the various routes for and types of possible access to the park.

Tidewater radio club to dedicate

The Tidewater Radio Control Club will formally dedicate their new flying field off London Bridge Road in Virginia Beach, Oct. 24 at 1 p.m.

The field will be dedicated as the Bobby Hughes Memorial Model Airfield in memory of Robert L. Hughes who died in a water skiing accident this past June.

Congressman William Whitehurst will be the guest speaker at the dedication which the Hughes family will attend. After the dedication a flight demonstration in honor of Hughes, a former club member, will be held.

The field is located between the intersection of Hampers Road and Oceana Boulevard.

For additional information call 490-2913 or 463-1245.

There has never been a better time for independent thinking in Washington. Reelect Senator Byrd.

For a strong America

As a consistent advocate of a strong national defense, Harry Byrd has successfully opposed a proposal to block development of a new nuclear-powered aircraft carrier and supported the Trident submarine as an important step to long-term security. In Norfolk recently, Secretary of the Navy J. William Middendorf hailed Senator Byrd as a leading advocate of a strong Navy. Senator Byrd believes the greatest opportunity for peace rests with a United States that is strong both militarily and economically.

For jobs for Virginians

Harry Byrd has voted for job-creating incentives for plant construction and expansion; and for the expansion of foreign markets for Virginia goods, which increases traffic through the Tidewater ports. He believes that with this kind of government cooperation, private enterprise can supply meaningful, productive jobs for all Virginians who want to work—and he upholds every worker's right to join or not to join a union as "fundamental."

For a lower cost of living through a lower cost of government

"What we don't need in Washington," Senator Byrd says, "are more big spenders in the Senate." He believes that the primary cause for inflation is the reckless spending of the federal government and resulting record deficits. "The huge and accumulated deficits," he says, "are mortgaging the future of our young people and forcing up interest rates."

Inflation is a hidden and cruel tax which eats into every wage-earner's paycheck and every housewife's grocery dollar. It hits hardest those on fixed incomes and those in the lower and middle economic brackets.

"We will not get the cost of living under control until we get the cost of government under control," Harry Byrd continues, "and the place to start is in the high levels of government." He voted against increasing his own salary by opposing automatic cost-of-living increases for Congress.

For government that serves the people

Harry Byrd believes the government should be responsive to the people; he also believes there is a distinct difference between helpful government leadership and disruptive government interference. To help reduce the mushrooming cost and power of the federal bureaucracy and make the government more responsive to the real desires of the people, Senator Byrd has introduced legislation requiring periodic review of more than 1000 federal agencies—and the elimination of those agencies that cannot justify their costs or their actions.

November 2, vote to keep the Virginia Viewpoint a major force in Washington—reelect a Virginian for Virginia!

You know what he stands for.

Distinguished military student

Cadet Sittnick earns high honor at Citadel

Citadel Cadet Capt. Stephen Sittnick of Virginia Beach recently won the coveted designation of "Distinguished Military Student."

Cpl. Walter D. Clark, commandant of cadets and professor of military science at The Citadel, presented the certificate to Sittnick, a highly-prized honor.

Upon graduation a Distinguished Military ROTC student is entitled to apply for a regular rather than a reserve commission as a second lieutenant.

In awarding these ratings, careful appraisal of a candidate's qualities of leadership, loyalty, initiative, attitude, military bearing, and character is made by his military instructors. In addition, DMS recipients must be in the top third of their ROTC classes, attain a favorable report on their summer camp activities, and be in the upper half of their classes academically.

Cadet Sittnick is enrolled in the Army ROTC program at the Citadel. A senior, he serves as commander of his company within the South Carolina Corps of Cadets and his name appears on the president's list for simultaneously demonstrating academic achievement and superior military performance.

During his career as a cadet, he has received a Reserve Officers Association Award in recognition of outstanding qualities of leadership, moral character and a high aptitude for military service, and The Association of the United States Army Medal for contributing significant efforts to the AUSA and attaining military and academic excellence.

Sittnick majors in political science at the Citadel and plays drums as a member of the bagpipe unit—leading element of the marching band. He is the son of CSM, and Mrs. V. G. Sittnick, 3765 Chancery Lane.

In Girl Scouts

Sharing is the goal

If you are interested in adventure, new friends, and a fuller, more meaningful life, the Girl Scouting program just might be your answer. Regardless of your age, the activities and rewards are unlimited.

Especially needed, at this time, are persons who would enjoy helping and sharing with the area's young girls, to further their abilities, interests and values. This would be a tremendous opportunity for college students, married couples with or without children, and most of all senior citizens.

If you are interested, or would like more information on Scouting in the King's Grant area, please call Jeanine Powley, 340-5481, or Marilyn Weber, 340-2225.

Prayer workshop
Nov. 2

The women of First Presbyterian Church, Virginia Beach, will hold a prayer workshop "Grow in Prayer" to be led by Beanie Conway Lewis Tuesday, Nov. 2 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church Chapel.

Each person attending is requested to bring a sandwich. Beverage and dessert will be provided.

A nursery will be available for 2-year olds and up.

The Public is invited.

Dr. Theodore F. Adams, former pastor at First Baptist Church in Richmond and currently a professor at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Wake Forest, N.C., will speak at First Baptist Church, Virginia Beach, in two special services on Saturday evening, Oct. 23 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday morning, Oct. 24 at 11 a.m. worship service.

Gailee
at Beach

Gailee Episcopal Church, 40th Street and Pacific Avenue, Virginia Beach, will have its 27th Annual Bazaar Nov. 10.

Marjitta Glascock is overall chairman of the event with 20 men and women heading booths such as "Grandma's Attic," "White Elephant," "Christmas Decorations," plants, frozen food, "Country Kitchen" and baked dishes.

Bicentennial Basket take-a-long-lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Oct. 23.

Money raised will go to local, national and international missions, ministries and projects.

IC-HI Club to meet

The "I Can't Help It" Club of handicapped persons will meet at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 21 at the Virginia Beach Civic Center Building at Hinesdale Street and Bennett Lane.

Plans for recreational activities for the remainder of the year will be discussed.

Additionally, new members will be signed up and vacant club office positions will be filled.

The club is hoping to organize some special recreational activities for the handicapped, but they need a great deal of public interest and support to do so.

All parents and families of handicapped persons in the Virginia Beach area are urged to attend and others who are interested will be welcome.

Following the business portion of the meeting several free games of bingo will be played.

"The Heavens are Telling the Glory of God" (Psalm 19:1)

In October these are days so lovely that they seem to draw us closer to God. The light is warm and bright. The sun is golden and shining in the world that God has made.

On days so lovely as these, when we look up at God, for

Safety urged on Halloween

The safety of Halloween ghosts and goblins depends, in part, on vision and visibility. By educating parents and youngsters about the importance of seeing and being seen, Virginia optometrists are trying to help make Halloween 76 in Virginia Beach and the Commonwealth a safe one for everyone.

The Virginia Optometric Association advises that Halloween masks can be a hazard to young trick-or-treaters. In a Halloween safety message, Dr. Bernard A. Morewitz warned that masks can block a child's view and lead to accidents.

He pointed out that if masks slip out of place or eye holes are too small, a youngster may not be able to see approaching cars, objects on the ground, a hole, a step or the curb. He advised that a safer alternative is to use makeup instead of masks for Halloween disguises. Dr. Morewitz cautions to be sure makeup is of the non-allergic variety and is applied with care by adults. It is important to keep makeup particles and applicators out of a child's eye.

Helping trick-or-treaters to see is only half of Halloween safety. The other half is to be certain that youngsters can be seen by passing motorists. "The greatest potential Halloween danger is the pedestrian/automobile accident," Dr. Morewitz said. "Even the most careful driver may not see an excited child dart into his path in time to stop. There is a way, however, that parents can make their children highly visible to drivers at great distances without interfering with costume design. Simply add retro-reflective material to the costume."

Morewitz explained that retro-reflective material on shoes and clothing makes pedestrians safely visible to drivers even at speeds of 70 and 80 miles per hour. Retro-reflective material is made up of tiny prisms or beads that reflect light back to its source with much brilliance. This material can be purchased in iron-on, sew-on and stick-on varieties in most hardware and department stores.

"Let the kids make up their own designs with the material," Dr. Morewitz said. "Just be sure they will be visible from front, back and sides."

As an added precaution, the optometrist urged parents to caution their children not to walk in the street, to look carefully before crossing a street, to cross at a corner with a street light if at all possible and to carry a flashlight or battery-operated lantern. Folks who stay at home to pass out treats are advised to turn on all porch and yard lights and clear their yards and sidewalks of all toys and garden tools.

Beach woman is breaking traditions serving with overseas Marine force

By DALE DYE

Janie Allen's short blonde hair and creamy complexion don't cause much reaction among the Norse-types here in Steinkjer, Norway. It's the U.S. Marine Corps Captain's uniform that's blowing their minds.

The sight of Capt. Allen, a Virginia Beach resident, strolling down the narrow streets of this Scandinavian town, already becoming crowded with foreign military, has threatened to cause whiplash among some of the local citizens.

men to send and that's when I jumped into the picture."

As adventuresome, out-door type, Capt. Allen finds her job on the exercise control staff somewhat confining. "I'd much rather be out in the field," she comments, staring at the panoramic maps that line the walls of her office in "Team Work" headquarters, "but at least I'm here and that's step one."

Actually, this is the second time she has commented on the panoramic maps that line the walls of her office in "Team Work" headquarters, "but at least I'm here and that's step one."

Russian-speaking U.S. officer has been in Norway. "I was here two years ago doing some orienteering and just fell in love with the spectacular scenery," she says. "It made me try even harder to come along on this NATO exercise."

The U.S. Marine Corps still has no women attached to its combat units operating in the field, but Allen feels that may change despite strong opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment that would allow it legally.

Things work out

"Too many people get upset about things like where women will have or find sanitary facilities during expeditionary service," she indicates. "I find those things always seem to work themselves out." Currently she is living in a local hotel in this central Norway town along with other British, Dutch, Danish, Norwegian and American officers attached to the "Team Work '76" staff which controls war-play.

Her job is to analyze reports sent in from field operating units and influence action of the exercise for American units by inserting information to their commands.

Although she believes strongly in equal pay for equal work and women's rights, Capt. Allen admits there are still many American women who "belong in the house."

"And then there are others like me who are out for a different role in society and I believe we should be allowed to fill that role," she affirms. "In fact, I think we're catching on in the Marine Corps and roles are changing rapidly for women."

Capt. Allen's philosophy is that women in service must make their presence known so they are not automatically overlooked because of sex when expeditionary assignments are being made. "You've got to be willing to step up smartly and say 'I want to do that,'" she concludes.

And Janie Allen did just that.

Sunspot

She takes the whole thing in the hold stride of the sort of person who left Atlanta eight years ago bound and determined to see the world. She is currently stationed at FPM/Last headquarters in Norfolk, working in the intelligence section.

"I joined the Corps to see the world," she says, "and I was bound and determined not to let my sex interfere with that." Although it's still relatively difficult for American women Marines to get overseas assignments, Allen believes it's the coming thing and she is all for that.

"Eventually," she glibly recalls how she just kept volunteering until she was assigned to the control staff for the

Beach Library to observe Children's Book Week

In celebration of national Children's Book Week, Virginia Beach Public Library will present a series of special programs for young people throughout the week of Nov. 8-15.

In cooperation with Young Audiences, Inc., a music series designed for young people ages seven and up will be presented at these times:

Monday, Nov. 8 at 4:30 p.m. the Virginia Beach Dance Ensemble will appear at the Great Neck Branch, 151 Bayne Dr.

Tuesday, Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. the Feldman String Trio will appear at the Kempsville Branch, 532 Kempsville Rd.

Wednesday, Nov. 10 at 7 p.m. the Norfolk Brass Quintet will appear by the fountain in Pembroke Mall.

Young Audiences, Inc. Stagecoach demonstration format in sports is a creative structure which actively involves young people in discovery and insight into music. Building a program around both classical and contemporary compositions and dance, the children are shown the type of excellence available in music regardless of its date of composition.

On Friday, Nov. 12 at 4 p.m. at the Great Neck Branch Library Virginia Beach author Louise Venable

Kyle will meet with young people ages six and up. Mrs. Kyle is the author of "The Witch of Pango" and "Ram and Bones" will be available for purchase and autographing by the author.

All of these programs are free. Parents are welcome and are encouraged to attend with their children. For further information on any of these special activities, contact Ann Scott, children's coordinator for the library system, at 340-2387.

Heaven help us...

To the Editor:

Rather than turn one's TV volume to zero, as suggested by Mr. Braden in his Sunday newspaper article regarding "appearances" of the candidates, I suggest that one turn the screen to darkness and "listen." During this time he will surely recognize which candidate does the better job of avoiding the questions.

Heaven help us if Mr. Carter becomes President and avoids problems of the office as well as he has avoided questions during the debates.

U.S. Grant approved for STAMA

The U.S. Department of Labor has approved a grant of $4,000,185 for the Southeastern Tidewater Area Manpower Authority (STAMA). The funds will be used to continue on-going manpower training and employment programs for the coming year. STAMA administers manpower programs on behalf of the Cities of Chesapeake, Franklin, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Suffolk and Virginia Beach and the counties of Isle of Wight and Southampton.

Approximately 1,500 persons will be served by the STAMA programs funding during the year, of whom about 600 will have enrolled in the program the prior year.

Primary contractors to STAMA for service are the Virginia Employment Commission, Southeastern Tidewater Opportunity Project, Norfolk Skills Center, Tidewater Community College, and Southeastern Tidewater Opportunities Industrialization Center.

For military families

Help available for housing

Military personnel and Department of Defense (DOD) employees in Chesapeake Virginia Beach, Cherriland can get help with their housing problems from a newly-established Housing Referral Office (HRO) which is now open for business.

The HRO is located at the intersection of First and Lincoln Streets in Bldg. 19, just inside of Gate 3, at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard. The telephone number is 383-5773.

James B. Moore, head of the housing branch, explained that the major function of the office is to assist Navy personnel and their families in locating adequate housing, in reasonable proximity to their station, homeport, or base.

In addition, he said the same services will be available to any member of the Armed Forces and to DOD civilian employees who have transferred to the area.

Office personnel will make every effort to find quarters that meet individual or family needs, regardless of pay grade or years of service, More said.

It is especially important that incoming military personnel follow the advice given in OPNAVINST 11101.21B which reads in part as follows:

"You are directed to report to the appropriate housing referral office prior to negotiating any agreement for off-base housing."

The shipyard HRO has up-to-date rental and sale listings of houses, apartments, trailers, parks, motels, and government subsidized housing in Tidewater. Approximately 417 units of Navy housing for enlisted men and women and officers commandeer its jurisdiction, as well as 73 units of transient housing.

Other alternatives are:

- Eliminate the detour by constructing a temporary bridge adjacent to the old bridge to be used while the new bridge is being constructed. The cost would be $90,000 to $100,000.
- Habsbury said that he favored the three month inconvenience. The bridge is now being used by 10,000 cars a day.

In another highway matter, Mrs. Catherine Thatcher asked Council to request the State Highway Department to remove the 15-foot raised median requirement in plans improving North Windward Road.

Mrs. Thatcher, operator of the Roadside Flower Shop, presented Council with a petition signed by 180 persons requesting the removal and calling for a public hearing on the overall project.

For the families of men who are attached to ships being repaired here. When sailing facilities are not available, the individuals' names are placed on a waiting list.

To fulfill its mission the office will serve as the central family housing office for Navy-owned and public quarters in terms of housing referral services.

The office also provides telephones for making local calls to housing agencies for appointments, and for checking on the arrival of household goods. It is a center for information concerning schools, commissaries, medical facilities, furniture rentals, war relief, and other services agencies.

Council considers bridge construction

Plans call for a four-lane divided highway from the railroad crossing to Pembroke Boulevard. The facility will be 90-feet wide including a 16-foot raised median strip. Pedestrians feel that while the road widening is necessary, the land needed for a median will strip businesses of their parking lots and in some cases force them to go to business or move elsewhere.

Council also returned back to the planning commission another road matter which residents object to widening East Bay Shore Drive in Bay Colony.

R.A. Lawton Jr., representing residents of the affluent neighborhood, had sought a variance in development of Lighthouse Bay. The city had originally required pavement widening to 90 feet with curbing and gutter, which would destroy a large amount of trees. The present pavement is 16 feet.

Residents had asked instead that the developer be allowed to build a bicycle path instead of widening the road. The city staff, however, considers a 34 foot road the absolute minimum for the area where large tracts are yet to be developed.

City Manager Habsbury also said that a separate bicycle path was not warranted and that no infill would be the responsibility of the city with no state assistance.

Venture Week proclaimed

Mayors of Norfolk, Virginia Beach and Chesapeake have issued Proclamations stating that the week of Oct. 17-23 will be known as Venture Week in their cities.

The Venture Club is a civic organization sponsored by the Soroptimist Club of Norfolk-Virginia Beach. It is a part of the South Atlantic Region which encompasses the states of Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, parts of Tennessee and District of Columbia.

The club is made up of young business and professional women between the ages of 18 and 40. The local club is in its 24th year of organization.

It is involved in such activities as the Tidewater Association for Retarded Children, Cerebral Palsy School, St. Mary's Infant Home, and many other worth-while community projects.

Activities for the week include working on a service project, a pot-luck dinner for members and their families, attending the worship service of President Catherine Ruffert, and a luncheon. Members will travel to Richmond to be presented a Proclamation from Governor Mills E. Godwin designating Venture Week in the State of Virginia.

Carrot Night was held at the Virginia Beach Dunes recently, bringing in thousands of area youth to meet with representatives from numerous industries and businesses. Virtually every possible interest from advertising to engineering, newspapers to firefighting and even piano tuning were represented. ## Board plans smoke school

A smoke school will be conducted by the State Air Pollution Control Board at the Virginia Truck and Ornamental Research Station Oct. 26 through 28 to qualify currently qualified smoke roaders and provide an opportunity for other interested parties to qualify as smoke roaders.

The school is for SAPCB staff members, agents of local air pollution agencies, industry representatives, and interested citizens. The charge for industry representatives and interested citizens will be $10 with no charge for state, local, or federal government representatives. The registration fee is collected in support of the Continuing Education Center of VPI and SU, and checks should be made payable to Continuing Education Center.

Applications and checks must arrive at the State Air Pollution Control Board, Hampton Roads Regional Office, Pembroke Office Park, Pembroke IV, Suite 409, Virginia Beach, 23462, no later than Oct. 21.

Nov. 6

It was a wet Saturday recently in Virginia Beach when walkers for the long association tried to make their 25 kilometer trek. Many walkers did not come out because of rain and high winds and those who did were given credit for the full walk though they went slightly less than the planned distance. For those who did not walk, there will be another chance. They can participate in the walk in Chesapeake on Nov. 6 at Indian River High School at 8 a.m. There Virginia Beach credit sheets will still be good.

Dancing at Pascals Isle of Capri pasta perfect

By DEBORAH L. ROLI

Looking at the ration of vowels to consonants in the spelling of my last name one might make a reasonably safe assumption in saying that I am of Italian descent.

Two points for those who did.

I mention this only because, having been exposed to a wide variety of Italian foods and dishes in my lifetime ranging from my grandmother's homemade noodles to those terrific little cans of ravioli you find in desolate gas stations complete between here and nowhere, I consider myself a fair judge of Italian cooking.

The night I had scheduled to dine at the Isle of Capri located two blocks from the beach at 313 Laskin Rd. I was honestly wondering whether I would be able to give an unbiased evaluation of the food. When I'd finished the meal I was relieved. Charlie, the cook of 25 years, had made my job easy, the food was great!

A side order of spaghetti was served along with my dinner, so only a small sampling of Blair's lasagna was necessary to reaffirm my satisfaction with which I eat it. However when we with the tomato sauce—the heart and soul of any Italian restaurant. Upon surveying the possibilities for dessert cheesecake was the first to be eliminated, simply because of the frequency with which I eat it. However, when we very lightly that this cheesecake was laced with asaisette, our curiosity picked the cake. The asaisette was added subtly enough to just add extra taste and not ruin the cheesy consistency of the cake. Licorice lovers will enjoy this Italian treat.

You've undoubtedly heard of the old cliché of killing two birds with one stone, this is easily done by slipping next door adjoining Pascals after re-linquishing the quiet atmosphere of the Isle of Capri for a little livelier one—a place where you can enjoy cocktails and live entertainment nightly.

Tom Cella and Kickin', originally from Miami, were featured the night we viewed the show. And show it was: Ray "Crismo" Andra, on guitar, Barry on drums, Bill Rabia on bass, Noel Cleland on keyboard and Tom Cella put it all together—the music, dancing and audience.

Few tables had anyone seated at them after Kickin's entertainment explosion got started; they were all on the dance floor.

Tom Cella joined up with the group 14 months ago. Kickin' had already been together for three years.

"He's crazy. That's why we let him run around out there," explained Crismo. They have been known to perform such acts as pie-throwing routines, dressing in wild costumes and standing on tables while they pump out a musical sound that starts it all happening.

Scheduled to return to Daytona Beach for a one year engagement, they will take time out to appear in the Jerry Lewis Telethon this coming year. So keep your eyes open cause Tom Cella is alive and Kickin'.

Reasonably confident in my ability to interpret the numerous reviews on the menu for my dining partner whose knowledge of Italian dishes reaches no further than spaghetti and meat balls or possibly eggplant parmigian I proceeded to order a appetizer for us. I decided upon the Capri House salad, a variation of famous antipasto substituting ricotta cheese for the pimentos and anchovies. Serving two at $2.25, the special was just that—a delightful change. Hearts of palm, Ciampi Casino Orzognato and melon served with prosciutto ham are just some of the other reasonably-priced antipasti appetizers offered.

Glancing at the surprising number of main entrees, Italian favorites like Gnocchi with prosciutto and onions ala marinara, Fettuccini Al Fredo and the specialita de Casa Beef Branscolo I dreaded the inevitable question I was sure Blair, my accomplice and photographer, was sure to ask. Here's where my credibility as an interpreter was on the line.

Within seconds Blair had made a decision completely without assistance, it was the baked lasagna for him, simple enough. My decision took a little longer, which of the eight ways did I want my meat scallopini prepared? Eney, Meeny, Miney, Moo. Veal marsala it was. Marsala which you may recognize as a name of wine is the base used for the delectable sauce with which the generous slices of tender veal together with green peas, mushrooms and prosciutto ham was prepared. And all this for an affordable $4.95.

P.A.'s Ralph Gahagan; a winner everywhere

By BLAIR THURMAN
SUN Sports Editor

When the 1976 high school football season began, it looked as if coach Ralph Gahagan's Princess Anne Cavaliers were in for a long year. The team was loaded with inexperienced underclassmen and injuries, such as the broken collarbone of starting quarterback Paul Townsend. It takes little football savvy to know that those are not the components of a winning team.

But wait, after an opening game loss to Cox, the Cavs rattled off six successive wins, over 10 contenders in other districts, and at the Beach, becoming a force to be reckoned with by any squad hoping to chalk up a win over them.

Actually, the Cavaliers' amazing showing this season is really not so surprising when one looks at the man the headlines, but while they are excellent performers, Gahagan says the reason for the success of the team lies elsewhere. "Those guys were already great," he explained. "Where we had to come through was in the line, and we did. We have five guys who go start offensively and defensively, and only two of them had ever started before this year."

Wayne Weldenhoft and Calvin Munda are the experienced two-way players, and Mark Ziegler, Mike Corprew and Charlie Mann are the rookies. "These guys," according to Gahagan, "are in the trenches every week, and really do the job."

As the headlines, however, Williams and DiNardo deserve closer scrutiny. DiNardo's leading rusher, Williams' success lies in his improvement in cutting back when running, and the simple fact that he is getting to run the ball more than ever, behind the team. Ralph Gahagan. Gahagan was coaching high school football seven years before any of his present players were born, and his knowledge of the game is as deep as Louis Armstrong's voice.

The key to his success appears to lie in his ability to refrain from implementing fancy frills offenses that spouts when the going gets tough. Instead, Gahagan creates a power team, a team strong in the basic fundamentals and geared to hard-nosed football. Gahagan has as much use for the forward pass as he does for a pair of punty-kicks.

He won't even go to the air when behind. "My teams are geared to the run," said Gahagan. "That's what we do best. It would be stupid to do something you don't do as well just because you're behind."

There may be those who disagree in principle, but no one can argue with his success. Prior to his five years as the Princess Anne mentor, Gahagan coached the Wilson squads in Portsmouth for eleven years. During four of those years, 1968-71, Gahagan's teams led the state of Virginia in scoring, and in three of those seasons, (not 1969) Wilson was the regional champion.

"That era," reminisced the coach, "was my most thrilling in sports."

Has Gahagan modeled his coaching philosophies after anyone? "I suppose Woody Hayes (Ohio State) has influenced me more than anyone, but it's been more of an evolutionary thing you learn as you go along. It's hard to remain the same anyway, because you always have to adjust to the available personnel."

Gahagan, on the other hand, has influenced many others. Ron Foresta, head coach of Great Bridge High in Chesapeake, said, "Gahagan has had more to do with the style of play in according to Gahagan.

DiNardo, the quarterback, is primarily a runner, passing only when, um, er, well he doesn't pass much. "He's not helpless as a passer," said Gahagan, "we just don't move the ball that way."

DiNardo was pressed into the quarterback duties unexpectedly, but has done an admirable job. "Jimmy is a natural quarterback," noted Gahagan, "but he was willing to sacrifice what he wanted to do for the team."

Gahagan contends that there is no jealousy when it comes to players' publicity. "Our team wants to win and they don't care who gets the publicity. Most of the guys are so young, they're just excited about playing."

They should be excited. The Cavaliers are sitting pretty in the Beach District race. But that's not surprising. Look at the man behind the team—Ralph Gahagan Gahagan.

the Southeastern District than anyone before."

Indeed, three of Gahagan's ex-assistant coaches, and one former player under him, are now head coaches in the Southeastern District, and closely follow Gahagan's methods.

"They probably follow them closer than I do," laughed the coach of 25 years.

Gahagan's outlook on high school football isn't unique, but it is genuine. "Football closely parallels life itself," Gahagan said. "It teaches the kids how to play with and compete against others in an acceptable situation. Contact is the most important aspect. People need to learn aggressiveness and sportsmanship."

This year's recipients of these worthwhile lessons, are young and for the most part, inexperienced. Yet, Gahagan has molded them into a district title contender. Backs Jessie Williams and Jimmy DiNardo grab all

"Doggone it!"

Chiefs sock it to Cox

After a couple hours of hard-nosed football, it is a shame that one team always goes to the locker room with an empty feeling, the emotions in a turmoil after a loss.

In a game that was truly one of inches, the Kempville Chiefs beat the Cox Falcons 3-0. A break here, an inch short there, a win for Kempville and a loss for Cox.

With a fourth and two situation at the Kempville five, the Falcons failed, in the third quarter, to run the ball for the necessary yardage. That, except for David Fleming's 22-yard field goal in the second quarter, was the play of the game. Cox would get no closer to the end-zone that night.

Yes, the Falcons were unhappy, but you should have seen the Chiefs.

Local boys excel at Va. Tech

Six former Beach standouts are members of the 1976 Virginia Tech football team.

Three are alumni of First Colonial high where they played for Coach Frank Webster, a former Tech lineman of the mid '50's.

Carl Lowery was a three year letterman tackle at First Colonial who also earned two varsity baseball letters. The 6-0, 214 senior noseguard has lettered for Tech in each of his three years on the squad, his last two coming after off season injuries and shoulder surgery curtailed his participation in Spring drills.

Lowery is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Lowery of 3421 Kings Grant, Va. Beach.

Joining Lowery on the squad is another former First Colonial star, sophomore Mike Hughes. Hughes was a three year letterman for Coach Webster and was chosen his senior year as First Colonial's most valuable offensive lineman.

An injury in his freshman year at Tech kept Hughes out much of the season and prompted Tech coaches to redshirt him in order to preserve his eligibility. This spring Hughes was moved from defensive end to linebacker.

The 6-1, 225 pounder is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I.C. Hughes of Kingston Drive, Virginia Beach.

Rounding out the First Colonial alumni is freshman, Carl McDonald.

McDonald was a three year letterman and captain for Coach Webster, alternating between quarterback and defensive safety. The 6-0, 190 pounder was also a pitcher and shortstop for the baseball team earning two letters and finishing the season with a .384 batting average.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. H.J. McDonald of 1620 Indian Ave., Va. Beach, won all metro and all city honors in both sports his senior year.

Virginia Beach's Kellam High School also has a pair of representatives on the "B" squad, sophomore defensive back Gene Bum and freshman lineman Danny Hill. Bum was a versatile performer who won high honors in both the offensive and defensive backfields for Kellam Coach John Cooke, including all state, all eastern region and alldistrict. In the course of a four year varsity career Bum was chosen most valuable player by the Norfolk Sports Club and the Virginia Beach Sports Club and was named MVP City once and MVP Kellam twice.

Bum was a defensive back for the Gobbler JV team last year and made such progress in this year's Spring drills that he became a varsity starter as a corner back this fall.

The 6-0, 175 pounder is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Maryko of 2307 BB Northland Road, Virginia Beach.

Ever get the feeling that you're all alone?

Jen Lee Guthrie

Jen Lee Guthrie of Cox High, is the SUN's Cheerleader of the Week. A senior co-captain, she is in her third year as a cheerleader. No slouch as a competitor, Jen Lee plays basketball, hockey field, and track. She is also vice-president of the SCA.

Craig Simons

He wants to play

When seven-year-old Craig Simons told his parents he wanted to play flag football, they were not only surprised, but apprehensive as well.

Sure, it's a natural enough desire for a youngster, so why the worry? Craig was born with only one arm. "He had never competed in sports before," said Craig's mother, Norma Simons, "I just wondered, 'Why football?'"

Why not. Craig now plays for the Great Neck Redskins, a flag football team for boys seven through nine. He plays running back for the undefeated "Skins," and according to coach Bill Emerson, does a real fine job. "He's a super kid," said Emerson. "All the boys like him."

Although Craig is a well-adjusted boy, his mother thinks that having an opportunity to play football is beneficial. "And I think he wants to play baseball next," she said.

He has also showed prowess in the water. "He really excels in swimming," she said.

Norma. "He can tread water for five minutes and can dive very well."

No, Craig's idol is not Joe Namath or Johnny Bench. Craig identifies, naturally enough, with Col. Steve Austin, TV's Six Million Dollar Man, whose own loss of limbs led to the development of super-natural appendages.

When Craig came home after his first practice, he complained not that he has only one arm, but that he was the smallest boy on the team. Not so, Craig Simons is the biggest guy out there.

All aboard!

Local boys

Hill, a 6-3, 210 freshman at Tech, was a high school all state and all American lineman and was also ranked in the top three in his district in the shot put and the discus. Following high school Hill attended Massachusetts Military Academy where in addition to football he played basketball and baseball.

Hill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hill of 500 Water Oak Road, Va. Beach.

One of Tech's most exciting runners is former Bayside high standout Roscoe Coles. Coles won prep all-America honors for Coach Bob Hicks during his career at Bayside where he also was an outstanding track man.

As a freshman at Tech Coles gained 623 yards and scored six touchdowns in route to his selection as a member of the Football News freshman all-American team. Coles' sophomore year saw his total yardage climb over the 1,000 mark. At 5-9, 168 he's been called "too small" hence the number 2 he wears on his uniform, but at the pace he's setting he should earn more than one spot in the Tech record book. Coach Jimmy Sharpe probably said it best, "Roscoe is something else."

pigskin prognostications

By BLAIR THURMAN

The Princess Anne Cavaliers proved they are for real Friday night, by defeating Kellam 15-11. That represents the most points given up by the Kellam defense to a Tech team in years truly didn't expect it.

Bayside shut-out Maury, extending their scoreless streak to seven games.

Kempville ran the Cox losing streak to three, and First Colonial picked up its third win of the season, this one over Booker T. Washington, resulting in a 3-1 week of prognosticating.

In this week's action, Cox plays at Kellam, and a Falcon victory would lighten up an already close Beach District race. But Cox is having trouble lately. Knight quarterback Billy Carter is playing exceptional ball, and the defense can be expected to be exceedingly stingy. Kellam will win by 10.

Kempville hosts Princess Anne. The Cavaliers have to be favored, based on their six-game winning streak, but it should be a very close contest. Kempville has won five games, and proved to have an excellent ground game last week against Cox. Princess Anne will win by 7.

Bayside plays Amos Lawrence at Lake Taylor this week, and it will take every bit of the Marlin's defensive prowess to stop him. There are break-away threats and there are break-away threats, but Lawrence is numero uno. The Marlin offense has not been playing up to pre-season expectations, and will get outscored in this contest. Six points worth.

Mechville travels to First Colonial, carrying a 2-5 record. Their records are deceiving though. They lost four straight using a wishbone offense, and then switched to the I-formation. In their next three games, they scored 94 points, winning two of them. Their offense centers on quarterback

Ken Perry and running back Jim McCoy. The Patriots sometimes have a good defense, and it will be put to the test Friday night. They'll have a little trouble. Mechville by 10.

Preserve guarantees hunters many birds

By LEONA C. LILLEY

"We guarantee the birds are there," says Rob Breiner of Moyock, manager of the Currituck Shooting Preserve, which is located on the 2,600-acre farm owned by Moyock Lumber Company.

The preserve is probably the only one of its kind in the Albemarle area.

"It's actually a part of the Dismal Swamp," Breiner explained. "About 250 acres are licensed for the shooting preserve. The rest of it is farmland and woods. We've got small pine trees, myrtle bushes, broom straw, that sort of thing... It makes good cover for the birds."

"We don't plant any type of feed," he continued. "The land is so poor, it won't grow anything without a lot of fertilizing, and that can be quite expensive. We would like to have feed patches, but there seems to be enough natural feed," Breiner says the operation "gets quite a few wild birds to raise on the preserve from the birds that we release."

Customers bag about 85 per cent of the birds released and they seem to be satisfied with that percentage.

"We don't get very many other people who just come to shoot," notes the preserve manager. "We get people who own their own dogs. They want to work their dogs, and they're not at all interested in killing every bird released."

The shooting preserve is actually an asset to hunters, especially professional people who are usually pressed for time. They can be sure the birds are there.

"If they have good dogs and can shoot well enough, they will go home after the hunt with a good mess of birds, plus well worked dogs—and a few hours of relaxation and real hunting pleasure," according to Breiner.

Breiner motioned towards the hunting acres. "It's getting to the point where the shooting preserve is becoming a bigger and bigger thing," he smiled, perhaps thinking of the game farm's future.

"It's hard to find a place to hunt in this area or any other area. When you do find a good place, the owners usually aren't too crazy about letting you hunt there."

"Our preserve is a natural cover," Breiner said. "No mowed-over stuff, all natural. It's much like hunting in the wild. The only difference is that you know the birds are there."

Fees charged by the Currituck Shooting Preserve seem to fit the pocketbooks of most hunters. The birds are three dollars apiece, but the preserve has a minimum of 10 birds per party per half day's hunt.

"If the manager has to guide—and they occasionally do in the event the party does not bring dogs—there is an extra fee."

"We have the preserve split up into four sections," Breiner continued. "The birds are released on the area designated for the party to hunt approximately 15 or 20 minutes before the party goes on the field. This gives the birds plenty of time to spread about the field and to find cover."

The preserve has a budget membership plan where a person buys 100 birds at one time at a reduced rate of $2.50 per bird. The member does not have to shoot all his birds at one time, of course; he can come to the preserve and shoot as many times as he wants, but he must shoot a minimum of 10 birds per half day's hunt.

A special preservice fee is available at the preserve for $10 which will allow the hunter to shoot on the Cur-rituck preserve or any other shooting preserve in North Carolina for the duration of the season (which begins Oct. 1 and runs through March 31). A non-resident license is not necessary.

Reservist of year Beacher earns award

A Virginia Beach woman has been officially recognized as the most outstanding member of the Selected Naval Reserve.

Mrs. Jo Ann Dee was selected from approximately 80,000 drilling naval reservists throughout the country as the 1976 Outstanding Enlisted Naval Reservist. She is an Aviation Storekeeper Second Class (AK2) with Intermediate Maintenance Activity 1806, a Naval Reserve unit assigned to the Naval Air Reserve Unit (NARU) Norfolk.

This award is presented annually by the Naval Enlisted Reserve Association (NERA) to an inactive duty enlisted naval reservist in pay grade E-5 or below. The award, which recognizes distinguished performance and service, and a meritorious advancement to Petty Officer First Class (PO1-C), was presented to AK2 Dee at the Association's annual conference in Virginia Beach Oct. 15. Vice Admiral Pierre N. Charbonnet Jr., chief of Naval Reserve, made the presentation.

too, are short of birds to begin the season with," Breiner explained.

Breiner, who is also co-owner of one of the largest game bird productions in North Carolina, is in partnership with his brother-in-law, James Mason of Elizabeth City. Mason, administrator at the College of the Albemarle in Elizabeth City, is a partner in both the shooting preserve and Tulls Bay Game Bird Farm near Moyock.

Breiner and Mason also raise birds for other shooting preserves throughout Virginia, New Jersey and Maryland. This year they have raised approximately 25,000 birds but are still short for their own operation.

The property used for the bird farm is the old Garrett Farm on South Mills Road near Moyock. It encompasses approximately 800 acres and was formerly on of the largest chicken farms on the East coast.

Carol Slaven joins staff

Carol Slaven of Virginia Beach has joined the staff of Catholic Family & Children's Services in Norfolk as social worker.

A graduate of Kent State University, Miss Slaven received her B.A. in individual and family development in 1970.

Before joining the local agency, Miss Slaven worked for Jones Home of children's services in Cleveland where she was a child care therapist.

Miss Slaven has been with Catholic Family & Children's Services since April.

The agency, a member of United Way services, has its main office in Norfolk with district offices in Virginia Beach and Ocean View.

Motorists to be polled

Several Tidewater Tidewater Transportation Research Council asked this week to assist in the next phase of a research study to determine traffic and economic effects of recent toll removal at three highway facilities.

A team from the Virginia Highway and Transportation Research Council at Charlottesville will record license numbers for one of every six vehicles using the Hampton Roads Bridge-Tunnel and for every fourth vehicle using the James River Bridge at Newport News and the George P. Coleman Bridge at Yorktown.

The Division of Motor Vehicles, cooperating in the study will furnish names and addresses of the motorists, and the research council will conduct a pre-survey and then a post-survey, which the recipients will be asked to complete and return by mail.

Questionnaires will seek such information as trip purpose, origin and destination, length, frequency, and travel time; number of occupants in the vehicle, and whether the recipients have changed jobs or places of residence since tolls were removed from the three facilities in June.

Answers will be summarized in a final report, but individual motorists and their responses will not be identified in the research council said.

The Highway and Transportation Department said research findings will be helpful to state and local transportation agencies in measuring effects of toll removal and in evaluating impact of tolls generally on traffic and economic activity.

Maudlin assumes Seattle command

Capt. J. H. Maudlin of Virginia Beach, previously the executive officer of the USS Nimble, relieved Capt. Theodore L. Lloyd Jr. Sept. 30 in ceremonies aboard the USS Seattle homported, and presently moored, in Norfolk.

Capt. Maudlin becomes the sixth commanding officer of this fast combat support ship since its commissioning in 1968.

Capt. Lloyd, former commanding officer, takes a new assignment with the Chief of Naval Operations in Washington.

INVEST IN YOUR HOME... Add Carrier Central Air Conditioning!

COMPLETE TURN-KEY JOB

Investing in improvements for your home makes a lot of sense. That way the value of your home goes up.

And adding central air conditioning to your home is one of the wisest home improvements you can make. It not only pays off in summer relief from the heat, but also gives you a higher return than almost any other home improvement.

When you add central air conditioning... you should get the best and the most reliable there is. And that's Carrier. More people put their confidence in Carrier than any other make.

What are you waiting for? Call us today and find out about all the comfortable dividends that come with Carrier central air conditioning.

Debellis appointed chairman

A. James De Bellis, director of economic development for the City of Virginia Beach, has been appointed chairman of the Industrial Development Committee of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

The committee is composed of nearly 70 representatives from private and public economic development organizations across Virginia. Its prime mission is to establish guidelines for the Chamber industrial development program and monitor legislative and regulatory developments as they relate to industrial development.

De Bellis assumed his current position in Virginia Beach in Sept. of 1970. His assignment was to draft new economic development programs, particularly calling for stimulation of industry and tourism in the resort city. His activities are designed to provide new jobs in the area, and to increase the tax base. Previously, De Bellis had been involved in marketing, industrial, and community development for West Penn Power Company and with Potomac Edison Company.

A World War II veteran and recipient of the purple heart, De Bellis is a graduate of Grove City College in Pennsylvania, and holds a Bachelor of Science in Commerce degree. He has done graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh, Penn State University, and has completed a utility executive training course at Georgia Tech. Mr. De Bellis serves as a member and in various capacities with several national, state, regional and local professional organizations primarily in the fields of industrial development and tourism.

He and his wife have two daughters attending college in Virginia.

Virginia Beach SPCA faces increasing duties

It is estimated that there are over 90,000 cats and dogs in the United States, that is about one animal for every two Americans. That figure is to be over 100,000 dogs and cats in Virginia Beach alone. Nationally, dogs and cats are being born at the rate of 10,000 an hour, 240,000 a day; and the birth rate in Virginia Beach is probably not far from the national average, though such figures are not available from any scientific research. Yet, how many homes do you know of that have one dog and/or cat for every two family members? And in this city of so many "no-pet" apartments, condominiums and projects, how many families have no pet?

What all this logically means is that we have too many dogs and cats producing even more offspring, with care of unwanted homeless animals falling to the Virginia Beach Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA), according to spokesmen.

The shelter, as it stands now, is greatly overcrowded. The Beach SPCA handles over 4,000 animals annually with that number on the rise. And the 150-160 animals received per day are not just strays, but also the mistreated, abused "pets."

The SPCA has been working quietly for ten years in Virginia Beach operating at an annual deficit of about $15,000. On the bright side, they have enjoyed the highest single adoption rate of any such facility in the United States—over 80 per cent of all the shelter's "guests" find loving homes. For the other 20 per cent...

The obvious point of this article is to bring home the fact that these animals need love and help, and that the people giving them that also need help.

A massive membership drive was announced recently by Joseph T. Crosswhite Jr., SPCA president. The result of this drive combined with generous donations from concerned citizens will be applied towards cost of a major building expansion at the Ruffalo Road Shelter.

Plans call for construction of a recovery room for surgery animals, a new clinic, indoor-outdoor facilities for dogs and cats, an interviewing room for adoptions, improved office facilities and a "humane education" room for film and slide presentations and animal care classes.

The tab will reach $150,000 when all is completed. That breaks down to an average donation of 50¢ for every Beach citizen.

In addition to the direct monetary need, the SPCA also is seeking volunteers to aid in care of animals housed at the shelter.

For volunteer and membership information, call the SPCA at 421-3431. Donations may be mailed to P.O. Box 201 in Virginia Beach, 23454.

Beach art teacher opens one man show

Rick Fusco of Virginia Beach has opened a one-man show of semi-abstract paintings at Mutual Federal's Hilltop North Office. The show will run through the month of October. Fusco teaches art at Bay-side Elementary School. He studied art at the University of South Carolina and Virginia Wesleyan College. He also studied architecture and architectural graphics at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

In 1973, Fusco began painting with Barclay Sheaks at Virginia Wesleyan College. He is the public collector of the private collections of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Baydush and Barclay Sheaks. He also has work in the public collection of the Virginia Beach Library.

Fusco, a Tidewater resident for 8 years, has won numerous awards, most recently the best in show award at the Hilltop North Shopping Center Show last month. He has also won like honor's in last year's Hilltop North show.

Many area shopping center art shows have yielded Fusco merit awards. He was awarded the certificate of achievement in the Virginia Beach Arts Center, for four consecutive years. In 1973, he won an award from the Virginia-

North Carolina Educators Teachers Convention. His work is exhibited at Bay Gallery in Virginia Beach and other galleries in Palm Beach and Rossmore.

Cade manages area Red Cross

William H. Cade of Virginia Beach assumed the position of manager of Tidewater Chapter, American Red Cross, and First Colonies Division, American Red Cross.

B. degree in Journalism, and has extensive experience with Red Cross during the past 24 years.

He has served as an assistant field director, service to military installations with southeastern area; field director, SMI, southeastern area; executive director, Durham County Chapter, ARC, Durham, N. C.; director, blood donor recruitment, Mecklenburg County Chapter, Charlotte, N. C., assistant manager, south Florida Division, ARC, Miami, Fla., and manager, Mississippi Division, Jackson, Miss.

The Tidewater Chapter serves Virginia Beach, Norfolk, and east Chesapeake and is located at 414 W. Bule St., Norfolk.

He will also be manager of First Colonies Division, which is made up of 18 Red Cross chapters in southeastern Virginia and northeastern North Carolina.

Cade came to the Norfolk Red Cross office from Jackson, Miss. where he held a similar position.

Beach girl joins walk

Laura Herrmann of Virginia Beach, a freshman at Southern Seminary Junior College, was among those participating in the local CROP hike for Hunger, Oct. 2. Despite heavy rain, the CROP walkers completed the 10-mile hike in record time. Miss Herrmann, the freshman class representative, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Herrmann of 2700 Cattaway Run.

Hardin to speak at VWC

Dr. Paul Hardin, president of Drew University, will speak at a convocation on the anniversary observance, the convocation will be followed by a series of three discussion sessions dealing with various aspects of a liberal arts education, according to Dr. Stephen S. Mansfield, associate professor of history and chairman of the convocation committee.

President Hardin will initiate the series at 11:15 a.m. in the College's Van H. Cunningham Gymnasium.

Currently president of Drew University, Hardin is the former president of Southern Methodist University and Wesleyan College. He also served as professor of law at Duke University and as editor of the Duke Law Journal. He holds B.A. and J.D. degrees from Duke University and an L. B. D. degree from Clemson University. A former president of the Church Related Colleges of the South, Hardin is currently chairman of the National Commission on United Methodist Higher Education. He will speak at 8 p.m. in the College's Memorial Chapel will be "The Liberal Arts and Career Preparation." Dr. Edmund D. Carlson, assistant professor of political science at Virginia Wesleyan, will discuss the topic with three-member panel.

Two Beach students at AF Academy

Sons of two Virginia Beach families have entered their freshman year at the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado.

They are Rowland M. Nye, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Nye of 4423 Hogue Grove Ct., and Mario W. Mastrangeli, son of retired Navy Master CPO and Mrs. William E. Mastrangeli of 372 Liberty Bell Rd. Cade Mastrangeli is a 1976 graduate of Princess Anne High School, while Cade Nye graduated from Ballard High in Louisville, Ky.

The cadets are among more than 1400 freshmen who were officially accepted into the cadet wing after completing six weeks of intensive field training, physical conditioning and survival instruction.

Located eight miles north of Colorado Springs, Colo., and occupying 18,000 acres of mesas and valleys at the foot of the Rocky Mountains, the academy specializes in both military affairs and scientific technology.

The cadets now begin four years of academic study and military training that will lead to a B.S. degree and a commission as a second lieutenant.

Puppet show now available

A professional puppet show aimed at entertaining children while motivating them to practice fire safety is now available without charge to groups in this area. The program, by the Royal Puppet Theater, is called "A Burning Question." It uses a fast-moving musical comedy format to point out the dangers of fire and the importance of fire safety habits. The show is being offered free to groups of 100 or more children by Chart House Inc., a national restaurant company with regional offices in Virginia Beach.

The portable stage of the Royal Puppet Theater can be set up indoors or outdoors. It occupies only 1 1/2 feet of floor space and stands only 77 inches high. The entire unit is powered by a single 110 volt plug. Royal Puppet Theater has entertained and instructed over a million and a half children and adults over the past few years on such topics as ecology and the Bicentennial. Now the professional troupe turns to fire safety education in cooperation with the local fire departments in the county.

Persons working with children's organizations who wish to schedule the show for their groups may call Mr. Peterson at 460-0941. The only requirement is that there be at least 100 children in the group. Admission may not be charged.

Janie Whitehurst to speak here

Janie Whitehurst, wife of Second District Congressman G. William Whitehurst, will be a guest of the Virginia Beach Republican Women's Club at a luncheon Oct. 27.

The meeting will be held at the Atlantic Permanent Savings & Loan Association, 944 Independence Blvd. at 10:30 a.m. Following a business meeting and the remarks of Mrs. Whitehurst and Mr. Whitehurst, a luncheon, prepared and donated by the club members, will be served.

There will be a charge of $2.00 to be donated to the Club's treasury. Reservations may be made before Oct. 23 with Ouida Byington (340-8986), Linda Scanlan (340-8762) or Rita Wolford (340-1595). Other hostesses are Louise Cowart and Mary Remy.

Building corp. seeks fill permit

Wayne McLeskey, president of Lynnhaven Building Supply Corp., has applied to the district engineer for a permit to fill an area approximately 150 feet wide by 400 feet in length in Wolfenare Creek, south of Wolfenare Road and east of Grand Neck Road. The fill area would be brought to a height of about 11 feet and construction debris and then covered with topsoil. An existing drainage ditch that flows through the area would be contained in a 36 inch pipe. Purpose of the project is to provide a disposal area for construction debris. Preliminary review of the application has indicated that an environmental impact statement will not be required.

Persons wishing to reply to the application request should contact the district engineer, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in Norfolk before Oct. 23.

What's next for Beach mass transit?

The City of Virginia Beach spends $250,000 a year to subsidize mass public transportation.

The question City Council faces now is—Is the expenditure worth it? Or should the city increase, decrease or maintain at its present level or even eliminate its participation in the mass transportation venture.

Councilman J. Henry McCoy Jr., who serves on the transit committee of the Southeastern Virginia Planning District Commission, thinks that the least productive lines should be cut back.

The relatively small ridership at the Beach makes bus service expensive to operate. In 1976 the subsidy per capita was $2.29. By 1980 this figure is expected to reach $3.36 without taking into account any increases in the price of fuel.

Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield Jr., has suggested that the people in Virginia Beach just don't want to ride buses, no matter how good the concept is.

Councilman John A. Baum suggested that the City consider keeping a skeleton system in any event because it would be easier, if the need were to arise, to build on an existing system than to start one all over again.

Council recently was presented with possible alternatives by the Planning District Commission which includes Norfolk, Portsmouth, Chesapeake, Virginia Beach and Suffolk.

The first would continue routes and services as they are, resulting in a $2 million deficit in 1976 and an anticipated deficit of $5 million by 1980.

The second would reduce the bus miles by 30 per cent, keeping the operating deficit under $1 million by 1980.

The third would increase service by 70 per cent so that the annual deficit by 1980 would be $11.2 million.

The fourth would be a more modest 30 per cent improvement with the 1980 deficit projected at $7.8 million.

McCoy suggested that the Council consider operations closer to alternative two.

Expenditures by local governments are refunded by the Federal government by 50 per cent, which leaves a sizable $125,000 bill to be footed by the city this year. During one month, February, the ridership was 37,300 with the subsidy level per ride at 36 cents.

Representatives of the Planning District Commission are currently presenting figures, projections and alternatives to elected officials of the five cities in the district. Each city will determine what it wants to do—and what it wants to pay.

Unger joins Beach Ballet

A new addition to the faculty of the Academy of the Virginia Beach Ballet this year is Eleanor M.K. Unger who will teach highland dancing.

Born in Girvan, Scotland, Ms. Unger has studied and passed all highland dance examinations. While living in New Zealand, she competed in highland dance competitions where she won local and area dance awards, in the New Zealand Scottish Society's Junior and Senior championship and the New Zealand Caledonia Society's championship.

Miss Unger taught dance classes in New Zealand and has taught in this area for two years, using the method according to the Scottish Official Board of Highland Dancing, in preparation for competition.

She will conduct classes for beginning students and adults, and some of the dances will include highland fling, highland reel, Irish jig and sailor's hornpipe.

At Indian River

Band festival 'best ever'

By BUD LOWE
SUN Staff Writer

What a show!

The fourth annual Tidewater Festival of Marching Bands. This year has to be rated as the best yet for Indian River's Band Festival. There was an estimated crowd of 5,500 who came to watch and listen to 27 high school bands from across two states perform. The program was well presented, and the Indian River High School Band Parents Association could not have hoped for a more successful day.

The day-long festivities started at 1 p.m. and ended about 9 p.m., with just a one-hour break between the preliminaries and the finals.

These bands could not be compared overall to the group of bands that performed in the Lynchburg Classic the previous weekend, but the bands at Indian River Festival did a splendid job. Every band member there can be proud of the show they presented, regardless of where they placed on the final standing sheet. Every band was a pleasure to listen to and watch.

The final standings were a surprise to many. And a pleasant surprise for the Beach bands.

Of the top five bands, in Class AA, three were from the Beach. Again, the Beach bands proved they have what it takes to stand out in competition.

The big surprise of the day had to be Kellam High School. Jack Sperry, band director at Kellam, and Company put on the show of their lives out there, and the crowd ate it up. That was the best performance they have put on in some time, and what a time to do it.

Kellam is not known for its field unit as much as their concert unit, but it looks as though Cox and Princess Anne have a new gang to watch for on the field of competition.

Kellam's show at the festival was better than the show they put on the night before at their football game, and the new uniforms didn't hurt them a bit. With this new look and sound from Kellam, maybe we will see them at the top of the field competitions around the state.

Cox High School was up for the occasion. Billy Cooper, band director at Cox, and his unit looked good, but they always do. Cox High School Band is small in size this year, but big in sound. They are competitors no matter what happens. They may not be as powerful as last year, but their show carries a degree of difficulty that makes up for their size.

The Big Red Machine, those Fabulous Marching Cavaliers from Princess Anne High School, was there in force. As usual, Ron Collins, band director at Princess Anne, and his marching unit were in great form. What can be said about this group that has not been said before? They are rated as the number one high school marching unit at the Beach, and have proven it time and time again. They are definitely a tribute to the Beach.

Host band for this elaborate festival of music was the Marching Braves from Indian River High School. They performed last but were not in competition. Their show was, as usual, very good, and a tribute to Jim Page, band director at Indian River.

And it all ended up like this: Class A-1, Perry McCleer High School, Buena Vista; 2, Plymouth High School, Plymouth, N.C.; 3, Williamson High School, Williamson, N.C.;

Class AA-1, Greene Central High School, Snow Hill, N.C.; 2, Heritage High School, Lynchburg; 3, Princess Anne High School, Virginia Beach; 4, Cox High School, Virginia Beach; 5, Kellam High School, Virginia Beach.

The parents of the students in the different units put much emphasis on sportsmanship. Yet, while at Indian River it was noticed, by many, that throughout the stands there was much booing of the bands coming off the field. This audience was made up of about 90 per cent parents.

How do these parents expect their children to be anything else but bad sports if the parents are so better? The young people on the field performing may not be as good as the band you are from, or may even be better, but they gave everything they had on that field and should be recognized for being there—in ways other than by booing or laughing.

This was very obvious in comparison to the crowds reaction at the Lynchburg Classic. But at the Classic they were all top bands, and everyone, students and parents alike, acted accordingly.

This weekend Princess Anne High School and Cox High School will travel to Mount Vernon in Alexandria. Best of luck is extended to both marching units on this trip. There is no doubt they will carry the name of the Beach in good form and will make everyone from the Beach proud they are representing us.

Remember, music fans, that the SUN has a subscription drive going with all the high school band parents associations at the Beach. It's designed to help bands raise much-needed funds. Do your part and get a subscription from the band or drill team of your choice.

The association that writes the subscription will receive half the subscription price for their unit. When you see them on the field and hear of the places they go, remember, this is possible only because of the funds they raise themselves.

So help the high school band or drill team parent association and get your subscription now. There is a time limit on how long this will last. For further information contact Bud Lowe at 466-2430.

Turkey shoot planned

The Bayside High School Band Parents Association is sponsoring a turkey shoot Oct. 23, 24, and 25. Proceeds will go to the uniform fund.

Oliver's Farm on Haygood Road and Aragona Boulevard in Virginia Beach will be the site of the shoot, adjacent to Bayside High School.

Hours are: Saturday, Oct. 23, 11 a.m. until dark, and Sunday and Monday, Oct. 24 and 25, noon until dark.

Beach will provide alcoholic treatment

Virginia Beach will provide treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics through a local program under the Department of Mental Health.

In submitting a request for an appropriation, City Manager George Hanbury said that "there is a greater dependence on alcohol in Virginia Beach than in other Virginia cities." The program will be much like the drug abuse program, he said.

City Council approved an appropriation of $15,329, the city's share of the program. The state has agreed to pay $21,712.

Funds will provide services for a coordinator, counselor, clerk-stenographer and operating expenses.

UNITED VIRGINIA BANKERS HELP YOU MAKE BIG THINGS HAPPEN WITH MONEY.

Money. It's always a big thing in your life. Because money has some very practical applications.

It can get things done for you. Make things happen for you. And the truth is, the more of it you have, the more you can do.

Which is where your United Virginia banker comes in.

United Virginia bankers lend more money than any other financial institution in the state. We lend money to businesses. As well as individuals.

And we do it through 165 offices in 70 cities and towns.

The same expertise in money lending and management that we apply to large corporate accounts is available to you to help you get the things you want.

That's not to say a United Virginia banker will always say yes. Sometimes, as hard as it is, the best answer is no.

But because we're big and we know our business, United Virginia will always be consistent. And even in our neighborhood offices, you'll be able to draw from the strength and know-how of our entire, state-wide system.

So whether it's a simple loan, a savings plan or financing for your business, we do it. And we do more of it than anybody in Virginia.

And with that kind of size and service your United Virginia banker can assure you that when it comes to money, you will never have to face it alone.

Retirement: leisure, or trouble time?

Retirement should be a carefree time—a time of relaxation—but many Virginia Beach retirees find that they should have spent a little more time preparing for their 65th birthday and beyond.

"If you're getting ready to retire, I've listed some tips that may help you save time and trouble when you apply for benefits," Ular said.

To begin with, when an individual applies, he should bring his Social Security card or a record of his Social Security number, proof of age and the last year's income tax withholding statement.

"If you're self-employed, bring a copy of last year's income tax return and evidence of payment of the self-employment contribution, Ular says. "And if your wife is also applying for benefits, she should bring evidence of her age and her social security card or a record of her number if she has one."

The best evidence of age is a birth or baptismal certificate made within five years of your birth.

However, if these are not available, other documents may be used. Generally, the older the document the better.

If you were born in Virginia on or after June 14, 1912 write the Bureau of Vital Records, Department of Health, James Madison Building, Box 1000, Richmond 23208.

Include a $2 check or money order, payable to the Department of Health. Also include your father's name, mother's maiden name and your place and date of birth.

If you were born in Virginia prior to June 14, 1912, in one of the areas above, you should contact the Health Departments in those communities.

College Night program slated at Va. Beach

Tidewater area College Night Programs will be held Nov. 1 through Nov. 4, according to Thomas E. Powell, director of admissions at Old Dominion University and Tidewater coordinator for College Night Programs.

All interested high school students are welcome to attend the programs and talk with admissions personnel from most state private and public colleges and universities and several out-of-state institutions.

The schedule states which high school students should attend which program:

--Tuesday, Nov. 2, 7:30 p.m., Chesapeake, Portsmouth and Suffolk students should go to Western Branch High School in Chesapeake;

--Thursday, Nov. 4, 4 p.m. to 8 p.m., all Virginia Beach city high school students should go to the Virginia Beach Dome.

College Night Programs are sponsored by the Virginia Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers in cooperation with area secondary school systems.

For more information students should contact their high school counselor.

Beach bus plans stalled?

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Bus riding isn't too popular in Virginia Beach now, but what about next year, or the next five years?

City Manager George L. Hanbury isn't venturing a guess, but he thinks as long as bus needs of the city may change in any direction, the city should have a flexible plan to enable it to meet these needs.

At an informal meeting Monday

The city would be reimbursed by the Federal government for half the cost.

However, if the city chooses to select a plan with reduced service, the federal government would share the cost for only that service and the city would have to foot the entire bill for any expansion.

By selecting an alternative which provides for a moderate expansion, the city has more flexibility to expand or cut back services without jeopardizing federal assistance.

A complete implementation of the plan would represent an annual deficit during the five-year period of $3,030,000. Mass transportation would be furnished to every urbanized area of the city, and types of services other than fixed route buses would be considered, such as specialized door-to-door service for elderly and handicapped, car pools, van pools and taxis to fill gaps.

Monday to go along with one of two alternative plans presented by the Southeastern Virginia Planning District Commission (SEVPOC).

Although the city provides for its transit needs on a year to year basis in its budget, a five year plan is necessary to qualify for federal funds which pay for 50 per cent of the transit bill.

When the four alternatives were presented three weeks ago by the SEVPOC, Hanbury was inclined to recommend a reduction in service, one of the alternatives. In effect, this plan would leave the Beach with only the Virginia Beach route, but would cut the annual deficit during the next five years to $226,975. Maintaining service at its present level would cost the Beach $825,738 annually while the present appropriation represents a deficit of $223,665.

Tidewater economy wavers

The latest report from Old Dominion University on the Tidewater economy was unable to predict future economic trends in the area. Indicators used showed no definite course during the past month.

The Center for Urban and Regional Research (CURR) at ODU issues monthly reports on the Tidewater economy. The latest report said in part that the local economy was being affected by the general slowdown in the national economy. The report attributed the overall slowdown to decreases in growth of the national money supply brought about by the Federal Reserve System in the face of the current federal deficit. (The deficit is the largest in United States history.)

The CURR uses 17 leading economic indicators in Tidewater to evaluate the economy. They include bank deposits, mean value of building permits, nonagricultural employment, market basket indexes, total loans cleared, savings deposits, electric power (industrial), postal receipts, newspaper advertising lineage, net tonnage at the port, custom receipts, traffic at Norfolk International Airport, traffic flow on Hampton and Chesapeake Bay Bridge and Tunnels, retail sales index, new car registrations and cold dumping at the port.

This month's report, written by Joseph Prinsinger, also indicates that the national recovery is, "slowing down or even halting."

Prinsinger goes on to say, however, that recovery could resume within six to nine months if the Federal Reserve System changes to a policy of increasing money supply.

It's cold outside!

Three beach visitors found that cold weather really does come to the resort city. In fact, most people have been somewhat surprised by the very cold weather of recent weeks. But Bonnie Trichel, Sue Howard and Juli Black of

Free Bees find results for a variety of needs

Calling everyone on the Free Bee list for a particular week can be hard on the fingers but great on the heart.

Using the Free Bee column from last week's Virginia Beach SUN, we found many happy people who had given away everything from cats and dogs to firewood.

The Free Bee column started in April of this year and has been a success from the word free.

Since then unknown hundreds of animals, kitchen appliances, yard goods, clothing, boats, beds, sofas and numerous free services have made their way to new owners and users through the Free Bees in the Bjerly Publication newspapers.

The most heard comment when calling back the advertisers is some form of "We gave it away in just days!" Many say that they receive calls long after they have given away whatever it was they had.

One ad was more successful than anyone might have planned on to the point that the old owner of a home had moved away and the new owner, "kept getting all these calls from people wanting pets. I didn't know what was going on!"

For some success has come in just hours after the paper was off the press:

--"It couldn't have been out more than a day," said a Virginia Beach woman with two Persian kittens that have since found new homes.

--"The phone was ringing when I got home from the store with the paper," said a Chesapeake woman, "and I got rid of two kittens then and there."

--A Portsmouth man was also pleased with numerous calls for some old tools that he gave away.

Who can use Free Bees? Anyone, as long as they are giving away something free such as a cat or dog, something from around the house, even services.

To place a Free Bee in any of the Bjerly Publication newspapers simply call 547-4571 or 466-3430.

Sunshine girl

By Rod Mann

Debbie Loomis

Debbie, 20, is a graduate of First Colonial High School in Virginia Beach and now works at Stitches in Hilltop North. She says she enjoys the relaxed atmosphere of the store and the natural friendliness of her customers. She enjoys bike riding, especially on the boardwalk, weather permitting of course.

Beach City Manager

Hanbury among 500 who recall Berkley

Saturday night, Oct. 2, the lobby of the Admiralty Motel was bustling with the chatter of over 500 people, many from Virginia Beach, talking about things in common—the old times in Berkley.

The occasion was the first annual Berkley Reunion, a brainchild of a few former residents of the once-proud and close community that everyone loved so well. It all began with a few telephone calls to ask if it was thought possible to have a reunion of the people who once lived in Berkley but had now scattered to all parts of the United States.

Jim Moyer, Howard Dunn, Paul McManus (better known as "Swi"), Laurie Meade, and Vernon Martell thought the idea was great. The question was how to contact all of these people and get them to come to a reunion.

In spite of the obstacles the committee started the plans and the monumental job of contacting the former residents. A few telephone calls were made, an article appeared in the local newspapers, an announcement over the radio, and last but not least, word of mouth to friends.

A printed form announcing the reunion and asking the receiver to make reservations if he or she were interested was mailed to many. Before long, requests for more forms came in and additional printing order was called in.

Telephone calls started to come in, and a search was begun for a place to hold the reunion. A first "guest-finder" was that 200 people would be interested and want to come, but things started to snowball and before organizers knew what was happening, the project had outgrown the original plans and a larger place was needed.

As the final day approached there were reservations for 520 former residents who wanted to get together to talk over old times in Berkley.

People came from Michigan, upstate New York, Washington D. C. area, Seattle, New Jersey, Miami, Roanoke, Lynchburg, and other far-off places.

Among those in attendance was Mrs. Alice Berkley Sweetman, from whose grandfather the town got its name. She is now a young 92 years old and enjoyed reminiscing with the reunited Berkleyites.

Mrs. Sweetman had taught many in Sunday school at Memorial Methodist Church on the corner of Berkley Avenue and Dixie Street.

Another reunion participant was Mrs. Nellie Cowan, who ran the lunchroom at Robert Gatewood School. She, too, had reached 90 years old and vividly remembered the old days. Some of her flashbacks brought many pleasant memories.

Rainbows are produced by the action of sunlight on droplets of water which are in suspension in the air!

It would be impossible to take the space to name everyone present, but among those there that have done well for themselves after leaving Berkley were George Hanbury, city manager of Virginia Beach; the Rev. Jimmy Beck, now working for a rehabilitation center in Lynnhaven; Louis B. Fine, prominent attorney; Alter Leibstein, prominent physician; Mrs. Ben Paul Snyder, formerly Bertha Goodman, who is prominent in social activities; Sol Petock, furniture dealer; Frank Legum, also a furniture dealer; Dr. R. A. Gay, dentist.

Many, many more have brought pride to their former neighbors in Berkley.

Francis Mercer, master of ceremonies, also a prominent resident of Berkley (who may be better known for his minstrel days and his golden voice) and now an employee of the City of Chesapeake, renewed memories by telling of the old Rex Theater, Thompson's Drug Store, both on Berkley Avenue; Tatum's Park with the Confederate monument on the corner of Main Street and Berkley Avenue; Robert Gatewood School and George Washington School (no longer a school) where most of those present received their initial education; General Douglas McArthur's mother's home on Main Street at the South end of the old Berkley Bridge; the mud flats where so many games of sport were held with such notable figures as "Piggy" Diggs, Jim Moyer, Albert "Bullet" Shipley, Buddy Rhodes, Roan Rosenberg, and Hunter Herrington; the long walks across the Berkley Bridge to Ruffin Junior High, the street cars that came down the Berkley bridge last and hit the curve and three passengers into the aisle; Royal's Drug Store, and Mrs. Dudley at the Berkley Library.

A hat was passed at the mud flats to buy the uniforms for the "stars" to wear in the football and baseball games. Mercer recalled, there was always plenty of rivalry between the boys of South Norfolk, Ghent, West Ghent, Ocean View, and Campostella, both in sports and courting of the girls. The Berkley boys had a certain whistle that was used in imminent danger and when this was given, any man or boy from Berkley responded immediately.

It was a close community where everyone knew everyone, shared everything with each other, doors were seldom locked, everyone felt safe to walk down the streets at night and not have the worry of an attack or robbery.

One cannot forget the ferryboat, "Twin City," that took so many Berkley people to and from Norfolk and Portsmouth, the "Dinky" cars that ran from the ferry on Chester Street to South Norfolk over the viaduct on Berkley Avenue, Brodie's Store, Garrett's Winery, Held's Store, the Piggy Wigly store, and Shalgold's store on Berkley Avenue.

There were industries enough for the man of the house to make a living and raise his family, including the Walke Box and Lumber Company, Fosbury's Lumber, Richard Machine Works, Old Dominion Foundry, Old Dominion Railway, Norfolk Southern Railway, the St. Helena Naval Station.

Most remembered the catastrophic Berkley fire of 1922 that destroyed a large part of Berkley and left many homeless and wiped out so many businesses. But the determined people soon rebuilt or relocated in Berkley, and life in this fine community went on.

Some things may be forgotten, but never will the sight of so many people gathered together to reminiscence a common feeling of friendship and love for their former home.

There was a lot of tear-shedding—mostly of joy—a lot of laughter, a lot of hugging and kissing, and the magnetic feeling of togetherness once again.

There was a lot of anxiety on arrival knowing that there would be so many old friends, and everyone left with a heart full of joy and love for each other and the feeling of being remembered.

Long live the dear old people from Berkley!

UNITED VIRGINIA BANKERS HELP YOU MAKE BIG THINGS HAPPEN WITH MONEY.

Money. It's a big thing in your life. Because money has some very practical applications.

It can get things done for you. Make things happen for you. And the truth is, the more of it you have, the more you can do.

Which is where your United Virginia banker comes in.

United Virginia bankers lend more money than any other financial institution in the state. We lend money to businesses. As well as individuals.

And we do it through 165 offices in 70 cities and towns.

The same expertise in money lending and management that we apply to large corporate accounts is available to you to help you get the things you want.

That's not to say a United Virginia banker will always say yes. Sometimes, as hard as it is, the best answer is no.

But because we're big and we know our business, United Virginia will always be consistent. And even in our neighborhood offices, you'll be able to draw from the strength and know-how of our entire, state-wide system.

So whether it's a simple loan, a savings plan or financing for your business, we do it. And we do more of it than anybody in Virginia.

And with that kind of size and service your United Virginia banker can assure you that when it comes to money, you will never have to face it alone.

VEPCO charges too high

VEPCO charges continue to keep developers from going underground.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said costs for underground wiring to developers -- and to the city as well -- are prohibitive. "We are trying to get VEPCO to be more reasonable in cost allocations to go underground," he said.

Discussion grew out of a developer's request that the city share the cost by half for underground wiring along Great Neck Road. The developer and the city would each pay $17,000. But Hanbury said such participation would "open the gate for all developers to get in on half-price underground wiring." Speaking at the informal session of Council last week Hanbury said the only developers who have gone underground are those with relatively small projects. The cost to a developer with any major frontage is prohibitive, he said.

Film will examine 'secret of loving'

"The Secret of Loving," a new color film, will be shown at Princess Anne High School, Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m. "The Secret of Loving" takes an opposing view to "sex without love, marriage without commitment" which are the norms of our fragile society.

In light of current promiscuity and the frequent marriage failures that fill divorce courts, concerned youth are asking, "Can I succeed in marriage?" and "Is real love possible in a 'junkie' world?" This film answers both questions with a resounding "Yes."

"The Secret of Loving" features Josh McDowell, a brilliant college lecturer, world traveler and youth counselor. In recent years Mr. McDowell has spoken to student audiences on college campuses in more than 45 countries. Millions of students have felt the impact of his wisdom in providing answers to their personal problems.

In "The Secret of Loving" Josh McDowell shares in his own unique and humorous style, the pattern and beauty which God intended for sex, love, dating and marriage." Josh examines "the pitfalls, the common misconceptions and he provides solutions - personal solutions which yield lasting and satisfying love."

"The Secret of Loving," a recent release of Gospel Films, Inc. of Mukwonago, leaves no secrets.

This is a big youth rally and you are asked to arrive early if you want to be assured of a seat. The program is sponsored by Emmanuel Baptist Church of Virginia Beach.

President Ford

The campaign is crescendoing, as the newspapers say. The debates are behind us, and looking back, it's like reading the table of contents of a dull book. Jimmy Carter is still faithful to his principle of saying nothing specific. President Ford continues to bump his head and muddle his punch lines.

But Ford isn't running on charisma and charm this year. The President is running on the strength of one theme: our government must promise less, deliver better and spend within its means.

Most politicians these days live with one foot in Utopia and one foot in reality. It's time to get both feet together. The realists will get things accomplished. The Utopians are a public menace. Politicians must concern themselves with the possible.

Jimmy Carter says he is for all these government programs to put people to work and, at the same time, he says he is going to have a balanced budget. People aren't stupid. They don't buy that. There is no Utopia.

President Ford has led the country out of the recession in a prudent way, resisting pressures to overspend and overlegislate. There is something about the premise that there is "no free lunch" that is realistic.

Carter promises increased spending for education, health, the cities, welfare, housing, transportation and everything that catches his attention. None of the Carter people, however, have shown any enthusiasm for the enormous tax increases that would be needed to carry out their programs.

It is unrealistic to believe that as President, Carter will veto the high spending bills passed by his own party on Capitol Hill. Therefore, the country will be faced with either higher taxes or higher inflation, and probably both.

President Ford has led the nation through the firestorm created by Watergate and the most severe economic recession since the 1930's. He is experienced, he is solid, he is trustworthy. The United States needs his leadership during the next four years.

The President will need help from whose voting record on fiscal matters, education, civil obedience and foreign affairs reflects his pragmatic approach and puts him solidly in step with President Ford's programs.

Senator Harry Byrd Jr. leads the uphill fight in Washington against the costs and the inefficiencies of big government. He puts it plainly, "We have more government than we need and most certainly more government than we can pay for."

The majority of Virginians are moderates who have respected the Byrd institution since early childhood. The mere thought of Elmo Zumwalt representing the Old Dominion terrifies them.

Byrd knows his popularity is not so much a tribute to a man, but to a philosophy of government. He will not abandon his principles of limited government, pay as you go, and strong national defense. And Virginians should not abandon the tradition that has put a Byrd in the U. S. Senate for the past 43 years. - H.B.

Christmas can be lonely

To the Editor:

Another Christmas season is rapidly approaching—the time of year we must enjoy being with family and friends. However, for many thousands of our fellow Americans this will be a very lonely Christmas, because they are stationed overseas with the United States Armed Forces. For young men and women this will be the first Christmas away from home. Your readers can help make this holiday season a little less lonely for many of these young people by joining in the collection of Christmas mail sponsored by Military Overseas Mail. This is an ideal project for school classes, clubs, Scouts, and other groups or organizations as well as individuals and families.

For more information, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to MOM, Box 4428, Arlington, Va. 22204. Thank you. Coordinator Lee Spencer, Military Overseas Mail Arlington.

Carter ducked service?

To the editor:

Jimmy Carter, the Democratic candidate for president, was in three colleges during the period from 1941 to 1947 and he graduated from two of them.

World War Two was on from 1941 to 1945.

I think that during that time he could have served in the armed forces instead of going so many years to colleges.

James Smith

Ed. Note:

Shaw McDermott, a research director with the Carter-Mondale campaign office in Richmond, responded to the above letter Thursday afternoon.

He explained that Mr. Carter was attending Southwestern College in 1941, prior to the start of the war; in 1942 Carter entered the Navy ROTC program at Georgia Tech; in 1943 he entered the United States Naval Academy where he spent some time aboard a battleship which was on active submarine patrol in the Atlantic and in 1947 Carter attended Union College.

Cub Scouts urge voting

As part of the October "Outstanding President" program, Cub Scouts in the Tidewater Council are joining others across the nation urging the public to take part in one of the primary assets of our democratic society—the right to vote on Nov. 2. "Do it for U.S." is the slogan for the campaign. Among the types of activities which local Cub Scouts through their dens and Cub Packs, will be doing to encourage voting are personally contacting their neighbors, distributing Cub-made door knob hangers and flyers, and giving "Cub Scout MinuteMan" talks to church groups and club meetings.

It's stalled

The city doesn't have to adopt any of the plan.

Kenneth A. Knight, urban planner for the Beach, in making a report on alternatives and how they would affect the Beach, said that daily ridership is now 2,000 to 2,500 daily. The subsidy paid by the city is 50 percent per ride.

Councilman J. Henry McCoy, Jr., a member of the Tidewater Transportation Commission, said that not a single transportation system in the Country is paying for itself.

McCoy also suggested that mass transit might become more popular with increases in gas prices which he said are "imminent," and that the city was growing and may have more residents used to riding buses.

A survey of riders made by Wilbur Smith and Associates found that most riders were lower income people, elderly and persons going to and from work who have no car available. This group was referred to as captive riders. Express lines carry passengers who do have other means of transit but prefer to take the bus and are referred to as choice riders.

Councilman Robert B. Cromwell, Jr. then observed that the service doesn't actually take many cars off the roads.

Knight said that without more convenience in mass transportation "you can't promote it to relieve congestion."

Discussion raised another spectre for Vice Mayor Patrick L. Banding who asked that by mass transit "we are encouraging (lower income) people to live here. We're making a mistake inviting that type of thing."

Councilwoman Meyer Oberdorf thought the Beach might need mass transit for the elderly. "Some of the Virginia Beach people will grow older," she said, "and will need transit."

Councilman George R. Ferrell asked why their relatives can't take care of them which led Mrs. Oberdorf to say that some want to be independent.

Campaign comment

Political potpourri...

By HANES BYERLY

Whichever side of the political apple tree you shade yourself on, you should have developed an opinion or two during the past few months of white hot campaigning. With it all winding down into the final days, here are one writer's observations.

Jimmy who?

Everybody wants to know what Jimmy Carter really stands for, what he really believes. Carter has called himself a conservative yet he speaks like a liberal. It has been suggested that he himself doesn't know what he is. Perhaps the real Jimmy Carter can be determined by his selection of his running mate, Senator Walter Mondale.

In the last television debate Carter was asked what type of people he would bring to Washington if he became President. Carter cited Mondale as an example of the "kind of people I will choose for my government." Carter said "I feel completely at ease if Mondale should become President. We think alike."

Carter has no national voting record. Mondale does. Let's look at that record, the record Carter has so completely endorsed.

In his 11 years since being appointed to the U. S. Senate on December 30, 1964, the senator from Minnesota has compiled a record of liberal voting and advocacy of liberal causes second to none in Congress.

So strong are his liberal credentials that he has consistently earned ratings of 92 percent or higher — and was even rated 100 percent in 1971 — by the left leaning Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) in each of his congressional years.

Mondale's political career has been one long flight from reality. His answer to every problem boils down to new infusion of federal spending and authority.

Carter says there is "no discernible difference" between his and Mondale's views on the issues. Let's be serious. Can there be any doubt what Carter stands for? Come on, Jimmy, tell it like it is.

The new morality

If now, three years after Watergate, we imagine we are in clear daylight at last, we had better look at the nearest newspaper or switch on the television set.

With all the noise about a new political morality, you might be surprised to learn one of Congress's reactions to the recent rash of scandals. It has passed a law reducing the statute of limitations on illegal contributions from five years to three.

Remember that Democrats hold almost a two-third majority in the Senate and they outnumber Republicans two to one in the House. Curious.

Daisy girl

Jimmy Carter is bitterly complaining about a recent newspaper advertisement showing the covers of Newsweek and Playboy magazines. President Ford is the cover story for Newsweek and Carter's monologue on lust and adultery can be found among the naked ladies in Playboy.

The Carter people say the Republicans are taking the low road with these "unfair" tactics. But perhaps the most wretched example of unfair advertising occurred 12 years ago when the Democrats stopped at nothing to present Barry Goldwater as an aimless, trigger-happy warrior.

A famous television spot, known as the Daisy Girl commercial, showed a little girl plucking petals from a daisy — he loves me, he loves me not — until the rhythm faded into an atomic countdown and the scene dissolved into an atomic mushroom cloud. The announcer warned that a vote for Goldwater was a vote for an atomic blast. Remember?

Now Jimmy Carter has hired the same man who produced the notorious Daisy Girl commercial to handle his eleventh hour television blitz. Can this be the high road?

Don't beg the voter

The experts say that scientific studies show 54 percent of eligible American voters will not go to the polls November 2. Everybody says this is a disgrace. The newspapers will run their usual "be sure to vote" editorials and the television announcers will urge a big turnout.

There is another opinion. If a person does not want to vote, don't beg him, don't scold him, and, for heaven's sake, don't send a taxi to take him to the polling place. It's a decision every person should make for himself.

This writer urges those people who do not want to vote to do just that — DO NOT VOTE. If you don't care about the outcome, stay away from the polls. The reader is left to his own judgement.

At Mt. Vernon

Beach bands do battle

By BUD LOWE
SUN Bands Writer

The Place: Mount Vernon High School, Mount Vernon, Va.

The Time: Oct. 23, early afternoon.

The Action: The Annual Mount Vernon Invitational Marching Band Championship.

And the high school bands were ready for the action to start. The Beach had two of its best field units present, Cox High School and Princess Anne High School. The big winner of the day was the Marching Cavaliers from Princess Anne. They were fabulous in both sound and form — such style and maneuvers have never been seen before. This day P.A. showed their winning form and how it is done. Yes, they were good...in fact, number one at this competition.

Ron Collins, band director for Princess Anne, can be proud of the show his group put on at this invitational. This had to be the best team effort of the year for the Cavaliers. They were truly outstanding.

Second-place band was E.C. Glass of Lynchburg. This band is considered one of the better bands in the state, and the big challenge to P.A. E.C. Glass put on a very good show, one that was a credit to their school and the band director, Neil Haworth.

Third place was taken by Cox High School. Billy Cooper, band director for Cox, and his staff did a splendid job. "Cooper's Troopers" put on a superb show — one of the smallest bands to participate, yet with the sounds and maneuvers of near-perfection.

This was the first year for this event, and it is going to be an annual. The people of Mount Vernon High School did a fabulous job of putting this together. There was a total of 12 bands competing from across the state. Host band was the Marching Majors, under the direction of James Dash, from Mount Vernon High School. If this year was an example of what the invitational is going to be like, many of the local bands will be looking forward to this event each year. The field included, T.C. Williams, Alexandria; James Madison, Vienna; Granby, Norfolk; Thomas Jefferson, Fairfax County; Stonewall Jackson, Manassas; E.C. Glass, Lynchburg; Spotsylvania; Culpeper County; Herndon, Herndon; Lake Braddock, Fairfax County; Cox and Princess Anne, Virginia Beach.

All 12 bands did a tremendous job and should be commended on their performance. The day-long activities were great. The weather was perfect, and the students were up for the challenge. First were the preliminary rounds and eliminations. From the starting bands, six were to be named to the finals, which began at 7 p.m.

Awards for this competition were participation trophies for all bands not placing in the top three; trophies for best band and for best drum major; trophy and $100 for third place, trophy and $300 for second place, trophy and $500 for first place. E.C. Glass, besides its second overall took the best front and best drum major trophies.

Ron Collins and Billy Cooper can both be proud of their units. It seems that no matter where these two bands go they come home the victor. And if you have ever seen either of them perform you know why.

We at the Beach should be proud that we have two such outstanding high school bands. They carry the name of our city throughout the state with pride and have brought honor home with them. They are truly fine representatives for us — they show and act as champions at all times.

The SUN has a subscription drive going with all the high school band parents associations at the Beach. It's designed to help bands raise much-needed funds to make trips like this one to Mount Vernon possible. Do your part and get a subscription from the band or drill team of your choice!

The association writing the subscription will receive half the subscription price for their unit. When you see them on the field and hear of the places they raise themselves, this is possible only because of the funds they raise themselves.

So help the high school band or drill team parent association and take the SUN up on this golden opportunity, get your subscription now. Time is running out, and you need to act now. For further information contact Bud Lowe at 486-3486.

There will be a meeting of the Kellam High School Drill Team Parents Association at 7 p.m. Nov. 1. The meeting will be held in the chorus room at the high school. All parents of the drill team are requested to be present.

RENT

IS A FOUR LETTER WORD!

"If we could afford to buy a new Townhome, so can you."

"We're just sorry we ever paid rent."

BOB: "When we were living in an apartment, we thought it would be years before we could have a place of our own. Now we're building equity so that someday we can have the big house we've always wanted."

CAROL: "And when we get a big house, we want to stay right here in Virginia Beach in a Sir Galahad home!"

BOB: "The way I worked it out, our monthly expenses are actually lower than when we were renting. And we only had to put 5% down."

CAROL: "So I used the money to decorate. When it's your own place you can really do what you want, put up wallpaper, fancy lighting fixtures... we even have a fireplace."

BOB: "Carol, you should tell them what the Sir Galahad people told us when we bought this place. All about how their other properties have appreciated over the years. Our monthly payments here are kind of like an investment for the future. And we have a great place to live in now, too. We didn't think we had a choice between buying and renting until we came to Sir Galahad country."

Most people now paying rent are astonished when we show them how just about the same monthly payment can be used to own a townhome at Aspen or Washington Square.

Many of our homeowners tell us they wish they had visited us sooner - before their rent receipts piled up. And before they realized they had nothing to show for all that money.

Our sales counselor will show you just what your Rent Money can accomplish if you use it to buy one of our townhomes. For in addition to owning and enjoying the townhome itself, you are hedging against inflation.

See us today and see how good life can be!

Do boring homes put you to sleep? Are you tired of living in a same-as-your neighbor, same-as-next block house or musty small apartment? Get out of that rut! Come to Colorado this weekend. It's as close as Virginia Beach. Yes, the Colorado lifestyle can be found all under the bright Virginia Beach Sun, at Aspen in Timberlake.

How is our design different? We've got wood and more wood. All in the Rocky Mountains mode.

We've captured the easy-going Colorado lifestyle in our Aspen homes. Aspen is landscaped differently from any other community in Tidewater.

We've imported the Colorado spirit with wide open spaces, parks with beautiful pines, oaks and other shade trees that are nestled by a cool stream that runs through the Aspen Community. You'll have to think twice to remember you're in Virginia Beach.

We've made it easy for you to have time to enjoy the Colorado Atmosphere by putting labor-saving conveniences into each home at Aspen. Continuous cleaning double oven-range, frost free refrigerators, washer and dryer, dish washers, and disposals are standard fare. The rest of your home looks great with wall to wall plush carpeting and is kept comfortable with E.S.P.*

QUESTION?

IF YOU WOULDN'T DREAM OF ASKING YOUR INVITED GUESTS TO USE THE BACK DOOR... WHY WOULD YOU EVEN CONSIDER A TOWNHOME WHERE YOU HAD TO CARRY THE TRASH CAN

ANSWER:

AT WASHINGTON SQUARE, WE PUT A LOT OF THOUGHT INTO OUR DESIGNS. STUDY THIS FLOOR PLAN. YOU'LL SEE WE ALSO HAVE A BACK DOOR. AND A PLACE IN BACK TO PARK
YOUR CAR WHERE YOU CAN UNLOAD GROCERIES, WASH THE CAR, AND A PLACE WHERE YOUR TRASH CAN BE PUT OUT WITHOUT RUINING THE BEAUTY OF THE COMMUNITY.
THAT'S JUST ONE OF THE REASONS WHY THE VALUE OF HOMES IN WASHINGTON SQUARE CONTINUE TO APPRE-CIATE IN VALUE AFTER YOU
BUY... BECAUSE WE TOOK THE TIME TO CONSIDER A LOT OF LITTLE THINGS WHICH YOU CAN TAKE FOR GRANTED!

The best home you can buy is one you can sell.

French hospitality at Mon Petit

By DEBORAH IOLI
SUN Entertainment Writer

Open just a few short months, Mon Petit Paris Restaurant sits quietly at the corner of Pinewood Square Shopping Center, offering true French hospitality as the Parisians know and enjoy it. Entering Mon Petit for the first time I was under the distinct impression (at first glance) that I had mistakenly entered someone's private home in which a small, elegant dinner party was taking place.

None of the hustle and bustle indigenous to most restaurants was in view. Waitresses and bus boys bearing frantic paths around crowded tables, with lines of people waiting to be seated.

At Mon Petit your order is taken quietly, calmly and personally by the owner, Guy, who graciously explains each menu for his guests affording them some degree of confidence while ordering from a French menu.

Two small dining rooms containing no more than fourteen tables set a scene few restaurants can claim.

Parties enjoy intimate dinners private from each other and yet give the impression of sharing a common bond within the room.

Guy, born and raised in France, explains that "dining should be like an evening out," you should take at least two hours to enjoy the experience just as you would take an evening to go to a show. "Here at Mon Petit we not only serve food, we make an event of it."

Look West looks good

Looks West Ltd. features unusual furnishings and accessories from the far off roots' lookin' west. "Saguaro" cactus, used in making of the coffee table featured in the picture, is grown only in the Sonoran Desert in Arizona.

A number of the cactus used have lived more than 200 years and attained a height of 40 feet or more. A dead Saguaro on the desert dwindles to a skeleton of woody ribs. Talented craftsmen preserve the skeletons by cleaning and treating the wood with a fine finish.

They have created a new concept in furniture which is displayed in tables, bookcases, lamps and other accent pieces seen at Looks West Ltd. in Pinewood Square Shopping Center in Virginia Beach.

Pottery, basketry and artwork from Indian tribes such as Santa Clara, Acama, Papago, Jemez, Navaho and San Ildefonso are featured along with hand crafted, signed jewelry with stones like malachite, jasper, agate, ivory, bloodstone and moonstone.

Stop by and browse through the rings, pendants, bracelets and earrings exhibiting exquisite silver work and design by skilled artisans.

Says Beach Postmaster

Stamp collecting is fun pastime

"There's no rule that says you have to buy a lot of expensive equipment and brand new mint stamps to enjoy

Architect says

City rates to high; development hurt

A Virginia Beach architect told City Council Monday afternoon that land near the beach front is not being developed because of the City's high sewer and water connection fees.

Richard Grimstead, architect, said the fees for new hotels are "astronomical." He said water and sewer fees for one eight-unit motel came to $20,000 and on a 12-unit addition, $33,000. Fees for a 300-unit motel would amount to a quarter of a million dollars.

Although there is vacant land at the beach, he said, one of the reasons it is not being developed is the high fees.

the hobby of stamp collection." Postmaster J. T. Crosswhite of Virginia Beach said today.

His comments coincide with a reminder that October is National Hobby Month, and the week of November 16-20 is National Stamp Collecting Week. "A person's pleasure in finding or trading a cancelled stamp is just as real as a collector's in buying a rare stamp," Crosswhite said.

In fact, in the last 15 years, stamp collecting has become so popular it is the world's favorite hobby. In the United States alone, an estimated 16 million men, women and children collect stamps. So widespread is stamp collecting that practically every community of any size has both adult and children's stamp clubs where collectors meet regularly to share their discoveries and interests in stamps, Crosswhite said. For the children, he added, Benjamin Franklin Stamp Clubs have been started in several thousand schools.

Procedures for getting a club started are supplied to teachers from the Office of Stamps at Postal Service Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

20260. In addition, he noted, many newspapers feature a regular stamp column, and several newspapers and magazines are published solely for the purpose of keeping collectors informed of stamp news.

"Someone interested in starting stamp collecting might do well by beginning right at the post office," Postmaster Crosswhite said. "The Postal Service offers several starter kits featuring sports, space, history, birds and butterflies, and masterworks of art. Each kit contains a little album, some stamps, stamp hinges and instructions on how to mount the stamps in the book."

Ford committee names chairmen

Two co-chairmen for President Ford's Second District campaign were announced recently by the Virginia President Ford Committee headquarters. State Senator A. Joseph Canada (R-District) GOP Chairman Knox Burdick of Virginia Beach will coordinate the president's campaign in the Second District.

They will be assisted by three co-chairmen each for Virginia Beach. Robert B. Berner, Richard G. Bridges and Dr. Henry J. McCoy have been named to serve in Virginia Beach. President Ford's support for a strong national defense and Jimmy Carter's plan to cut the defense budget by $5 to $7 billion is one reason these Ford leaders say they support the President. "The plain and simple fact is," says Senator Canada, "Jimmy Carter will put thousands of people out of work in the Tidewater area if he cuts the defense budget so drastically."

Burchett agrees. "We can credit our strong economy and traditionally low unemployment in Tidewater to the vast military presence we are fortunate to have here. The future of Tidewater's many defense related jobs depends on President Ford's election."

Teresa Barry elected

Teresa Barry of Virginia Beach was elected assistant merchant officer and regional BankAmericard manager of the United Virginia Bank-shares (UVB) Inc. at a recent meeting in Richmond. Mrs. Barry joined the UVB system in the Williamsburg office in 1967, and became United Virginia BankAmericard representative in the Tidewater area in 1972. She was promoted to regional BankAmericard manager in 1973.

Mrs. Barry is a graduate of Granby High School and attended Old Dominion University.

Welfare crackdown due for area

A welfare support enforcement unit—designed to crack down on individuals who desert or fail to provide support for their families—has been opened in the Tidewater area, according to Virginia Welfare Commissioner William L. Lohard.

Oct. 15 marked the first day of operation for the office, which serves Chesapeake, Portsmouth and Virginia Beach as well as a number of other Tidewater-area communities.

Authorized by the 1974 General Assembly, the Support Enforcement Unit is charged with locating and obtaining support payments from absent responsible parents. Such support payments will be used to pay back federal and state monies being expended for welfare.

Once the program is fully operational, officials say, the Tidewater Regional Unit will be able to collect about $1.5 million annually. Currently, almost $1.44 million is being collected for support of about 1,646 families as a result of past efforts by local welfare agencies and courts.

Franklin Taft, supervisor of the Tidewater Regional Support Enforcement Unit, and his staff of field investigators will use whatever means available to locate the parent that has deserted his or her family. They may use the records of the Virginia Employment Commission, the Virginia Division of Motor Vehicles or the Virginia Department of Taxation.

Because the program is nationwide, requests for local services may also be made of other states when it seems the missing parent has left Virginia. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare operates the Federal Parent Locator Service and the Support Enforcement agency will use this service to locate missing parents when necessary.

Two of the ordinances include a fee schedule for individuals who hook up within 60 days of availability of service and two reflect the higher charges for individuals who hook up after 60 days. Council approved the ordinances.

The Support Enforcement Program is administered by the Virginia Department of Welfare's Bureau of Support Enforcement within the Division of Administration. The Tidewater Support Enforcement Unit is an operational unit of the Department's Tidewater Regional Office. Offices are located in the Pembroke Four Building at the Pembroke Office Park in Virginia Beach. The telephone number for the unit is (804) 490-1681.

A RECORD OF INTELLIGENT LEADERSHIP AND ACCOMPLISHMENT

Working for you, our Congressman has achieved a record of accomplishment, service, and intelligent leadership rarely seen in Congress today. House Minority Leader John Rhodes put it simply but accurately: "Congress needs more men like Bob Daniel."

A LEADER, NOT A "YES-MAN"

Unlike so many politicians, Bob Daniel has refused to use his office to gain any special privileges. Instead, he has pushed to get the Congress back on the right track by devoting his energy and talents to several critical goals: educational and job opportunities, safe neighborhoods, a strong national defense, and a commitment to help people with their problems.

As one Chesapeake resident wrote, "We like the things you support and stand for as a Congressman."

LOWER SPENDING, NOT HIGHER TAXES

Bob knows that excessive government spending causes both inflation and higher taxes. His efforts to clamp curbs on government spending have earned him the reputation of the "Axe" in Washington.

Bob Daniel has maintained one of the best voting attendance records in Congress, and he has developed a careful, thoughtful approach to his job.

A JOB, NOT WELFARE

Because Bob believes that a job is better than welfare, he co-sponsored the Jobs Creation Act, which would use tax cuts and investment incentives to stimulate the economy without inflation or phony make-work. President Kennedy used a similar approach in the 1960's, and Bob knows it can work again to get the economy moving and to fight unemployment.

As he told a Portsmouth community group, "I believe every American who wants to work should have a job -- a good job."

Bob Daniel spends a lot of time working on legislation, but he knows that he must do more to be a good Congressman than just cast his vote. He knows that one of his most important duties is to help people.

ACTION, NOT TALK

People in Tidewater and Southside Virginia have learned that they can count on Bob when they really need him.

If his help is needed, Bob Daniel is not afraid to tackle a big problem, like the time he got the Commerce Department to back down on a peanut embargo that threatened Virginia's peanut farmers. Or the time he convinced the Department of Housing and Urban Development to give back to Chesapeake an important housing grant which had been cancelled.

At the same time, though, Bob has the compassion and understanding to work with smaller, individual problems.

"We are grateful," an Emporia resident warmly stated, "to have a representative in Congress such as yourself whom we can go to with our problems."

SERVICE, NOT POLITICS

Considering legislation and solving problems, Bob has learned to work well with men from all political parties: Dave Satterfield and Dan Daniel, both Democrats; Bill Whitehurst, a Republican; and Virginia's respected Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr., an Independent. These men share Bob's goals and philosophy, and are counted among his most valued friends.

Those who know Bob Daniel were not surprised that he gained a reputation for hard work and service. The same qualities that make him a good Congressman helped him earn a Phi Beta Kappa key as an undergraduate at the University of Virginia, and helped him complete the demanding course of study for a Master of Business Administration degree at Columbia University.

EXPERIENCE, NOT PROMISES

Few men bring as wide a range of experience as Bob Daniel did to public office. After serving his country in the Army, he worked as a financial analyst and taught economics at the University of Richmond. He was active as a church leader and served as a volunteer fireman. He did volunteer work for the YMCA, and for a local hospital. He served Virginia as a member of the State Board of Conservation and Economic Development. He lives with his wife, Sally, and their three children on a farm, historic Brandon, that is thought to be the oldest continuously operated farm in America.

To continue working for you, he needs your vote on Tuesday, Election Day.

As the Norfolk Ledger-Star noted, Bob Daniel has "proved himself capable of serving ably in Washington."

"He has earned the opportunity to continue that representation and that service."

Congress does need more men like Bob Daniel. As voters in the Fourth District of Virginia, we cannot control the outcome of other elections in other states. But our vote can help keep one good man in office. If we do just that, we've done a lot for ourselves, our families, and our country.

Council considers access

Virginia Beach is considering marking public easements leading to the beach front at Sandridge, City Manager George Hanbury told City Council last week.

"Although the public now uses the beaches in front of private residences at Sandridge, none of the public approaches are marked," Hanbury said. He explained that Virginia Beach is considering marking these approaches and perhaps putting in walkways so that the dunes will not be destroyed by beach-goers.

The question came up in a discussion of a request by a Sandridge developer to delete a condition in a rezoning case requiring the developer to dedicate a 30-foot pedestrian and emergency vehicle access easement. The easement would be from the mean high water line shoreward.

By a vote of 7-2 at the formal session, Council removed the 30-foot requirement along with its approval of Atlantic Beach Corporation's change of zoning from resort-commercial to residential.

One parcel consists of 3.2 acres located at the southeast corner of Pike Lane and Sandridge Road, Pungo Borough, and the other is approximately two acres located on the south side of Pike Lane between Sandridge Road and Sandridge Road.

While current zoning would allow a variety of commercial establishments, the new zoning allows a total of approximately 16 family residential units.

Councilman Robert B. Cromwell Jr., voted against rezoning without the 30-foot easement because he believed it was city policy to require easements to insure public access to beaches.

City Manager Hanbury said that lifting the condition brings the property in line with all the other development along the beach front. The 30-foot pedestrian easement has been required, he said, only in cases of a major condominium or major subdivision, such as those along Chesapeake Beach.

If a commercial area develops in Sandridge, he said, the 30-foot easement would be required.

Councilwoman Meyers Oberdorfer voted with Cromwell against the petition. Councilman R. L. Riggs, whose brother is in business with James H. Kabler, a principal of the Atlantic Beach Corporation, abstained, and Councilman George R. Ferrell was absent.

In other actions, Council:

--Approved a petition from Lewis F. Bldie and Robert E. Stafford for a change of zoning from community-business to apartment district on 13.6 acres in the Shore Drive-Diamond Springs Road area. The zoning will allow approximately 326 apartment units at a density of 24 units per acre.

Approved petition of N. S. Guntenspergen for a change of zoning on three parcels of property on the south side of Kempville Road, from residential to apartment district for 28.47 acres, from residential to office district on 12.65 acres and from residential to community business on 32.43 acres.

--Approved a conditional use permit of the Virginia Beach Investment Corporation for offices on the first floor of two apartment buildings located in Sandbury Lake Village, College Park, Kempville Borough for medical offices.

--Granted a use permit to Extender Properties, Inc., to operate a hospital and a professional-medical office building on the piece of property located at the northeast corner of Independence Boulevard and North Wildcat Road, Mayor Clarence A. Holland, a member of the hospital's Board abstained.

--Destroyed until next week action on three ordinances relating to sewer and water line fees.

Granted tax refunds totaling $688.10.

--Authorized submission of a grant application to the Division of Justice and Crime Prevention for provision of a radio communications system for the sheriff's department, the estimated cost of the total system is $20,004. Of this amount, the matching requirement is $1,002.

--Authorized submission of a grant application to the Division of Justice and Crime Prevention for provision of advanced training for the Police Department. The estimated cost is $25,000 with local matching requirement of $1,250.

--Approved standard water and sewer agreements for Woodstock Cove II, Kempville Borough.

--Granted a raffle permit to Mailbu Elementary School P.T.A.

Vote resolution

Reserve officers oppose deactivation of Ft. Story

At its national convention in July the Reserve Officers Association of the United States passed a resolution calling for the retention of Fort Story in Virginia Beach.

The membership called up on the Department of Defense to "retain all lands at Fort Story under control of the Department of the Army for military requirements of the Army, Navy and Marines for national defense preparedness."

The resolution said the majority of eight land utilization surveys from December 1970 to December 1975 had "conclusively proven that there is a military requirement to retain all of Fort Story." It is an active installation. The Army announced in April that it was considering closure or reduction to a semi-active status for Fort Story.

Saying that City Council and others had made repeated efforts to obtain all or part of Fort Story the association also cited efforts of innkeepers to acquire the area "to accommodate 'day visitors' in order to keep the beaches in front of hotels and motels available for their guests."

All about lighting

$30 per year to burn bulbs

By LEE DAVID COHEN

It costs about $30 per year to continually burn a 100-watt light bulb in Virginia Beach.

If you consider the number of light bulbs in your home, even though they may not burn for 24 hours or be 100-watt bulbs, you can see how your electricity bill could mount. Try to use zoned lighting for special purposes such as reading, watching television, washing dishes, and doing laundry.

Here are some lighting facts:

--Fluorescent lighting saves electricity. A 40-watt fluorescent fixture (bulb) provides more light than a 100-watt incandescent light bulb. The fluorescent bulb also costs half as much to operate as the incandescent light, and the bulb lasts 10 times longer.

--Brightness of a light bulb is measured in lumens. A watt refers to the amount of electricity it takes to make a bulb work. Check the lumens for the size bulb you need for a specific area.

--Always turn off lights when you leave a room.

Workshops cover variety of subjects

The Commonwealth Counseling and Consulting Services, Inc., of Virginia Beach is offering a series of four workshops in October and November that cover a variety of subjects.

"All workshops will be held at Lisbea, a seminar and retreat center located in the Back Bay area of Virginia Beach.

The four workshops are:
--"Divorce, Emotional and Legal" will examine the process that people go through when concluding a divorce. The workshop will explore the emotional aspects as well as the legal aspects of divorce as it affects all parties.
--"Basic Gestalt Techniques" will examine Gestalt as an approach to therapy which has been increasing in popularity. This workshop is designed to provide basic philosophy and techniques of Gestalt Therapy.

--"Helping Skills for Developing Human Resources" will cover counseling, interviewing and coaching processes which are important supervisory and management tools for improving the quality and quantity of employees work.

--"Techniques of Sexual Therapy" will deal with therapy of specific sexual problems.

The workshops will be presented on Oct. 25, Nov. 4, Nov. 12 and Nov. 18 respectively.

For additional information about costs and registration call 424-1485.

Exxon granted permit

The Exxon Corporation has been granted a conditional use permit to build an automobile service station at the northeast corner of Great Neck Road and First Colonial Road in Lynnhaven Borough.

In granting the permit Virginia Beach City Council overrode the recommendation of the Planning Commission which voted unanimously (12 votes) to deny the request.

The Commission termed the application premature and preferred to wait until a plan is submitted for the entire 27-acre parcel of land on 30,625 square feet of which the station will be located.

James M. Pickrell, Exxon attorney, said a community shopping center is planned for the remainder of the parcel and that the company will make a $270,000 investment in the station which will realize $125,000 in annual taxes to the city.

Councilman John A. Baum suggested that the Planning Commission may be continuing its policy of denying new service station development started when a number of service stations went out of business following the oil embargo.

Council voted unanimously to grant the permit. Councilman George R. Ferrell was absent.

Disney on parade?

Planetarium presents Bicentennial special

The Virginia Beach City Public Schools Planetarium program for November is titled, "The People" and will center on American Indian legends about the sky.

"The People" begins with a beautiful Indian myth about the creation of the world and proceeds in successive legends through the creation of the sun, the stars, the blemishes on the moon, the rainbow, and the seasons.

Some of the legends are profound; some are humorous. All are deeply touching in the view they give us of the first Americans living in harmony with all of nature—living as brothers and sisters with all living things. The myths retold in "The People" come from 16 different Indian nations, spread across the breadth of the continent.

A team of distinguished native Americans, anthropologists, and astromers have reviewed the script of "The People" for authenticity. The star show was developed by the Hansen Planetarium of Salt Lake City under a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities and is part of the American Bicentennial Celebration.

About 300 planetariums will present "The People" in the months to come. Planetarium Hours are: Sunday: 7 p.m. on Nov. 7, 14, 21 and 28.

Tuesday: 7 p.m. on Nov. 2, 16, 23 and 30th. The planetarium is easily accessible from the 44 toll road by taking the Lynnhaven Exit to the Lynnhaven Parkway, and turning right at the first street, South Lynnhaven Road, to Plaza Junior High School, where the planetarium is located.

The planetarium seats 120 people. Telephone the main office at Plaza Junior High School, 486-1971 for reservations. Admission is free.

Nursing home to be built in Kempsville Borough

Beth Shalom Home of Virginia, Inc. will construct a 200-bed nursing home at College Park.

Virginia Beach City Council last week granted the corporation a conditional use permit for the building which will be located on 9.38 acres at the southwest corner of College Park Boulevard and Auburn Drive, Kempsville Borough.

Among conditions for the use permit is a requirement for full sprinkler protection with smoke detectors because excess traffic creates limited fire fighting apparatus access on the Southern and western portions of the site.

At NAS Oceana

Loranna Blankenship chosen 'Sailor of Month'

By NADIA STORY
Many factors are taken into consideration for the selection of NAS Oceana's "Sailor of the Month."

Among these are professional ability and initiative, military bearing, leadership and personal involvement. Airman (AN) Loranna B. Blankenship fits all these factors, and therefore has been selected NAS Oceana's Sailor of the Month for October.

Working for Oceana's supply department, she has displayed a great deal of energy, attention to detail and abundant enthusiasm in fulfilling her responsibilities. Mrs. Blankenship was cited for continually demonstrating considerable foresight, tact, and a pleasant disposition and a helpful attitude. A Colorado native, Loranna is part of a huge family. She has over 34 foster brothers and sisters, many of whom still keep in touch. Airman Blankenship considers herself a "home-body". She enjoys such handicrafts as crocheting, knitting, needlepoint, quilting, and embroidery. Loranna also sews most of her own clothes. She says that her four bedroom trailer is just jammed with all of her hand-craft materials. Oh yes, her husband Jim, has his own tool room.

For relaxation, Airman Blankenship and her husband enjoy dancing. They have won over seven dancing contests in the Virginia Beach area. Mrs. Blankenship bowls in the Supply Department League. She also shoots pool every now and then.

As Sailor of the Month, Loranna Blankenship received a framed letter of commendation, a free steak dinner for two at her club and a 72-hour liberty.

Praise from across America for Virginia's Senator Byrd...

"Harry Byrd is an excellent Senator who represents Virginia and the nation with dedication, fidelity and integrity. He has been consistently he has been persuasive. He is a man of independent views who expresses his views forcefully and effectively. He has been a shining example to the nation, especially in the field of fiscal integrity."

Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana
Senate Majority Leader

"During the past ten years Harry Byrd has put in long hours and much hard work in behalf of the people of Virginia and of our nation. He is an able, conscientious and effective member of the Senate, and he is highly respected by all of his colleagues on both sides of the aisle..."

Senator Robert Byrd of West Virginia
Assistant Senate Democratic Leader

"Guided by his unyielding dedication to the public interest, Harry Byrd has not only earned wide respect, but he also stands as a shining example to his colleagues and the country."

Senator Robert Griffin of Michigan
Assistant Senate Republican Leader

"Few if any members of the Senate are more conscientious or more effective in their efforts than Senator Byrd. He is dedicated not to his own glorification, but to able and businesslike representation of his state and his nation... Virginia and the nation have every reason to be proud of the diligence and effectiveness of Senator Byrd."

Senator Russell B. Long of Louisiana
Chairman, Senate Finance Committee

"In all my years of my public service, I have never seen a more dedicated public servant than Senator Byrd. He attacks every problem in a forthright and courageous manner, without regard for how it might affect his political fortunes."

Senator Herman Talmadge
Democrat of Georgia

"...a great and courageous Virginian who has added distinction to a distinguished family... an American who has devoted all his skill and strength to preserving the best of the American tradition."

Senator James Buckley
Republican of New York

"Senator Harry F. Byrd... makes us significant contributions to the United States Senate and deserves reelection."

Senator Abraham Ribicoff
Democrat of Connecticut

"In our judgment, Harry Byrd's political independence and often lonely stance for his beliefs stand in sharp contrast to what so many voters view as a mess in Washington. Without compromising his basic philosophy, he has become very much a man of his time, because he is viewed as a man of honor and integrity at a time when so many political figures have fallen into disrepute."

Maragon honored

John P. Maragon of Virginia Beach, regional real estate agent in the marketing department of Texaco Inc., was presented a 20-year service award it was announced today.

Maragon began his career with Texaco in 1956 as general salesman in the marketing department and subsequently held positions of merchandising salesman, and supervisor-distribution development. He was assigned to his present position of regional real estate agent in 1970.

Maragon is a graduate of Hampton University, where he and his wife and daughter.

The award was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Maragon at a dinner in their honor at Steinhilber's Thalia Acres Inn in Virginia Beach.

D.C. Maul selected

Airman Daniel C. Maul, whose parents are retired U.S. Navy Senior Chief Petty Officer and Mrs. William R. Maul of 408 Bethune Dr. in Virginia Beach, has been selected for technical training at Lowry AFB, Colo., in the Air Force purchasing field.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas.

Airman Maul attended Floyd E. Kellam High School.

Reitelbach earns certificate

W. Earl Reitelbach of Virginia Beach, a supervisory training instructor in shop 51 at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard, was one of five employees who recently received administrative management certificates from the University of Virginia's School of Continuing Education.

Reitelbach participated in the two-year training program and completed 30 hours of college credit by attending evening classes.

A former apprentice, Reitelbach has served as electrician, gyrocompass mechanic, and instructor, during his 14-year career. He is active in the shipyard's Merrimac Toastmaster Club No. 3125, and is a past area eight governor for Toastmasters International.

plus. The helicopters, said City Manager George Hanbury, are useful in law enforcement.

The city started with two, then added a third, and fourth which is used to furnish parts for the other three. Now the city needs a shop for the helicopters.

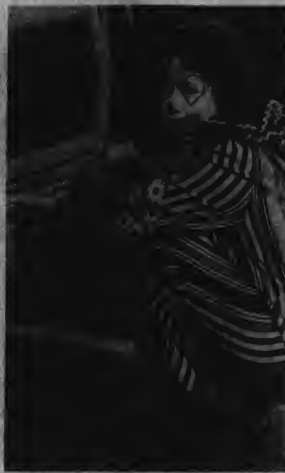

Council was asked Monday afternoon to award a contract for the shop to Cardinal Building Corporation to construct the shop for $93,900. Hanbury said the figure will be reduced to $81,148 by eliminating some asphalt work.

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing questioned the expenditure, asking that a report be given on helicopter services, but he also made a motion to award the contract to Cardinal, the low bidder.

Councilman John R. Griffin remarked that the city started with two free helicopters and seems to be ending up with a department "with hangars and pads."

Hanbury said that if the city decided to discontinue using helicopters, the shop could be used for expanding the city's welding, body and paint shop which is housed in the city garage. He also invited Councilmen to visit the helicopter operation.

Council accepted the low bid by a vote of 9-1 with Councilwoman Meyers Oberdorff dissenting. Councilman George R. Ferrell was absent.

Beach earns safety award

Gov. Mills E. Godwin recently presented representatives of the City of Virginia Beach with an award for its pedestrian safety program, a plan sponsored by the American Automobile Association.

Virginia Beach ranked sixth of 27 cities with 200,000 - 500,000 populations throughout the United States who received these citations.

Selection of the award was based on the city's pedestrian casualty record for 1975. In 1975, only 12 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents in Virginia Beach were pedestrian-related (There were 33 accidents killing 35 persons during this year.) This was a decrease from 1974.

Reeves E. Johnson, acting director of the Department of Public Works and chairman of the Virginia Beach Highway Safety Commission, and Capt. H. C. Terry, Virginia Beach Police Department, accepted the award on behalf of the city.

Addresses to change

The "country" in Virginia Beach is in the process of acquiring city-like addresses.

The city has started a program, expected to take about two years, of substituting street numbers and names for the rural route numbers in the southern end of the city. The change is being made to make it easier for 1980 census takers to get a more accurate count of the Beach population and to make it easier to locate individual homes.

Residents will receive a notice by registered mail six months prior to the change to give them time to change addresses on checkbooks, stationery, magazines and other documents.

"A smile, a frown, or a pat on the back is better than acting like a policeman," says Conrad Parker of officiating, and he should know.

Parker has more officiating credentials than Jimmy Carter has peanuts. Well, almost. Anyway, Parker does like to officiate, and he does a lot of it.

He has worn the black-and-white for recreation basketball, community softball, city baseball, and is in his first year on the Southeastern Board of Football Officials, officiating jayvee and Jr. High games until his three year "training period" is up.

Parker is also Umpiring Chief for the Metro-Norfolk Amateur Softball Association.

Sunspot

His coaching credentials are impressive as well. He has coached basketball for nine years at Bayside High, where he teaches physical education, he coaches the golf team there, and he coaches a Bronco League football team. Whew.

"My first love is officiating," said Parker recently. Every man does something he thinks he can reach the top in, and with me, it's officiating."

He admits though, that he is a novice in football. "It's the toughest for me, since I haven't done it as much as the other sports."

He had to take a couple tests to qualify him to officiate football, and claimed, "I had to study harder for those than I did for college tests."

Softball is what he feels most competent officiating, and two years ago, umpired in the National Industrial Slow-Pitch Tournament in Charlotte, N.C. "That was one of my biggest thrills," smiled Parker.

Working behind the plate is not without its difficulties. "I got hit by a foul-tip in a baseball game once," recalled Parker, "and I lost a toenail. It happened in the second inning, but I finished the game."

Parker recalled a more humorous episode. "I was calling a softball game at Gettysburg one night, and the batter hit a high fly to the outfield. The fielder was camped under the ball when someone cut off the lights. You couldn't see anything, and all you could hear was (bleep)." There are those who feel that because of the abuse officials take, they must have definite masochistic tendencies to accept such a job. Parker says that's not so. "I don't even hear the critics until they are in my face. I feel that if I do a good job, they have got to respect me. I just remember the keys to officiating. Know your rules, stay in position, hustle and stay firm."

There are some occasions that an umpire must stay firm even though he knows he made a mistake. "Once during a baseball game, I was working behind the plate, and the pitcher threw a knuckle ball that came sailing in and dropped low at the last second. It was a ball, but I called strike. The batter lined out on the next pitch, and came over to me asked about the pitch. I told him it was a ball."

His excuse is the obvious one. "I'm only human," he explained. "I've never seen a game where the players didn't make mistakes, and I miss some calls."

What is the motivating force behind his officiating drive? "I just love being involved. It's not the money. I love working with the kids and I love the games. Show me an official who does it for the money, and I'll show you an official who has a hard time," said the Guilford College (N.C.) graduate.

"It takes a certain personality to be an official."

It certainly does, and Conrad Parker has that personality.

Lewis receives ODU scholarship

Old Dominion University baseball shortstop Alan Price of Virginia Beach has been selected to receive the Max W. Lewis memorial athletic scholarship for the 1978-79 school year.

Besides averaging a hit a game during the past two years, Price has been a defensive leader for the Monarchs against some of the strongest intercollegiate competition on the East Coast. He also has achieved a B average in his studies.

Cadets excel at FMA

Five students at Frederick Military Academy in Portsmouth, who are from Virginia Beach, excelled in last week's 24-21 victory over Hampton Roads Academy.

Lionel Blow returned an interception 25 yards, caught four passes for 74 yards, scored one touchdown, punted for a 40 yard average, and ran the ball four times for 15 yards.

Pat Gullroy, a defensive standout for the Lions, made five assisted tackles and assisted on four others.

Steve Hall and Al Potter made three and four assisted tackles respectively, and the same number of assists.

Mike Oglesbee rushed nine times for FMA, and netted 40 yards.

Grappler lessons

There aren't many people with more wrestling experience than Wayne Boyd, and now he is going to relinquish some of his knowledge to all those who enroll in his wrestling school.

Boyd was a NCAA champion in 1970, wrestling in the 126 pound class, and his other honors are many indeed.

The school is for youngsters ages seven to twelve, and classes will be held twice weekly, from Nov. 15 to Feb. 16.

Boyd, an Olympic alternate during his junior year in high school, said he teaches self-discipline in a program that develops total body strength and co-ordination.

pigskin prognostications

Kempville hosts the Indian River Braves of the Southeastern District and a victory will not be easy in coming. The Braves quarterback Ervin Young has been among the area leaders all year, as has his primary receiver, Bobby Ricks. The game should be a defensive gem, as both clubs excel in this area. Kempville will keep rolling though. Cox will beat the Braves by 10.

Cox plays Booker T. Washington at home, and should not have too much difficulty getting up for this one. As co-champion with Kempville, the non-conference games will decide who represents the Beach District in post-season play. Cox will beat the Bookers by 15.

The Lake Taylor Revue, starring "Famous Ames" Lawrence, takes its championship show to Princess Anne, who splits its top billing between Jimmy Dinardo and Jesse Williams. The Titans hope to catch the Cavaliers while they are feeling low after a poor performance against Kempville. It won't happen. P.A. will bounce back and surprise Lake Taylor. By 6.

Murry plays at First Colonial, following not only their first victory of the season, but the first game they have scored in as well. No difference to Frank Webster's Patriots. They have won three in a row, and will make it four. First Colonial by 10.

The Pilots of Norview take on Bayside's Marlins in a contest of teams who could have won it all. Norview hasn't played impressively since it was slaughtered by Hampton three weeks ago. Bayside has nothing left to play for but pride, and they are a proud team. That, plus the home-field edge will propel them to their sixth victory of the season. Bayside by 7.

Kellam goes to Norfolk to play Granby, after seeing their title aspirations go down the tubes. Granby hasn't won a game yet, and doesn't figure to win this one. Billy Carter's arm will pick up the Knights, and guide them to another win. Of course their defense will probably shutout the Comets. Kellam by 15.

Gymnasts place in meet

Two months ago, an old garage near Mt. Trashmore was converted into a gymnasium, and the American Gymnastic Club was born.

The club trains girls ages nine through 15, and recently took their top 15 competitors to Trenton State College for the New Jersey Open, a meet sanctioned by the U.S. Gymnastics Federation.

The girls practice four to five times a week, and it was at the meet that they were awarded their first trophies. "It's easier to teach the younger girls," said Miss Roberts, "because they are still afraid of us as teachers. Also the younger kids are stronger for their size, and get results sooner than if they were older."

It would be very surprising if we did not hear more from these agile gymnasts girls.

Coached by Nancy Roberts and Nancy Thompson, the girls show amazing poise and ability. In fact, the coaches felt that some of the girls show enough promise to make the U. S. Olympic team in 1980.

Naturally, they all watched the Romanian wonder, Nadia Comaneci, as she registered perfect scores in the Montreal Olympics. "Do what she does," Miss Roberts instructed the girls, "she's good."

The two coaches are realizing their life-long dream with the acquisition of the gym, having performed gymnastics themselves at Princess Anne High and Old Dominion University. "We also trained at various clinics in California, Maine and New York," explained Miss Roberts.

And now they have their own school, teach their own girls, and do surprisingly well in competition. None of the girls have taken lessons for more than four years.

O.K., so how's the wife...

When asked how his Princess Anne basketball team will fare this year, coach Leo Anthony replied, "My golf team is going to be great!" It seems the Cavs will open up against some super-strong competition this year.

Mike Worrell, the Beach's foremost Hobie Cat sailor, will soon be featured in "Hobie Hollins," a publication for and about catamaran enthusiasts. Worrell, who generally sails every day, hasn't been out lately much. "It's easy to find a crew when it's nice and sunny, but it's a different story when it's cold," he explained.

The Beach District, in its first year, has certainly been unpredictable. For awhile it looked as if Bayliss would win the football crown. Next Cox appeared headed for the title. Kellam was in the driver's seat, and then Princess Anne was sitting pretty. Now, it is Kempville who has emerged from the pack, along with Cox again, to capture a tie in this wacky division.

Cox quarterback Randy Goffigan, whose team floundered briefly, was 0 for 16 passing in his last two games, both losses. Then, with the district championship on the line, he completed seven of nine attempts for 83 yards and a tie for the Beach District title. This was done against a superteam Kellam defense.

Princess Anne's star runners, Jessie Williams and Jimmy DiMarzio have finally been stopped. Well, slowed down. The two were held to just 80 yards by Kempville last week, in Kempville's biggest win, and P.A.'s biggest loss, of the season. Chief coach Ed Booth, a man who spends his game-time quietly pacing the side-lines, explained that he brought his secondary in, specifically to contain the P.A. runners. It worked.

Last spring, Lisa Weber was Intermediate State Champion, Kim Moore won the beginner's title, and Kim Lewis finished second in the beginner's. Annette Evans was the Advanced State Champion, and Diane Givens is the Junior State Champion.

The girls practice four to five times a week, and it was at the meet that they were awarded their first trophies.

It would be very surprising if we did not hear more from these agile gymnasts girls.

Cheerleader of the week

Sue McKinney

Our cheerleader this week is Sue McKinney of Kempville High. Pleased as punch about the Chief's rise to the top of the district, Sue said she expected it. A junior, she plans on becoming a commercial artist someday.

Jet guns will be used for flu vaccinations

The jet injector gun which will be used to give flu vaccine to thousands of Virginia Beach residents Nov. 6 and 7 traces its beginnings to a 19th century industrial accident. But it took nearly half a century for it to evolve from mechanic's tool to medical instrument.

Back in the 1890's, French factory workers operating grease guns complained about injecting themselves, instead of their intended targets, with grease.

It was much later, however, that biomedical researchers went to work to find a practical, portable, and effective variation on the principle of the grease gun to inject a jet of immunizing liquid at high pressure and velocity through the skin.

For more than 20 years, in this country, the jet injector has taken the place of the needle in giving shots to large numbers of people at one time. It has been used extensively in military and civilian populations for tens of millions of measles vaccinations. But to most Americans, it's still a curiosity.

The first injectors developed weighed more than 75 pounds, were hard to sterilize and barely delivered 100 shots before they fell to pieces, according to those who worked with them. They were also dependent upon an electrical power supply which was a drawback in lesser developed nations.

"It wasn't what we needed," said Aaron Linsach, a developer of the jet injector as we know it today, "but it did prove that it was a feasible theory and gave us something to work on from there."

In 1957 Mr. Linsach, then civilian technical director of the U.S. Army Medical Equipment Laboratory, was assigned to work out a jet injector design with Dr. Abram Benenson, now Dean of the Medical School at the University of Kentucky doing the medical validation, the team turned out seven prototypes in 1959-60.

Then at last, the guns had a nozzle through which fluid was released to penetrate the skin. The early nozzles were made of stainless steel, but the steel eroded under the high pressure of the liquid fluid, causing a larger opening than desirable to deliver vaccine accurately. Mr. Linsach began the search for a more durable nozzle. He found it in a surprise-jewel which could be used almost indefinitely without losing its shape.

This jet gun is the same as the one that will be used here

Though there are several kinds of jet injectors, the one which will probably be seen most frequently is made so that bottles of vaccine are placed on top of the gun and the fluid fed in correct doses, as determined by a setting of the gun, into the delivery area. Some models of the gun are operated by foot pedal-hydraulic systems; others by use of oxygen; others by electrical power sources and still others by hand cranks.

The nozzle of the gun is placed against the skin of the arm while the operator grasps the arm above the elbow. The nozzle is then gently pushed against the arm, the trigger squeezed and a slight stinging sensation is felt as the vaccine enters the arm and disperses in a mushroom pattern rather than the ball pattern given by needle injections.

Since development of the modern jet injectors, which weigh in at about 12 pounds, they have been used in immunization campaigns throughout the world. More than a quarter billion injections of all kinds, at an average jet injector cost of 7/10ths of a cent, were given in West Africa where the Center for Disease Control waged war against smallpox, measles, yellow fever, typhoid, and tetanus.

In Brazil more than 100 million smallpox vaccinations were given and some 61 million doses of meningococcal vaccine.

"The widespread use of jet injection equipment in Africa and Brazil set the pace for smallpox eradication in the world," said Dr. J. Donald Millar, Director, Bureau of State Services, CDC. "In this country, jet injectors have been used since World War II as the primary means of mass vaccination—no other form comes as close to the efficiency, reliability, and efficacy of jet injector vaccinations."

"The most recent use of the jet injectors in this country is in intensive measles control efforts," said Dr. Millar. "It is now possible to sniff out outbreaks quickly by vaccinating susceptible children—whole schools full of them—in a matter of a couple of hours."

Vaccination by jet injector is approximately 10 times as fast as immunization by needle, according to Dr. Millar. With the needle, an operator could vaccinate only about 60 people an hour, as opposed to some 800 an hour by jet injector.

In November of 1975, during an outbreak of diphtheria in Atlanta, some 220,000 persons received jet injections during a 30-day period. During the Salk vaccine program, one operator did 1,400 shots in one hour.

Jet injectors will be provided to the states for use during the influenza campaign and will later be available for other public health efforts.

Betty Alt joins TCC Beach faculty

Mrs. Betty Alt, newest addition to the Sociology Department at the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College, came to Tidewater early in September when her husband, Air Force Major William E. Alt, was reassigned to the staff of CINCLANT.

Mrs. Alt, a Colorado native, has degrees from Colorado College and Northeast Missouri State University and has applied for admission to a doctoral program at V.P.I.

She has taught previously at Indian Hills Community College, Iowa; Middlesex Community College, Bedford, Mass., where she was chairman of the Social Science Department for two years; and Auburn University at Montgomery.

Her comprehensive background and experience will provide additional strength and depth to the Sociology Department.

The Alts live in quarters on the Naval Amphibious Base and have one daughter, Eden, a sophomore at Cox High School in Virginia Beach.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC CONCERNING THE NATURAL GAS SHORTAGE

In an Order dated September 23, 1978, the State Corporation Commission adopted a schedule of priorities for available gas supplies to become effective for gas service provided on and after November 1, 1978. The schedule of priorities has been adopted to describe the order in which service to customers will be reduced, or terminated if necessary, when gas supplies are inadequate to meet the requirements of all customers. A copy of these rules, "Natural Gas Priorities and Rules", may now be reviewed in the office of the State Corporation Commission or at any office of the gas company where the customer's gas bill may be paid.

Each gas company has been directed to file revised rules implementing the schedule of priorities by October 11, 1978, such tariffs to become effective for service rendered on and after November 1, 1978. These tariff revisions may be reviewed by interested parties after October 11, 1978, in the office of the State Corporation Commission or at any office of the gas company where the customer's gas bill may be paid.

Any interested party who has questions regarding the schedule of priorities and the gas company tariffs should first contact the gas company. If any party wishes, after contacting the gas company, to discuss questions with the Commission, then he or she should contact the Commission by calling the Commission's toll-free number, 1-800-558-9760, or by writing to the Natural Gas Priorities Rules, State Corporation Commission, P.O. Box 1197, Richmond, Virginia 23209.

Free classified ads

If you have a dog or cat or anything you want to give away, we will run your classified ad absolutely FREE. Yes, that's right, we'll run your ad in our popular FREE BEE section. This is a public service provided by your hometown community newspaper.

Your FREE BEE ad will reach just the right people who will provide a nice home for your animal. And if it's something else you have to give away, your friends and neighbors will appreciate your generosity. So call 547-4571 to place your FREE BEE ad today. Or, if you prefer, send your FREE BEE announcement to: Byerly Publications, P.O. Box 1327, Chesapeake, VA. 23320.

All announcements are published in all three Byerly Publications hometown newspapers: If you appreciate the service we are offering write us a "Letter to the editor." We always want to know how we can serve you better.

Here's A Smart, Money-Saving Way To Furnish Your First Apartment!

Take advantage of today's affluence by shopping the Classified Section of this newspaper. Many families replace furniture, appliances, stereos, TV's, rugs, drapes and other things you need while they are still in excellent condition. To make room for their new things, these people run Classified Ads to sell their present things. This is a terrific opportunity for you to cash in on great buys!

Start reading the (Your Paper) Classified Ads today. You'll furnish your place just the way you want it, and save money at the same time.

Lose Something?

Find it fast with a (Your Paper)
Classified Ad.

There's no better way to have your valuable personal items for pets or other articles returned than through a far-reaching "Lost" ad in the Classified Section.

Most people, when they find something, turn to the "Lost" column right away to find out where and how to reach the owner. So, it just makes good sense to dial the phone number below and get your ad started the minute you discover something is missing.

To get your lost item back in a hurry, don't delay! Get a "Lost" ad on its way to the finder fast.

BLUE PETE'S RESTAURANT

A fresh Seafood Restaurant located in rural Virginia Beach about a stones throw from the former witch of Pungo's home. Our decor is rustic and the atmosphere is casual and homely. A small friendly place in the woods on the Back Bay. Seafood is prepared and cooked by the owner. For a unique dining experience take a trip to the country.

While dining at Blue Pete's visit the Craft Shop where you will find unusual hand made items by local craftsman.

Quilts dolls, Xmas ornaments, eggery, photographs, everlasting candles, home made jelly or a driftwood clock may be the perfect gift for that special person.

Maison Michelle

A Portsmouth restaurant in a Virginia Beach restaurant guide is only practical if the dining experience is unique, and for the past year Beach residents have found that MAISON MICHELLE offers an atmosphere and cuisine that is unequalled in the Tidewater area.

The mood is authentically "country France" and Chef Jean Danalis' expertise is obvious in the array of menu items that have been presented during the restaurant's first year.

Reservations are a must. The dress is casual. Five-course meal including wine is offered for a fixed price. (482-2557)

Big split brings big smiles at Village Inn Pizza & Ice Cream

By Deborah L. Ioli
SUN Entertainment Writer

Feel like taking in dinner and a show... but in the absence of 10-cent movies you can't afford to do both? You're not alone in your financial frustration. But with the recent opening of the Village Inn Pizza Parlor on Laskin Road next to Hilltop Volkswagen there are now six convenient locations where you can score this prospect in an inexpensive and entertaining way.

Where else can you view continuous showings of superstars like Laurel and Hardy, Captain Marvel, Spunky and the "Our Gang" kids and other childhood classics... While sinking your teeth into the thick, chewy crust of a neapolitan-style pizza prepared one of any 20-odd ways for less than $3.00.

Not in the mood for pizza tonight? Try one of the several pasta dishes served complete with garlic bread or one of the hot oven-baked submarine sandwiches offered at the Village Inn. The deli is loaded with all kinds of goodies—salamoni (regular and kosher) baked ham, pepperoni, imported Swiss cheese, tomatoes, lettuce, and the Inn's special sauce. It's a tasty steal for $1.50.

Exhibiting my lack of will power as I sat before a dish of cannelloni and a luncheon size gourmet pie on the side, I refrained from ordering a cold mug of draft beer and chose a tab instead.

Decorated in "Early Ice Cream Parlor," the Inn's atmosphere is so relaxed and homelike that you can easily forget where you are for hours at a time while watching Yogi Bear and Boo Boo in their never-ending search for a picnic basket.

The laughter of children and adults alike is the only background music you're likely to hear while visiting the parlor, but the mood is always light and festive.

When you are ready for dessert, Breyer's all-natural ice cream prepared in countless calorie-crashing concoctions is enough to break anyone's resistance. Mine was already lost for the evening, so my only problem was deciding between my usual hot fudge sundae and the bitter-sweet, described as a humongous scoop of butter pecan

Mr. and Mrs. Foster enjoy two for one split at Inn ice cream drowned in butterscotch, a fresh banana, pure whipped cream, chocolate sprinkles, topped with a maraschino cherry and served with a pirotette cookie.

As I spotted the next ice cream entree listed on the menu, my mind was made up instantly. "INDECISION," designed for those like myself who can not decide was the best of both worlds: a hot fudge sundae and a banana split combined, and was it delicious!

Begin this week right with a Sunday brunch at the Village Inn. Sometimes described as a "cheese gone wild," the crusty quiche is made from a blend of fresh-beaten eggs, dairy cream, cheeses and seasonings combined in individual fresh-dough pie shells and baked after being topped with your choice of ham, salami, mushrooms, sweet green bell peppers, lox and/or a Bermuda onion.

Once it's at your table, you can spread on cream cheese and top it all with fresh tomato slices. Coupled with orange juice and a crisp green salad you have a breakfast extravaganza for little more than $2. Perfect for a bite after church.

Birthday parties are special, but even more special when celebrated with a party at the Village Inn. Your neighborhood manager-in-charge will be happy to make all the arrangements for you. So stop by soon for a pizza, a sundae or even just to sit and enjoy the movies and pony rides.
